HERE ARE FIGURES THAT TELL STORY

Remarkable Showing of Minor League Baseball Clubs

$3,000,000 IN SALARIES

(Special from United Press.) Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 9.—The magnitude of minor league professional baseball was never better illustrated than by some of the figures contained in the annual report of Secretary John H. Farrell of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues which began a session here today.

In the season just closed, Farrell's report says that $3,000,000 was paid to the 7,540 players who are under the jurisdiction of the association and that 20,000,000 witnessed the games of the 227 teams that comprise the vast organization.

The national association, which does not include either of the major leagues, includes 227 cities in 27 leagues in the United States, Canada and Mexico with six new leagues applying for membership. In the last year, 770 players were recruited by the National Association Club, 484 suspended, 161 re-instated, and 11 declared ineligible. During the year Secretary Farrell received $158,850 in salaries, $23,800 for players on optional agreements, and $145,000 for players purchased, making a total of $328,650 for the year.

PLAYERS FINED

For Disregarding O'Rourke's Warning Heavy Punishment is Meted Out.

EACH PLAYER SOAKED $200

"Kid" Sherwood of the Brooklyn Nationals, Al O'Dell of the Lancaster Tri-Staters, Cy Miller of the locals, and Bill Yale of the Northampton have been fined $200 for playing baseball in this city after the close of the season. The players have been notified by Secretary Farrell of the National Association that they must pay before participating in any league game again. This is especially hard for Sherwood and O'Dell, who are booked for tryouts with the big leagues. The players defect to the warning of Manager O'Rourke of the local team in playing after the season was over, laboring under the notion that he was throwing a blue chip to the National Association, who in turn notified the players that they would be fined $50 for each game in which they participated. Each player was fined in four contests, three against the Yosts and one against the West Ends.

DARTMOUTH TACKLES CRIMSON SATURDAY

(Special from United Press.) Hanover, N. H., Nov. 9.—With not a man on the team seriously injured, Dartmouth today is hard at work in preparation for the Harvard game on Saturday. Ficion, the little star on Dartmouth's line, is expected to play. He is expected to play in the line-up alongside the crimson. His ankle is not sprained as was at first thought and tomorrow it is expected he will be back in line. The coaches are satisfied with the team's showing against Princeton and hope to do even better against Harvard.

Noted K. of C. Man to Lecture in This City

Mr. James Dunn, who describes himself as 73 years young though his general bearing would seem to indicate that he has many years to travel, before teaching that distance in his pathway is in this city and he will soon deliver an address under the auspices of the local chapter of the K. of C. Mr. Dunn's theme is "Why a Knight of Columbus" and wherever he has appeared he has been most enthusiastically received. Press comments praise his lecture most highly.

Offered Bolger Bribe

John Dombrosky, of 103 Sterling street, was fined $25 costs, in the city court, this morning. He stole a girl's dress from a clothesline in the East Side last night. He was arrested by Patrolman Bolger, who claimed that his prisoner offered him a bribe if he would release him.

FOOT CRUSHED

George Trefin, aged 22 years, employed at the Stratfield, had his left foot crushed between the elevator and the wall of the building this morning. He was taken to the Bridgeport hospital in the ambulance. The foot is not seriously hurt. He lives at 239 Water street.

FORECAST OF PRESIDENT'S NEXT MESSAGE

Will Advocate Postal Savings Bank, Ship Subsidy, New Railway Rate and Simplified Form of Currency.

(Special from United Press.)

Wilmington, N. C., Nov. 8.—At 8:35 tomorrow night President Taft will have completed his first long tour of the United States as President and will be "at home" in the White House for about 18 hours, leaving at 5:35 Thursday afternoon for Middletown, Conn., to assist in the introduction into office of President Shanklin of Wesleyan. So far as Mr. Taft is concerned he is satisfied with the results of his trip. He has come into contact with people of the Middle and Far West and while some of his receptions have been of a rather unfriendly character, he has been able to present his views to the people. As a result his annual message to Congress can now be forecast.

Mr. Taft is satisfied with the tariff question. The present bill will remain as it is during his term of office at least no matter what the western members of his own party or the Democrats may think or say. The Presidential approval has been put on the Aldrich-Payne measure and it will be made a problem to further the bill in Congress. The Taft message to a regular session of Congress will advocate a postal saving bank, a ship subsidy whiting an American merchant marine shall be created, new powers to the Inter-State Commerce Commission whereby railway rate and other problems can be settled and the decrees enforced, a simplified form of currency and all of the other matters that he has touched upon on his present trip.

There will be no startling passages in the Taft message. It will not be a Rooseveltian document, but will incorporate the views which the President has already given utterance to on the stump. The President is not believed to have been so much impressed by his trip down the Mississippi river as he will champion the waterways from the lakes to the gulf with the vigor that the advocates of the scheme hope for. He still favors a bond issue, is expected to cause him to insist on limited expenditures until inventive genius shall devise a way whereby a deep waterway channel, once dug, can be protected. His admonition to the advocates of the project, that he did not believe "in pouring water down a rat hole" is declared today to be his version of the problem. The Taft tour which will end tomorrow, has carried the President over 24,725 miles. It has cost the United States $200,000 which will come out of the fund appropriated by Congress for his traveling expenses. The Chief Executive has made upwards of 200 speeches from pulpits, train platforms, in every conceivable form of auditorium and open-air stadium. The cost to the various localities that have "entertained" him is very large. A conservative estimate is $2,000,000 and for the little entertainment at Jaurez, where he was the guest of President Diaz of Mexico, the bill for that "little dinner" is said to have been a half million.

Four, fifteen and twenty dollars a plate were charged those who sat through the various formal dinners that were given in honor of the visit of the President while out at Los Angeles they struck the record figure of twenty-five dollars an individual. President Taft himself believes that his trip through the south has gained himself and his policies many friends among the conservative Democrats there. He considers that he is now in touch with the several elements in his own party and will be better prepared to deal with all of the problems that will come before him this winter during the session of Congress.

The President returns with all manner of souvenirs of the trip, ranging from a gold trophy to a "great seal of a city" in solid gold. If Mrs. Taft is to show what happened on the trip and what was most notable at any of the banquet she has only to rummage through the trophies and she can get a line on it. President Taft will go from Wesleyan on Friday to Hartford to dedicate an armory. He will then return to Washington and stay there until November 18 when he will go to Hampton Institute to talk to the negro students there. This trip will last two days but in the meanwhile the President and his cabinet officers will have prepared all of the statistics necessary for the preparation of the message to Congress and it will take but a short time after he gets back to whip the message into shape and send it to the printer. The President's guests today estimated the number of persons who talked to on the present trip at three million.

HARVARD'S CRIPPLES ARE ROUNDING TO

Boston, Nov. 9.—All of Harvard's cripples, McKay, Corbett, West, Dunlop and Gill Browne, have rounded up in shape for the Dartmouth and Yale games, McKay luckily coming back just in time to replace Hooper who is laid up with the Cornell struggle. Hooper recovers in time so he will first substitute for McKay when the team meets Yale.

Unless some player gets hurt in the Dartmouth game Saturday, Harvard will start the Yale game with three men in goal, seven and ready to play the game of his life. It is pretty early now to pick the team that will be up against the Elis at the beginning of the first half, with possibly one exception, right end. Gill Browne held that place a year ago and until he was injured in the Brown game, had the choice of the position. Smith has shown up so remarkably that it is possible he will be given that job. It is probable, however, that Browne will start the game and be replaced by Smith early in the contest. The hope for the line-up for the Yale struggle is this: Houston, left end; McKay, left tackle; L. Withington, left guard; P. Withington, center; Fisher, right guard; Flinn, right tackle; Browne, right end; O'Flaherty, quarterback; Corbett, left halfback; P. Smith, right halfback; Minot, fullback.

THREE FIGURES IN SENSATIONAL ALASKAN LAND DISCLOSURES

L. R. Glavis, former chief of the field division of the United States general land office, who was removed from office following a clash with Secretary Ballinger over the Alaskan coal land claims, has written an extensive article for Collier's Weekly, setting forth in detail many sensational points of the controversy. His statement bristles with serious charges against the secretary of the interior, bureau.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

The many friends of Mrs. Georgianna Husted of Norman street will rejoice to learn that she is improving rapidly after a most successful operation on her eye for cataract.

Mr. G. C. Batcheller, the corset manufacturer has purchased the home of ex-Mayor Wessels, on Fairfield avenue and is having it put in order preparatory to taking up his residence there.

The preparations for the entertainment by the Queen's Daughters at the Stratfield on Thursday next are progressing finely, and all indications point to a record breaking success in every way. Many parties of the younger set are being planned to take part in the evening festivities, the informal dancing being a most attractive feature.

Mr. Owen Toolan has returned from a three week's visit with his brother Rev. F. J. Toolan, pastor of the Sacred Heart church, Albany, N. Y.

Miss Mabel Greenwood entertained a few friends at a social tea on Saturday afternoon at her home on Sanford avenue in honor of Miss Catherine McEroy, who has lately returned from a years stay abroad. The home was tastefully decorated with autumn foliage and flowers, which served as a charming background for the elaborate gowns worn by the young ladies. Mrs. Fred Wren and Miss Rose Lynch were heard in several vocal selections and received many plaudits for the pleasure given. A buffet lunch of all the dainty delicacies of the season was served and a thoroughly enjoyable afternoon brought to a happy close. Among those present were the Misses Minnie and Kathryn Irwin, Mary and Katherine McGuinness, Anna McMahon, Rose Lynch, Lillian and Irene O'Rourke, May O'Rourke and the Messdames Fred Wren, Alex DeLaney and Joseph Gaylor.

Mrs. Wm. V. Devitt of Sanford avenue, leaves the city on the 15th inst. for a monthly visit with her parents, at her old home in Chicago.

Oh, for the Boon of Perfect Health

So sighs the anæmic, sickly maiden, the victim of a dozen ills, that rack her body and destroy her beauty. The factory girl, the toiler, the waiting maid, the pampered daughter of a captain of industry, are alike in that they all suffer from disorders that rob them of their energy, their spirits, their animation, and make of them poor, despondent sufferers. What's to be done? Is there no remedy? Sure. And it is within the reach of all.
