

MRS. FISKE COMING HERE MONDAY IN "SALVATION NELL"

Noted American Actress to Give One Performance in Bridgeport of Her Great Dramatic Triumph.

The climactic scene of "Salvation Nell," which Mrs. Fiske will present at Jackson's Monday evening, Oct. 11, immediately precedes the final curtain. Nell, the former scrub girl in a saloon, whose efforts to redeem her "man" Jim, have all proved fruitless, is called upon to address the humble corner meeting of the Salvation Army, in which she is a worker.

SALVATION NELL'S SERMON

From Edward Sheldon's Drama, "Salvation Nell," Act III My friends, I've got nothing new to say to you; it's the old, old story I've told you so many times before. Christ was a poor man himself and He chose poor people for His friends. He knows how hard we have to work to keep poor, and He pities us because we're His brothers and sisters—every one of us. I don't care how wicked nor how low.

The rich folks have big churches to worship Him in, but we have our hearts, and He likes them just as well. The people up there that always lived decent and never done a thing to be ashamed of—I wonder if they know Him as well as you do?

You can't get Christ by thinkin' or by askin' other people or by readin' lots of books—the only way is to need Him awful bad, and then you hear Him knockin' at yer door.

Some of you may say: "We didn't get no chance, and the world's against us, an' even with Christ on our side we've never had a show." But let me tell you now your souls are the souls that count. You've sunk to the bottom, you know the bitterness an' the cruelty of life, an' it's to you, Christ an' the light, that you've turned. You've fallen rise again, we're bigger men an' women than if we'd never sinned at all. Don't you think I know? Don't you think I've borne it all myself? Oh, listen! Sometimes we find our sin—our terrible sin—what we love most in the world. It seems as if we couldn't tear it off—it's flesh of our flesh an' soul of our soul. But, oh! when we've killed it with our own two hands, when we've conquered in that awful fight, when we've nailed our bleeding heart to the cross itself—why, it seems as if all the millions who have fought and conquered since time began stretch out their arms to us in pity. Those men and women down the river of the ages—they know—they understand—they've gone down into the darkest palaces an' found the sunlight streamin' in there.

Oh, any of you that's listenin' here to-night—that perhaps I'll never meet again till at the judgment bar o' God—remember it's love that saves the world. They say it's strong as death—stronger than death—it's strong as life. (Praying) Oh, Christ, who some think can never feel the secrets in a woman's soul—help all of us that need you now—change our wickedness with yer own heart's blood—keep us pure an' clean an' strong—forever an' ever—O' Lamb of God, who takest away the sins of the world.

Deaths and Funerals Margaret, wife of Frederick Egge, passed away this morning at her home, 185 Black Rock Ave., at the age of 58 years. She was a highly estimable woman. She is survived by her husband, three sons, John, Carl and Harry, and two daughters. She was a native of Gruenstatt, Germany, but made this city her home for over 40 years.

PERSONAL MENTION Mr. Ben Graffen has resigned his position with Mr. Frank Day of Barnum avenue and has accepted a position elsewhere.

Bad Breath From Stomach and Catarrh

Many Persons Are Victims of This Disagreeable Complaint

It is quite common to hear of persons being spoken of as thorough agreeable companions, highly entertaining in conversation, fascinating and attractive in manner, gifted, well-read, accomplished and possessing all the attributes and qualifications necessary to make them desirable guests at parties and entertainments, but for the single fact that, for some cause or other, such as stomach trouble, decay of teeth, or throat and nasal catarrh, they are the unfortunate possessors of bad breath.

DEPOSED SULTAN TRIES TO ESCAPE

(Special from United Press.) Belgrade, Oct. 9.—It is reported here that the young Turk administration, following the attempt of the deposed Sultan, Abdul Hamid, to escape from his villa at Salonica yesterday, has instituted searching investigation which it believes will show that the attempt was backed by the Reactionary element. The administration believes that if the Reactionaries could liberate Abdul, the pacifying of the country, which the young Turks are finding difficult as it is, would be made almost impossible.

Abdul Hamid is closely guarded to-day and the Salonica authorities are putting the workman, in whose clothing the Sultan tried to leave the palace, under rigid examination. The mar said the Sultan stole his clothes after forcing him to take a bath. He said Abdul insisted he could not work in the Sultan's presence unless he bathed.

BIG CROWD AT JUVISY FLIGHTS

(Special from United Press.) Paris, Oct. 9.—A grim tribute to aeronautics depressed the big crowd that gathered at Juvisy, for to-day's flights in the aerial to be made at the Aero Club when the ill-fated Wright aeroplane in which Captain Lewis Ford and Forbes met death was wheeled out on the field to participate in the flights. The fatal car is in charge of Chancien, to whom it was presented by Mme. Ferber, after the death of her husband at Boulogne. As the announcer gave the history of the machine to-day the spectators sat silent. The weather was ideal but the field was still heavy because of the recent rains and the starting of the machines was difficult.

WALL STREET TO-DAY

(Special from United Press.) New York, Oct. 9.—(Opening)—The stock market opened with Steel Common under heavy pressure and showing a decline of more than a point in the first few minutes. Other stocks generally showed fractional declines. After the first few minutes a steadier tone developed. A prevalent show of weakness was due to selling by brokers in London. The market immediately rallied. Missouri, Kansas and Texas showed renewed gains, the purchases apparently being allied to the Standard Oil interests. Steel Common partially recovered.

CODY STARTS ON HIS LONG FLIGHT

American Aeroplanist, Connected With British War Office, After $50,000 Prize.

FROM LONDON TO MANCHESTER

(Special from United Press.) London, Oct. 9.—Captain S. F. Cody, the American aeroplanist connected with the British War Office, made final preparations today for the start of his long flight from London to Manchester for the $50,000 prize offered by the London Daily Mail.

The Aero Club's objection to his present exhibitions at Doncaster out of the way, Cody was in readiness for a start yesterday but the weather was not favorable.

The distance to be covered in the long flight "as the crow flies" is about 190 miles, but allowing for drifting and other necessary deviations the aviator will have to fly more than 200 miles. He is allowed two stops on the way to replenish his supply of petroleum, but Cody has equipped his aeroplane with a huge tank and he says today he can cover the whole distance without a stop.

His machine now carries twenty-five gallons of petroleum to supply his 80-horsepower engine.

The Cody aeroplane weighs about a ton. Cody has been reluctant to attempt the London-Manchester flight because he says it is a flight no man with a family should attempt.

But he has it to be understood that financial conditions compel him to make the attempt.

The towns all along the line of flight are wild with excitement today. For hours yesterday throngs of people at Bedford Leicesters, Warwick, Birmingham, Stafford, Derby, Chester and scores of smaller places strained their eyes skyward in the hope of seeing the daring aviator.

He resumed the engine places when dawn broke today, sure that Cody would fly this morning.

HAD TO GIVE UP

Alderscot, Oct. 9.—Captain F. S. Cody, the American aeroplanist who planned to make the trip in his aeroplane from London to Manchester to-day for the Daily Mail prize of $50,000 was forced to abandon the flight following two unsuccessful attempts.

In the first attempt the lubricating oil had clogged the engine and he could not start it. He tried again, arising a short distance and making a circle of the field. The engine would not spark properly and he came back to earth and announced that he would try again after making an exhibition at Doncaster next week.

CHICKEN THIEF CONFESSES CRIME

Man Who Took Jackman's Fowl Was Partial Also to Onions and Beehives.

Jacob Shearer, who is employed at the American Graphophone Co.'s factory living near the Acid Works in Fairfield, who was arrested yesterday by the Bridgeport police for stealing chickens from John M. Jackman of Stratford avenue early Sunday morning has admitted his guilt to Captain Arnold. Other articles stolen from several people were found in the house by the detectives.

He was taken to Fairfield today with Albert Rushmeyer, 258 Bostwick avenue, who Shearer alleged, was with him at the stealing. They will be tried before Justice Bacon Wakeman. As was told in last night's Farmer Captain G. H. Arnold and Detective George Fox, accompanied by Mr. Jackman in his automobile, went to the Shearer home.

Fearing that Captain Arnold would be recognized he remained in the car while Detective Fox went into the house. He represented himself as a possible purchaser of the property and asked to be shown the rooms. Mrs. Shearer objected, but finally yielded to the detective.

By this time Captain Arnold had gone to the back yard. Upon seeing him the woman exclaimed, "O, I know you," and became very much alarmed. Besides the tools, 13 chickens were found and four crates of onions belonging to a Mr. Wilson who lives in Fairfield. He identified his vegetables easily because they are the only ones of that variety grown in the state. Part of a beehive stolen from the home of Henry Stegman of that vicinity was also found and identified.

After close questioning Shearer confessed to Captain Arnold and implicated Rushmeyer. Rushmeyer denied his part in the theft.

Shearer said he stole the chickens Saturday night late, or early Sunday morning after taking Henry Rushmeyer, brother of Albert, and Carl Smith, who had been hunting, part way home in his wagon.

He claims to have stolen only 24 birds. Jackman claims that 124 were stolen. Shearer said he cooked and ate some of the birds. The others, except those found, he sold. The police will try to locate the fowls at the places where they were sold.

MRS. FISKE IN "SALVATION NELL," AT JACKSON'S, MONDAY, OCT. 11

CANTATA "LAZARUS" TOMORROW AFTERNOON AT NORTH CHURCH

The First Congregational Church, began last Sunday its afternoon services which will be continued every Sunday during the winter, beginning at 4:15 after four. This is intended to be a popular service with responsive readings in which the congregation can take part, and much music of a high worshipful character. Tomorrow afternoon the Cantata "Lazarus" will be rendered by the choir. This is a narrative in music of incidents in the life of Lazarus. It is by the composer P. A. Snicker, recently one of the great organists of New York city. The composition will be sung through continuously from beginning to end. This service will begin at 4:15.

On Monday evening next the men of the church will come together for their annual banquet. This year the recently formed Men's League will be the host. The banquet will be provided and served by the Women's Benevolent Organization and after the tables are cleared there will be an address by some speaker selected by the pastor, Mr. De Peu, but whose identity and whose subject will not be made known until he is introduced to the company. The ladies of the Benevolent Organization are now preparing for their regular sale which will be held in November. It is by means of this "sale" that funds are raised for their work of the winter.

BOYS BEAT SLOT MACHINES WITH METAL DISKS

After several weeks detective work James Burnham, an agent for the Coleman Hardware Co., of Chicago, dealers in penny-in-the-slot peanut machines, caused the arrest of two small boys yesterday, for putting pieces of metal the size of a penny into the machines instead of using coin of the realm. From four machines over 200 of the metal pieces have been taken. The boys, with their parents, were taken before Superintendent Birmingham, last night, and were warned that a repetition of the offence would be severely dealt with. The boys said they bought the metal pieces from Harris Ruderman, junk dealer, who forfeited a bond in the criminal superior court upon a charge of theft and fled to New Jersey.
