

SPANISH CABINET ON EXPRESS DEMAND OF KING RESIGNS TODAY

Fall Due Primarily to Moroccan War, Anti-Clerical Situation and Protest Over Ferrer's Execution

Resignation Throws Country Into Chaotic Condition—Alfonso and His Advisers in Close Conference Trying to Select Premier in Place of Maura.

(Special from United Press.) Madrid, Oct. 21.—After a determined struggle against opposition not only in Spain but all over Europe, aroused by Spanish conditions, the cabinet, headed by Premier Maura, resigned today on the express demand of King Alfonso. Moroccan war, the anti-clerical situation and the world wide protest following the execution of Francisco Ferrer, the Barcelona Anarchist, were the primary causes of the fall of the cabinet.

The resignation of the cabinet throws Spain into a condition bordering on chaos. To-day King Alfonso and his advisers are in close conference trying to select a man to put at the head of the new government who will be able to gather the scattered remnants of Spanish authority together and save Spain from herself. A new competent statesman willing to accept the responsibilities and difficulties of the situation will be hard to find.

King Alfonso faces the crisis of his life. For upon his choice of a premier depends his throne. A member of the Conservative party, loyal to the crown, and accepting the royal pre-eminence in the anti-Catholic controversy would be the national choice. The continuation of the Moroccan war would undoubtedly be forced by a Conservative. But no Conservative could secure the support of the Liberal cortex. The Socialist element which has been throwing down the Maura administration amid scenes of the wildest disorder since it convened a week ago, Alfonso is most unwilling to trust the nation and incidentally his throne.

NEW TOWN BAD MAN WANDERS ABOUT REDDING ABOUT REDDING Sheriffs Hot on His Trail, But He Eludes Them From Day to Day ESCAPED FROM JAIL (Special to the Farmer.)

A good many citizens are kicking themselves over their failure to make an easy $100 by capturing John Bahan who escaped from the Bridgeport jail grounds on Monday evening of last week and who has since been loitering around in this town as if his newly obtained freedom were a matter to him of small account. On Tuesday morning he called at the house of Henry Warton in Pleasant Valley and obtained a hand out lunch. He was seen leaving the country in a summer suit and a hat. Deputy Sheriff Bahan had been notified of the case by Sheriff Hawley and chased up several promising clues only to find that on each instance he had been on the track of the wrong man. On Thursday a man believed to be Bahan was seen in the vicinity of Pine Tree. On Saturday it was discovered that the former club house on the Rogers & Peet property near the park which building was used as a summer residence by Frank R. Chambers, had been broken into and one of the beds newly slept in. Deputy Sheriff Johnson of Newtown, who had already done considerable scouting for the fugitive, was notified of this clue and on Sunday scoured the country in that locality but without success. In a brush lot above the park he and his companions found the remains of a recent camp with which a chicken had been cooked. Early on the morning of the previous Friday Daniel Wood had awakened a stranger who was sleeping in the room in the upper part of the side the embers of a fire. This man, like the one seen near Putnam Park, will respect the reputation of Bahan, who evidently spent several days in the country between Sunset Hill and the park. Bahan, if it were he, was next seen on Monday afternoon of this week at Pine Tree corner on the Ridge road. The man who saw him had lamented that he would not improve the chance that offered several days before to capture the fugitive, but on this second meeting again let the chance go by and contented himself with turning the news to Sheriff Bahan. The attempt not succeeding he phoned to Sheriff Johnson and on the next morning and spent the whole day on the search which, like the other quests, proved unsuccessful. He failed to trace the man beyond Pine Tree corner and reached the conclusion that the latter had taken to the woods in this vicinity. Bahan worked for two or three years in the upper part of this town last fall. That he should for several days elude his pursuers in the woods in this vicinity is the surprising feature of the case.

FIREMAN SCALDED TO DEATH WHEN ENGINE PLUNGES (Special from United Press.) Port Jervis, N. Y., Oct. 21.—An Erie freight engine and four cars jumped the track at 7 o'clock this morning at Guinard and plunged down a 30 foot embankment. Robert Smith, the fireman of this city, was scalded to death; Lansing Wright, the engineer, and Emmett Quick, brakeman, were slightly injured.

LEE FORCES REFUSE HEARING TO RESOLUTION OFFERED BY MEYER MEYER DEMANDS EXPLANATION OF JUDGE STEVENSON

Declares His Action In Matter of Resolution "Not Fair Play," Nor "In Accordance With Parliamentary Law," and "A Flagrant Discourtesy."

Judge Henry Stevenson Declares Morris Platform Resolution Not Proper to Come Before Convention and Declines to Read It Contained Plank Favoring Direct Nominations and Protection for Harbor—Alderman Meyer Declares Conduct of Convention Grossly Discourteous and Challenges Stevenson to Defend His Position—Mayor Lee Renominated and Entire Machine Slate Goes Through—City Sheriff Hamilton Turned Down.

The Republican Ticket For Mayor—Henry Lee. For City Clerk—Loren Delbridge. For Town Clerk—Bernard F. Cooney. For Tax Collector—Frank C. Allen. For City Treasurer—John L. Wessels. For Board of Education—William H. Marigold and Elmer H. Havens. For Selectmen—Ferdinand Leiss, Frank Braithwaite, William Ainley. For Sheriffs—Richard Brown, Thomas J. Cunningham and Joseph Kalafas.

Mayor Henry Lee was renominated for Mayor on the first ballot in the Republican convention last night. He had 21 votes. Harbor Master Charles H. Morris received 9 votes, Senator Thomas Arnold, Jr., received five votes, and one ballot was cast blank. A heart sick and discouraged lot were the anti-Lee delegates, after the convention was over. Tricked in private and sandbagged in public, they realized what it means to "buck" the machine.

Representing almost half of the Republican party of the city, they were treated with contempt and their ideas of party policy were brushed aside without more consideration than an able bodied cow gives to a cluster of flies. Early in the evening the insurgent delegates had admitted the nomination of Lee. They had seen man after man promised to their cause, alienated by means that were sometimes mysterious but which were sometimes nothing more subtle than pressure exerted by some employer, for this has for many years been a favorite machine method in controlling recalcitrant delegates.

But the insurgents had expected, and had indeed publicly said that their contest had been so far successful that the "machine" would be obliged to embody in the party platform certain principles from which much was hoped in the future. A plank which especially concerned the Morris delegates was the one in their resolution calling for direct nominations. But the plank about which they were really most concerned related to the harbor and its future protection from aggression by "private interests," in which term the voters were supposed to understand "the New Haven Railroad Company."

The trickery came while the convention was in executive session. The Morris men announced that they would not be bound by any action not taken in public. A motion was made and adopted that the proceedings of the executive session be informal. Upon this understanding the Morris delegates participated. But when the informal proceedings had been concluded a Lee delegate introduced a motion making the informal action formal. Thus ensnared the insurgents were debared from a display of their strength when the convention went into public session. But the Morris delegates were entirely unprepared for the highhanded and absolutely unprecedented violation of parliamentary procedure by which they were debared from a discussion of party policy.

The convention, having completed in executive session its choice of candidates, opened its doors. A committee on resolutions was appointed in the usual way. Eugene I. Meyer, the representative of the Morris forces in the convention, offered a resolution embodying the platform principles advocated by the Republicans of the Eleventh and Twelfth districts. This resolution was properly referred to the committee. It was received by Judge Henry C. Stevenson, who had nominated Mayor Lee. Stevenson put the resolution into his pocket. Whether he read it or not, seems to be a debatable question. The two other members of the committee represented that it was not read by them. At any rate, Judge Stevenson speaking in the name of the committee, refused to report the resolution upon the ground that it "was not in order and not proper to be received by the convention."

After making this truly remarkable statement, and in the face of a demand by Delegate Meyer, that the resolution be read, he refused to comply, and the Morris delegates, representing one-fourth of the power of the convention, found themselves unable to present their views relative to Republican policy to the other delegates, and this after they had virtually permitted the nomination of Mayor Lee to be made unanimous, because, although they had

RETIRING ENVOY SOON TO RETURN FROM FRANCE DEMOCRATIC CITY CLERK CONTEST

Statement By Mr. Gill In Answer to Circular Issued In Behalf of Mr. Boucher.

"To the Editor of the Farmer: I would like to call, through your newspaper, public attention to a circular, in the interest of Mr. Stephen Boucher, which was to-day circulated, by mail, through the Ninth district and which was of course intended to injure my candidacy for the Democratic nomination for city clerk in this district. Mr. Boucher states that two years ago he was promised by somebody the nomination this year, in reply to this and other statements contained in the circular I would respectfully state, that two years ago Mr. Boucher's aspirations for the office of city clerk were no stronger than mine were, and I felt that his right to the nomination, at that time, was at least no greater than mine since he had been a constant worker in the Democratic ranks for many years before Mr. Boucher was known in the district in which we both live.

"I did not, however, advance my claims for the nomination two years ago, as to do so, would be to supplant Mr. Edwards, and, returned to consider full public servant, who then held the office of city clerk and with whose administration of the office affairs no fault was nor could be found. Mr. Boucher, however, was not moved by these considerations, but persistently demanded the Democratic nomination for the office held by Mr. Boucher, and returned to consider Mr. Buckingham's superior right to a nomination due to his efficient public service as a legislator.

"Mr. Boucher's ambition for the nomination was not voluntarily relinquished, but was suppressed, much to the regret of his friends in the district. Mr. Mulvihill, who feared that Mr. Buckingham from the ticket would unseat Mr. Mulvihill's election, and that some of Mr. Mulvihill's friends in the ninth district, who felt it their duty to suppress Mr. Boucher in the interest of Mr. Mulvihill, who was the Democratic city clerk this year, but I challenge the right of those persons to place a mortgage upon this nomination, which political expediency of the time did not permit of their delivering to Mr. Boucher. No one had to force me out of the nomination two years ago to make me any promise, and I am out of the contest from a sense of political propriety.

"Equipped now with two years experience in my performance of the duties of assistant city clerk, I do not feel that I must now, before appealing for the support of my friends in the ninth district and the city at large, get the permission of the unauthorized persons whom Mr. Boucher claims were not his promise two years ago to guarantee his nomination, and whose office was most presumptuous.

"The circular, issued in the interest of Mr. Boucher, states that I have assumed an unreasonable attitude and have refused to compromise or in any way consider Mr. Boucher, in reply to this I would say that I have no offer at compromise made to me by any body was that I should retire from the contest in this nomination. This was Mr. Boucher's offer, and I promise that I should eliminate myself entirely from the race for the city clerkship, and that he would then appoint me his assistant. My proposition of compromise was made to him by leaders of the party who desired harmony, the positively and unqualifiedly refused to do so, and from the canvass and take the assistant city clerkship. "No," he said, "Gill must be set out."

Respectfully yours, LAWRENCE J. GILL. The circular letter to which Mr. Gill refers, follows: Dear Sir:— We herewith take the liberty to send this communication in relation to the Democratic primary to be held on Friday, Oct. 22, 1909, at No. 62, Ocean street, corner of Pembroke, from 5 to 8 p. m. Knowing that you as a Democrat will be able to attend the primary, we will submit a few facts for your consideration. Two years ago immediately after the Democratic primaries the name of Stephen Boucher was advanced for the nomination of City Clerk, and in truth a sufficient number of delegates were pledged to him to guarantee his nomination, but it was argued by many, and particularly by the friends of Mr. Buckingham, that it would be unfair to displace him from his office, and he also pointed out that it would be detrimental to the whole ticket to do so. Mr. Boucher listened to such counseling and graciously withdrew his name for further consideration and seconded Mr. Buckingham's nomination himself. It was generally conceded, and virtually understood, that in the event of Mr. Buckingham being named two years hence for Mayor, that Mr. Boucher would have little or no opposition to succeed him as the nominee for City Clerk. Such is not the case, far from it. Mr. Gill who was appointed assistant city clerk at that time, even in preference to Mr. Boucher, not only lays claim to the nomination for City Clerk, but also assumed an attitude so unreasonable, refusing to compromise in any way consider Mr. Boucher, that we whose names are herewith enclosed deem it for the best interests of the Democratic party to work for and nominate the ticket which will be the strongest, and we therefore request your support at the primaries so that we will be able to attend the Democratic convention and place in nomination the names of Edward T. Buckingham for Mayor and Stephen J. Boucher for City Clerk, a ticket which will surely win in November. Yours respectfully, GEORGE SELINGER, JOHN HEALEY, STEPHEN MASEK, DANIEL J. DONAHUE.

HARRIMAN'S MEN ELECTED TODAY Judge Lovett Chosen President of Union Pacific Railway.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—The directors of the Union Pacific Railway Company today elected Judge Robert S. Lovett president of that corporation. The other retiring officers were re-elected. It was reported that Lovett was also elected to the head of the Oregon Short lines. Three new vice presidents were added to the official staff of the Union Pacific. They are J. C. Stubbs, traffic manager of the Harriman lines; Julius Kruttschmitt, director of maintenance and operation, and William Mahl, controller of the Union Pacific. W. H. Bancroft, vice president, was re-elected vice president. The other three vice presidents occupied newly created positions.

A similar election was made in the Oregon Short Line Company. Messrs. Stubbs, Kruttschmitt and Mahl being also elected vice presidents of that company. W. H. Bancroft, vice president with headquarters at Salt Lake City, was re-elected.

Jacob H. Schiff and William Rockefeller were elected to the executive committee of the Oregon Short Line. Otherwise the executive committee of both the Oregon and the Union Pacific remain unchanged.

The election of Judge Lovett and the placing of Julius Kruttschmitt on the executive committee of the two roads have borne out what many believe, the general belief that Harriman's roads would be controlled after his death by his lieutenants, Lovett and Kruttschmitt, in the next to their chief and in harmony with his policies.

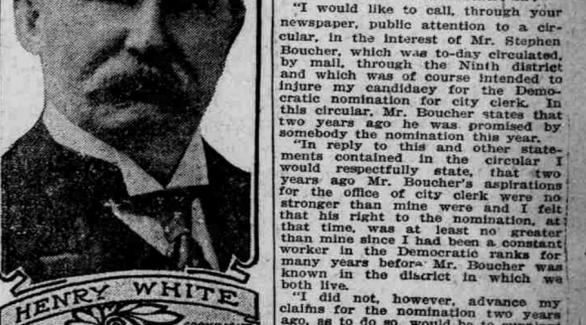

MONEY WANTED FOR POLICE AUTO GARAGE Plans Have Been Drawn by Commissioner Hurlley and Approved by Mayor Lee.

At last it seems as if the construction of the housing of the police and charities auto vehicles is imminent. The rough sketch which Commissioner J. J. Hurlley, of the Police Department, drew up has been approved by Mayor Lee. The only question to be settled is where the money is to come from. The building will be about 20,000. It is very likely that bids will be asked for within a few days. The building will occupy the entire width of the yard in the rear of police headquarters, 54 feet. It will be one story affair with two galvanized skylights and will be built of brick. The whole front will be practically open. There will be five sliding doors there will be an apartment for the horse patrol and the horse will be kept in the building. Next to this apartment there will be one which will be used as a store room. A tank for the gasoline will be placed under ground. There will be no provision made for sleeping quarters for the chauffeur of the auto ambulance.

It is thought that the money can be raised, although President G. E. Hill said this morning he did not know just where it would come from. Neither does he know who will take care of the horse.

Henry White, the retiring ambassador to France, will arrive in New York before Nov. 1 and will attend several banquets which are being arranged in his honor. Mr. White probably will have some very interesting things to say regarding the tariff controversy which is going on between the United States and the French government. There is talk in Washington that if France persists in her apparent determination to impose maximum tariff rates on imports from this country, the government will retaliate by rigorously enforcing the pure food law upon French wines.

LITIGATION OVER $10 JEWEL BOX Litigants Are Not Concerned With Values, But With Principle Involved. Two rival Fairfield avenue jewelers faced each other in the Common Pleas court this morning before Judge Howard B. Scott. Max Buechler, who has his place of business at 48 Fairfield avenue has brought suit against Samuel Graves, whose place of business is at No. 22 on the same street. The suit is trivial and grows out of the possession of a window box, which is used for displaying jewelry. The box is worth about $10. Mr. Buechler formerly was located in the store now occupied by Mr. Graves and states that the box was left there by him. The case has been tried out in the civil side of the City court, Mr. Buechler winning. Mr. Graves took an appeal to the Common Pleas Court. The plaintiff said this morning that it was not the value of the box which he is fighting over, but the principle. The court reserved its decision.
