AGAIN THE FARMER ACCEPTS MAYORIAL COMPLIMENTS

In the course of a lengthy and really innocuous career, the Farmer has seldom been confronted by the necessity of defending itself from opprobrious epithets, though it is true that occasionally some victim of the City Court has "made faces" and used "hard names" when the facts of his case were published, but generally speaking the victims of published facts in larger affairs have "taken their medicine" without grating the organs of publicity and without public exhibition of nausea over the uncovered facts.

Since the inception of the harbor line contest, the Farmer has on divers occasions, in due performance of what U. S. Judge Anderson declares to be a newspaper's duty to the public, revealed certain facts and drawn what seemed to be reasonable inferences therefrom, and has therefrom drawn down upon itself the vituperative anger of Mayor Lee. This result was somewhat expected, for it is ever a fact that "the hit pigeon flutters."

At one time the Farmer was characterized as demagogic, because it objected strongly to a gift of $50,000 worth of harbor area to the railroad company. This characterization was gratefully accepted, because of its basis. Now, according to the Post, Mayor Lee states that the Farmer is racing with the Telegram "for the title of the yellowest paper in the city," and that "there are no greater grafters in the country than the newspapers."

Again, the Farmer accepts such characterizations with gratitude, because of their basis upon the harbor line and car barn incidents. But the Farmer does regret that by resorting to opprobrious epithets, the Mayor confesses judgment. In legal practice, the attorney having a bad case is said to invariably resort to abuse of the other side, and juries generally understand the meaning of the move, and may reasonably base their verdicts thereupon. So in the present matter, the Mayor has made an injudicious move, one which does not affect the merits of the case but does cast an ominous shadow over his candidacy for re-election.

We infer that he has become really angry, but he errs in unloading the entire burden of obfuscation upon the Farmer and the Telegram, for great injury has been done to his candidacy by the Post's acceptance of the issue of approval or disapproval of the harbor line and car barn surrenders, and by the Standard's statement that "more along the same line" is to come in the event of his re-election.

The one-year jail sentence of Chauncey Goetz of Stamford for having killed a woman in that city last winter, is said to be the first jail decree in such cases in this county. In imposing sentence, the court said in substance that while it was due punishment for a proven offense, it might also be taken as a deterrent against reckless driving of autos. There is no doubt that the law is violated daily in this city. Reckless speeding, passing at speed, troley cars which are receiving or discharging passengers, inconsiderate speed in streets congested with pedestrians and vehicular traffic and operation of autos by unlicensed youths who are unaccompanied by licensed operators as the law requires, are the almost inevitable result of the lax enforcement of the law. Goetz, unless his jail sentence operates as an effective deterrent. Autists who observe the law—there are many of them—and who drive with due care under all circumstances but who are popularly classed with the reckless drivers, hope that Goetz' sentence will serve as a deterrent and thus relieve them of an unjust classification.

State Senator Penn asserts that the late Legislature showed a wonderful "independence," because it so nearly succeeded in legislating for the people, and on the most important items lined up a numerous minority against the decrees of the lobby. Commenting upon this very ingenious argument, the Stamford Advocate says: In short, on the main points, while the lobby prevailed, it was only by the narrow margin. The people are entitled to whatever comfort they can get out of that; they were only beaten by a small margin. Hurrah, then, for the Legislature and its "independence." It almost, but not quite, took away the business of governing the State out of the hands of the lobby—and it even defeated some of the plans of the minor lobbies, but only succumbed to the big lobby; the lobby which decreed that the utilities bill should be defeated; that the employees' liability bill should fail; and that the bill removing the $5000 recoverable in cases of death by negligence should not pass.

A lobby of experts, such as appeared at the late session of the General Assembly, would naturally seek the defeat of minor lobbies in order to not only better its own chances, but to also give the befooled members an opportunity of obscuring their surrender to the big lobby by citing the defeats of the inferior and inept lobbies.

John T. Quinlan, formerly owner of "The Office" State street, between Main and Broad, and only recently engaged in the wholesale liquor business, is practically penniless. Yesterday in the Superior Court Judge Lucien F. Bruce granted a foreclosure sale against Quinlan's property in favor of the C. O. Jelliffe Manufacturing Co., of Southport, who hold a second mortgage of $2500. By agreement between counsel June 1, 1910, was fixed as the day for the redemption of property. The property in dispute has a frontage of 200 feet on Seaview avenue and extends back to Johnson's Creek, being considered a valuable site for manufacturing purposes. At the time the Jelliffe Co. took the second mortgage on the property it was thought that they had purchased it and intended to remove their plant to this city. Mr. Quinlan after embarking in the wholesale business undertook other ventures in which all his earnings were swept away. His health almost broken combined to make him mortgage his property.

Well Known Wholesaler Practically Penniless

Deputy Sheriff Peter Doolan yesterday afternoon placed an attachment on the cigar, pool and billiard rooms at 87 Main street operated by George F. Eckler and George F. Amthor in favor of Victor Ek, who alleges that he is an equal partner in the business with Eckler and Amthor. Eckler and Amthor are also the owners of a cigar and pool store on Main street between State street and Union Square. Ek alleges that the other two have refused to make a proper accounting to him, have been running the business as they desire, and have been transferring the stock from the store in which he was an equal partner to the store in which he had no interest. He has placed his charges at $4,000, asks for an accounting and a receivership to wind up the business. Attorney Charles Hopwood drew the papers.

Morton L. Hill, of Lebanon, Ind., says: "My wife had inflammatory rheumatism in every muscle and joint, her feet were swollen and her body and face were swollen almost beyond recognition; had been in bed for six weeks and had eight physicians but received no relief until she tried Dr. Detchon's Relief for Rheumatism. It gave immediate relief and she was able to walk about in three days. I am sure it saved her life." Sold by Curtis Pharmacy, Drugist, 1149 Main St. G-2-61f.

INFLAMMATORY RHEUMATISM CURED IN 3 DAYS.

Something new came to the city this afternoon in the form of a handsome and beautifully furnished palaces Pullman car. It is run by the American Druggist Syndicate and is a veritable night room on wheels. The car pulled in at 12:30 o'clock and will remain over night. Local druggists have invited friends and a large number will have visited it and looked it over before it leaves the city. It has been revealed throughout the West and stopped in about 200 cities. It is a fine line of druggists' supplies with a salesman to take orders just like any up-to-date drug store. The car is on the road to make it possible for the dealer who is unable to go to New York or some other large center to look over some of the latest stock without leaving his own city and place his order.

HOUSEHOLD NOTES

Charlotte russe is more appetizing and less sickening if it is flavored with sherry. This should be stirred in carefully, or the cream will curdle.

A powerful and cheap disinfectant for use in closets, stables, etc., may be made by taking chloride of lime, one pound, and water three gallons.

When eggs are broken and cannot be used at once they will keep better if the shells are removed and a quarter of a teaspoonful of salt beaten in for each egg.

To mend rubber use soft kid from an old glove and paste the patch to the gum with automobile paste. The leather adheres better to the gum than a gum patch.

The white of an egg beaten in lemon juice and slightly sweetened is a simple remedy for hoarseness. The mixture should be slowly dissolved in the mouth before swallowing.

If shelves and floors of closets are wiped with water which is hot with cheyenne pepper, insects will be kept away. Borax and alum are good to put into the cracks.

To save space in the refrigerator, remove the tip and insert a small piece of cotton in the pipe and replace the tip. This lessens the pressure and a more even and softer light is obtained.

To keep sliced Spanish onions from falling apart, take toothpicks and stick them through each side to the center; then dip in egg and cracker crumbs and fry.

Remove grease stains by saturating them with alcohol rather than benzine as the alcohol will not leave the marks around the spot that is left by the benzine. Wash in cold water.

When nuts have become too dry to be good, remove the shells, let stand over night in equal parts of milk and water; then dry them in the oven, and they will be fresh and good.

Nothing is more helpful in dusting polished floors than an absorbent broom bag, which can be purchased for a few cents or may be made at home of a piece of cotton flannel.

When making apple pie the apples will keep in good color if a few drops of lemon juice are squeezed over the apples just before the crust is put on.

Melted beef drippings or tallow can be used in the place of paraffin over the top of jelly. Be sure when cold to cover the space around the paraffin where it has shrunk away from the glass.

If threads draw hard and break easily when preparing a piece of fancy work, a little white soap rubbed on the wrong side of the linen will be of advantage. It does not harm the linen.

By applying kerosene with a rag to your stoves when putting them away for the summer, you will prevent their rusting. Treat garden implements the same way when you lay them away for the winter.

The most satisfactory method of mending clothes is to get the laundry with a rubber stamp, bearing your name. The stamp is inexpensive and one may buy a pad of indelible ink for a few cents.

It is claimed that woody house plants that grow a bark can be strengthened and made to flourish like the proverbial bay tree, if given iron water, soaked from rusted iron and poured into the soil.

If the seats of caned chairs are sagged down, wash well on the bottom side, and when nearly dry rub the bottom over with water in which a little glue has been dissolved. Let them dry bottom side up.

The best mustard poultice is made by taking equal parts of ground mustard and flour, made into a paste with warm water and put between pieces of cloth that have been spread with a coat of sweet oil or lard.

Melt a heaping tablespoonful of butter in a stew pan and break six eggs into this, stirring quickly until they begin to set. Add another tablespoonful of butter and a teaspoonful of milk; season and stir until done to suit taste.

If you have a pair of curtains that have become worn in the center from the sun, cut out the torn part and sew together. Tie them back from the windows where they have been sewed, using curtain cords for the purpose, and the result will be found extremely pleasing.

Used to Them. The Plain One—And weren't you a bit nervous when he proposed to you? The Pretty One—Oh, dear, no! Proposals used to make me nervous, but not any more.—Exchange.
