OPENING RALLY IN 7TH TONIGHT

City Clerk Buckingham Invited to be Present—Leaders Will Celebrate United Democracy.

The opening rally of the local municipal campaign, will take place tonight in the hall at Main and Fulton streets, when the Seventh district Democrats will gather for the purpose of organizing for the promotion of Democracy in this district, and plans will be discussed the best method of bringing out a large Democratic vote for the Democratic municipal ticket, on Nov. 2. The Democrats of the district have unanimously endorsed the candidacy of James P. Conlin, for alderman. Mr. Conlin is foreman of the H. D. Murphy Company and very popular in the district.

This is the first campaign in this district in some years past where there has been but one ticket in the field and no factional feeling or contest. District Chairman Patrick Morrissey will preside at the meeting and in addition to the Democrats of the Seventh district who will be present, the following Democrats will address the meeting: Candidate for alderman, James Conlin, Alderman Finlan Arnold, Ed. McNeil, Jr., William Brennan and other Seventh district Democrats. In addition, City Clerk Edward T. Buckingham has been invited to be present, and also Tax Collector John M. Donnelly.

TWO FORGERS HELD IN BOSTON

Town Treasurer Lombard, Who Got Away With $100,000, Blames a False Friend.

(Special from United Press.) Framingham, Mass., Oct. 19.—Accusations that a false friend for whose sake he once illegally uttered a $200 note held his act as a club over his head and thus blackmailed him for 10 years, are said to have been made by John B. Lombard, treasurer of this town, after his arrest in connection with the forging and uttering of about $100,000 of this town's notes. Lombard, who is at the point of mental and physical collapse, was taken to Boston today and arraigned in the Suffolk county court.

With Lombard will be also arraigned his friend, Charles S. Cummings, treasurer of the American Banking Company of Boston, and Edward A. Mead, business agent of the same concern, both are charged with the forging and uttering of the Framingham notes.

Cummings is held in $20,000 bail and Mead in $5,000 in connection with Lombard's alleged misdoings. In a statement on behalf of Lombard, Sydney A. Phillips, his attorney, practically admitted the guilt of his client. He said Lombard had been misappropriating funds for years and that he has been the tool of unscrupulous men.

Of the two men arrested with Lombard, Cummings is the better known. He has been a figure on State street in Boston for years. Until 1906 he was the leading figure of the brokerage firm of Burnett, Cummings & Company which made a business of promoting and financing street railway companies. They would agree to cover all the expenses of the company in exchange for the company's note. Bonds would be issued on the strength of the note and sold.

Cummings is a member of the firm, per se, and covered 28 savings, 26 national and 3 trust companies to loan him $7,000,000. After the crash of 1908 when the liabilities amounted to over a million and a half, $6,000,000 worth of notes sold for just $20. The smash of Burnett, Cummings & Company did not smash Cummings. He has been in the city for many months in the Milk street office under the name of C. S. Cummings Banking Company. A few months ago he returned to the city in New Jersey under the name of the American Banking Company. According to its stationery the firm is the agent of the Mexican Mining & Trust Company.

There promises to be a big building boom in the northeastern section of the city once the Euclid avenue trunk sewer is built. There have been 700 lots sold in that vicinity within two weeks, it is reported. The boom appeared before the Council last night, said that building operations to house 50 families will begin if the sewer is built.

ITALIANS ARE NOT GOING TO BE DELIVERED

Tired of Being Used as Catspaws by Republican Ring.

THE VISIT TO JERUSALEM

Introducing Hon. E. J. Hill of New York to a large audience last night in the hall of Memorial Library, Fairfield, Rev. Dr. Frank S. Child said he is descended from an old and honored family of Fairfield. Mr. Hill addressed the annual meeting of the Historical Society. He said he would read extracts from his diary of a journey from Constantinople to Cairo. He always keeps a diary when he takes a journey, as a future help to his memory. The diary was written on a roll of a car window, or on the arm of a steamer chair, or on the back of a note. He left New York on the 12th of September, 1907, and went on a run through France, Switzerland, Hungary and Austria, he took passage for Constantinople where he spent a week. It is a most interesting story, there he saw the great feast of the Sultan going to the Mosque. This was on the 11th of October, and is an act of the Sultan which has since been deposited, had not missed for 30 years. His Majesty lives in the Star Palace, a fine building of yellow stucco and white marble, the interior is a room of 250 acres. The mosque is 1,000 feet away and the road leading to it is 100 feet wide. Spectators were allowed to go on a wooden platform built by the side of this road, 30 feet wide and 100 feet long. Thither Mr. Hill went with a host of other people of all nationalities to witness the procession. There were 8,000 troops in the parade, of all branches of the service, in splendid uniforms, all wearing the red fez. Those which were mounted on beautiful horses, one troop being black and another white, and a third chestnut. The road was covered with fresh sand, and at the sound of trumpets, the procession began to move from the palace. First came three elegant carriages filled with ladies of the harem, then a band of brass instruments and 200 palace officials appeared in gorgeous uniforms, their breasts covered with medals and orders. The Sultan came and all the soldiers shouted "Long live the Sultan!" three times in succession. Half a dozen Arabian horses followed the procession, which the Sultan would choose such as he liked to take him back to the palace. After about 40 minutes the prayers at the mosque were ended, and the Sultan reappeared. He chose a two horse open carriage and drove himself, saluting as he passed. To Mr. Hill he seemed a big man, the fact that he was worth going to Constantinople to see. Mr. Hill was told the Sultan had 17 sons. As for girls, they do not marry. He then spoke of the Moslems now possess every inch of land where once our own faith was born. The Christians have been driven out by the Turks in the name of God. They kill all their animals in the name of God. By their fruits ye shall know them, they are the people of the Holy Land is in the hands of the infidels.

Fake Republican Italian Clubs That Represent Only Ward Healers—The True Situation.

A few of the employees of the street cleaning department and some of W. R. Brown's help at the U. M. C. Co. got together last night at the rear of a grocery store, 600 Pembroke street, and formed the Italian Republican Club. After everyone present had been elected to office the meeting adjourned. Michael Del Vecchio was chosen president, and his cousin, Mike Del Vecchio was made corresponding secretary while his other cousin, Lorenzo Donofrio, was made vice president. The rest of the offices were divided among the 17 other men present. Florinto Farese, one of the street foremen, is the driving spirit in "The Italian Republican Club."

A prominent Italian citizen said this morning: "There are 400 Italian voters in Fairfield but that is no Republican organization among them. The men who take pride in their American citizenship are getting tired of having it so forth that they are being voted in groups by someone who holds a political job."

"After the recent primaries in the Eighth and Tenth districts it was proven to the Italian-Americans that the Republican party is not very strong for them when it comes to giving them a vote upon the party ticket. In the two districts where there were citizens with Italian names running for office they received the support of only those men who were Italian names. James V. Massey, editor of the Sole was beaten in the Tenth and Joseph D'Agostino, a business man was unsuccessful in the Eighth."

"On the head of these two defeats there were a large number of Italians who became convinced that the Republican party like the Italian for his vote but not as a candidate. About 50 of the best known men in the local Italian community got together and decided to form an Italian Democratic club but this idea was changed and it was decided to form an Italian-American party to be composed of both Democrats and Republicans and to endorse candidates on both tickets. This organization will be perfected before elections with a big meeting at which it is expected to have at least 300 of the 400 voters present. There is no doubt that the first endorsement of the alliance will be favorable to most of the candidates on the Democratic ticket once they are nominated."

"The Italians are white men. They have children who are destined to be as good Americans as were ever born under the stars and stripes and they want recognition other than that which comes from securing them as a voting commodity."

BOSTWICK AVENUE SCHOOL IS UNSAFE

From a Mechanical Standpoint it is No Up to Specifications.

SPECIAL COMMITTEE REPORTS

The report of the special committee which investigated the construction of the Bostwick avenue school was submitted to the Common Council, last night and adopted. The committee first that the building is unsafe from the standpoint of fire, and that it is unsatisfactory from a mechanical point. The report was transmitted to the Board of Education with a request that they take steps to place the school in a condition that will conform with the specifications for its construction. The report of the committee is accompanied by the report of the engineer, which shows that the building is out of plumb in many ways.

The report of the committee follows: The committee appointed to investigate the condition of the new Bostwick avenue school house, consisting of Griffin, Finlan and Burgess, respectively, have the honor to report as follows:

"That they have made a very thorough investigation of the changes and of the true condition of said Bostwick avenue school, and find that the changes brought by the officers of Brick Layers and Plumbers' Union No. 2, and Stone Masons' Union No. 4, are well founded, that the condition of said building does not compare favorably with the building constructed at the same time by other builders, and for other corporations and private owners. The committee have visited the building in question and find that even to an eye untrained in building mechanics, that the omissions and variances from regular building codes are readily noticeable. The report of the engineers who took measurements at the building on the request of the committee, and hereto appended and made part of this report.

"The committee further find that a partition where brick was called for in the plans, and which was substituted by a wooden partition which, in the opinion of the committee, is a very flagrant violation of the specifications, and directly over the boiler room and no fireproof construction intervenes between the furnace and the aforesaid partition. Your committee find that the front has been recently treated to a coating of oil which, however, does not materially improve the appearance of the building.

"Your committee deem it their duty to condemn the work on said building as being unsafe from a fire point of view, and entirely unsatisfactory from a mechanical point.

"The passage of the following resolution is recommended: Resolved: That this report together with the report of the engineers be referred to the Board of Education with the request that they consider the matter and take what steps they may deem necessary to place the said addition in a condition that will conform to the specifications."

EIFFEL FLIGHT WRIGHT TRIUMPH

(Special from United Press.)

Paris, Oct. 19.—While all France is commending Count DeLambert for his flight over Paris yesterday, Orville Wright to-day is enthusiastic over the fact that the flight was made in a Wright machine and was therefore, practically a Wright triumph. Wright, who with his sister Katherine is in Paris, said to-day that Count DeLambert's Eiffel Tower flight was one of the greatest ever made in an aeroplane, cannot be over-estimated. The value of the aeroplane in attack is now assured.

"I feel," continued Wright, "that DeLambert's flight proved beyond a doubt that the construction of our aeroplane is the correct method of building aeroplanes. All doubts on that score are now set at rest."

It was announced to-day that the Javay Aero Meet, scheduled to end on Thursday, would be continued three days and would culminate in a grand tournament on Sunday. Arrangements have been made by the society for the encouragement of aviation, for a great banquet in honor of DeLambert Thursday evening, at which the society will present him with a gold medal.

WILBUR HITS AT DANGER ELEMENT

Washington, Oct. 19.—When Wilbur Wright's attention was called to-day to the spectacular flight made by Count DeLambert one of his pupils in one of the Wright bi-planes over Paris, he shook his head dubiously. "It was a very successful flight," he said, "and I am very glad that it was done in one of our machines. But there is too much of an element of danger in that kind of performance, not only to the aviator himself but to the spectators as well."

TWO ESCAPES FROM GOVERNOR'S ISLAND

(Special from United Press.) New York, Oct. 19.—Two military prisoners, O. J. Dipple under a five year sentence and Thomas Conway, with less than a year to serve, escaped from Governor's Island to-day, and though fired on by a sentry, got away in a row boat and are supposed to have reached New York. They were coaling the steamer General Hancock and had slipped into a row boat moored near the pier alongside and when the sentry discovered them they were well out into the stream and rowing lustily. He fired several times and failed to hit either of them and they soon got out of sight in the fog. Both men enlisted in the west.
