SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 27, 1909.

The "Voter" which voices prohibition views, has found the name of Ex-Gov. Woodruff among the endorsers of a New Haven application for a wholesale liquor license, and expresses "intense regret, disappointment and sorrow" over his act.

Possibly, Ex-Gov. Woodruff may hold that one may entertain temperance views or be a church member and yet endorse without inconsistency a license application—in this case, the applicant was a brewing concern—and that liberty of personal action, under the law's proper restrictions, is still the unquestionable right of a citizen.

Milkman Sues Woman For Horsewhipping Him

New Haven, Nov. 27.—As a result of a disagreement over a milk bill, George Distin, of Orange, has brought two suits of $1,000 each against Walter H. Bradley and his wife, of Meriden, who spent the summer at Woodmont.

It is said that Distin went to the Bradleys to collect a milk bill and did not count the money given to him. Later he returned and said that the amount was $5 short.

"SIT IN JUDGMENT" UPON THEMSELVES

Among the professed purposes of the "Taxpayers' League" are the following: To enquire into "the efficiency with which the revenues of the city are expended," and to encourage the faithful performance of public duties.

Of course, such supervision must, to possess value, be wholly impartial; each member of the trial court must be, like Caesar's wife, above suspicion, wholly disinterested, and not one of the officials under suspicion nor intimately connected with either of them.

Yet we find among the members of this self-constituted trial court for city officials, quite a number of citizens holding positions in the municipal government and who will, therefore, sit in judgment upon their own official acts.

Some of the members of Bridgeport's new trial court do not appear to be troubled with any such conscientious scruples, but seem willing to become the self-appointed censors of their own official acts.

WILL HILL AID THE INSURGENTS?

The Republican insurgents are really expecting to be able to overturn the House rules at the coming session of Congress. With the aid of the 171 Democratic votes, 25 Republican insurgents could control the House.

Mr. Hill has, however, always been a stickler for "party regularity," and it may be that he will, for that reason, decline to aid the insurgents. It would be, in the Farmer's opinion, an error of judgment, for Anti-Cannibalism has become a very important matter.
