WILSON SAYS HILL IS SUFFERING WITH POLITICAL APHASIA

Easy for Statesman to Forget Opponent's Name, for He Has Also Forgotten Cannon and His Own Record in Congress and His Vote Against Income Tax

American People Do Not Intend to Eat Unhulled Rice As Chinese Do—Thousands of American Workers in Cotton Industry Paid Less Than Girls in Belfast—Hill Should Travel Less and Think More.

Speaking before a group of business men today, Lynn W. Wilson, Democratic candidate for Congress, relative to Congressman Hill's speech at the Armory, last night, said: "I see that Congressman Hill tells us that he ought to stop complaining of the high cost of living in this country, and offer thanks because we do not yet have to eat unhulled rice, as they do in China. We have all been trying for some weeks to get Mr. Hill to tell us what he did in Congress and why he did it. "But he insists instead on telling us of his European travels, and what he saw of poverty from the windows of the best hotels in Europe, Asia and Africa. "Mr. Hill seems to think that because Japanese work for eight cents a day, that Americans intend to do so. And when he speaks of Belfast and the girls who work for $2.50 a week, he forgets that thousands of Irishmen have come from that land to this to escape those conditions. "If he would travel at home more, and go abroad less, he would know that there are thousands of girls employed by the cotton barons of this country who earn less than $2.50 a week, which is what the Belfast girls were paid when they came under the mastery view of his statesmanlike intellect. "He says that if I would read more and write less I would know more about conditions in this country. And I say that if he would read more and travel less, he would not have made his Army speech. "Had he spent less time in studying poverty among the Chinese and more in the study of poverty in the cotton States he would not have been so proud of those statistics of wages in Belfast, where girls, he says, are paid only $2.50 a week, for he would have studied the statistics of manufacturers, collected by the United States Census Bureau, and would know that there are thousands who are paid no more in this country. He says that Ireland will buy a great deal more of the necessities of life than $2.50 will in this country. "Mr. Hill seems especially proud of the tariff upon cotton goods. But he does not seem to know that of the 44,000 employees reported in the cotton industry thousands earn less than $5 a week, and thousands more, earn less than $6 a week and other thousands less than $7 a week, and very few as much as $10 a week. "Had Mr. Hill read more and traveled less, had he labored harder to serve the people, he would have known that the interest in the tariff upon cotton goods is not the same as the interest in the same census report which furnishes these figures of wages paid by the Cotton Barons, also says: "The statistics of the census of 1905 indicate the continued increasing success of the United States in their competition with the manufacturing countries of the world for the cotton goods market. "The United States sells cotton goods to the world. Cotton goods are manufactured cheaper in the United States than anywhere else in the world. The Cotton Barons enjoy enormous tariffs granted by Mr. Hill, and his friends in the Senate, and have the power to pay their workers the same wages that Mr. Hill found in Europe. Some cot-

SOUVENIR POST CARD ROMANCE BREAKS UP HOME

Buxom Young Wife Flees from Husband and Two Little Children

HUSBAND BLAMES POSTALS

Writer Signing Himself, "Your N. F. Kid" of Syracuse, May Be Her Supposed Affinity.

Mrs. Charles D. Schrader, the buxom and comely of a well known electrician of the Crane Valve Co., is strangely missing from her comfortable home at 539 Gregory street, gone her husband believes to join an affinity discovered in correspondence starting through a souvenir postal card exchange. Schrader reported the absence of his wife at police headquarters today after he had spent the entire night seeking her among relatives and friends. Fearful at first, he might have accomplished suicide, at which she had vaguely hinted several weeks ago, he later became convinced that she had returned to Syracuse here to meet the author of dozens of postal cards and letters bearing the signature of "Your N. F. Kid." Mrs. Schrader is one of the mother of two handsome children, Hazel aged 5, and Benice aged 3. Her husband has been with the Crane Valve Co. several years. With the Schraders lives Schrader's mother, who is equally convinced that her daughter's absence is due to infatuation for the author of the "Your N. F. Kid" correspondence. Mrs. Schrader's habit has been to attend the meetings of the Daughters of America, 131 State street each Friday evening. Schrader ordinarily not later than 10 o'clock. Last night she spoke of attending the meeting as usual. Her husband left the house at 11:15 and went to the Armory. On his return near midnight his mother-in-law surprised him with the information that his wife had fled. He set out for the lodge room, found it dark then returned to inquire among the neighbors for information. All night long he searched for his wife among the houses, she was accustomed to visit. He could learn only that she had gone across the street from their home at 6:45 visited the family name of a customer who helped trim her hat, and had kissed all affectionately had left, apparently for the lodge room. Today Schrader discovered that $7.50 was gone from the house, not all the money within her reach if she had planned to take it, but much more than she could have carried. But she had taken none of her clothing save what she wore. Looking through the correspondence she was able to identify Schrader as a large number of picture postals bearing the signature "Your N. F. Kid." Several of these were couched in terms indicating familiarity of long standing, but were so worded as to leave the impression that they had never met. One of the cards said the author was a member of the lodge, and was glad to learn that she was unmarried. He suggested that perhaps both might change their views, and apparently in reference to her correspondence wrote that he did not believe in large families. The post cards in most every instance were enclosed in envelopes. Mrs. Schrader wore a black princess dress and black low shoes. She is described as about 5 feet 5 inches tall, weighing 165 pounds, with red hair and a striking peculiarity of the eyes, one of them blue and the other brown. She took her lodge due by her. Several weeks ago she brought home a bottle of laudanum which her husband discovered the following day. She confessed that she had contemplated suicide, and that the marks made at the lodge meeting, she destroyed the contents. Schrader inclines to the belief that his wife had returned to Syracuse, it is possible she may have feared a recurrence of illness she had suffered, and has ended her life.

CANDIDATE GOODWIN'S PLEA OF AVOIDANCE PRACTICALLY A CONFESSION

Candidate Goodwin has, as expected, declined Judge Baldwin's offer to submit the charges of corruption in Goodwin's interest at the Republican State convention, to a "court of inquest," a majority of the members to be named by Goodwin. Previously, he (Goodwin) had declared against affidavits as inadmissible evidence; now when Judge Baldwin offers him an opportunity for the presentation of oral evidence under oath, he declines.

His reasons are specious. One is a claim that the evidence of corruption thus far produced is insufficient; if so, he need not have feared, as he palpably does, an investigation of it by a court of his own choosing in its majority. Another is that the proposed court could not hear the evidence and render a decision before the election; possible delay is not the question at issue which is whether or not the Goodwin managers resorted to corruption to prevent the nomination of Lake—the people are "Missourian" in this matter; they want to know as a guide for future action. Another reason is that payment of the costs of the proposed investigation by the candidates, would be a violation of the corrupt practices act; if so, let the State pay the costs of the court of inquest authorized by its laws.

But it is unnecessary to go through all of the points embodied in Mr. Goodwin's special plea of that practical avoidance which is generally considered equivalent to an admission. The great central facts are that Judge Baldwin proffered an investigation which would eradicate the taint of corruption upon the manner of Mr. Goodwin's nomination if such eradication were possible, and that Mr. Goodwin declines the proffer upon specious reasons and in evident fear that the taint could not be eradicated. We submit to the people the question whether Mr. Goodwin has not practically confessed the truth of the charges of corruption in his interest and against Lake at the Republican State convention.

JUDGE BALDWIN'S CHALLENGE WHICH GOODWIN DECLINED

"I challenge Mr. Goodwin to make a public statement now, this week, of how much his nomination for Governor cost him, or costs his backers, whoever they may be,—cost in values paid, or values promised. I have made my statement to the public, already, of what my nomination cost me. Let him be equally explicit. The people have an interest in knowing about this. He can satisfy their desire for knowledge. I ask him to do it, and do it at once, so that we can have time to ponder over it. "I have made my plea. I have pleaded the cause of honest and good government. It is for you, and your brother electors, next Tuesday, to render judgment. I have now discharged my duty to the State of Connecticut, as I see it. It will be for you, then, to discharge your duty to the State of Connecticut as you see it."

DR. CRIPPEN MUST DIE ON THE GALLOWS

Court of Criminal Appeal Decides There Is No Ground for New Trial

Not Likely Any Power Will Prevent Execution of American Doctor Set for Next Tuesday.

(Special from United Press.) London, Nov. 5.—Dr. H. H. Crippen, the American doctor who murdered his wife, Belle Elmore, the music hall singer, must die on the gallows. The court of criminal appeal, consisting of Justices Darling, Channell and Pickford, after hearing the arguments of Crippen's attorneys and the Crown representatives, this afternoon decided that there was no ground for a new trial. Crippen heard his fate calmly, though his usually ruddy face was white as chalk and his twitching lips showed the suppressed emotion he was under. It is probable that Crippen will be executed next Tuesday, unless the Home Secretary interferes, which is considered most unlikely. Crippen had evidently expected the dismissal of his appeal and had steeled himself to receive the verdict. When it was announced that no new trial would be granted, Crippen stood upright, making no sound, and was escorted from the courtroom, showing that he had resigned himself to his fate. Under a strong guard, Crippen was placed in a prison van and driven at once back to jail. During the ride he sat with his head between his hands uttering not a sound. Crippen's attorneys announced that their next step would be to ask the Home Office either to commute the death sentence to life imprisonment, or to grant a pardon to the prisoner. It is considered most unlikely, however, that any power will now intervene to save the prisoner.

FIVE TEAMS TIED IN BIKE RACE

(Special from United Press.) Boston, Nov. 5.—When the riders in the annual six day bicycle race at the arena, took the track, at 10:30, this morning, for the last 10 hours of the grind, five teams still were tied for first place, with 1124 miles and 6 laps to their credit. The second division was one lap behind, while the Scheller-Jokus pair were only one lap behind the seconds. Today was scheduled to see the five leading teams tied at 10:30 o'clock, tonight, they will be called upon to race the second division teams left on, to fight it out for the six, seventh, eighth and ninth miles. Then the big train will go and ride for one mile to decide which one will be entitled to the big money purse. Though frequent and sensational spots marked last night's race, neither the first nor second division riders could gain a lap. Jokos and Scheller got back two lost laps. The Bedell brothers, led in the speed sprints but the bunch held tight to them through their sensational riding. The score at the end of the 30th hour was: Jokos and Scheller, 1124 miles, 6 laps; Walker and Mitten, 1124 miles, 5 laps; Demar and Williams and Thomas and McCarthy tied with 1124 miles, 5 laps, and Scheller and Jokos 1124 miles and 4 laps.

GUILTY OF TREASON CHARGE AGAINST ROOSEVELT

(Special from United Press.) Washington, Nov. 5.—Official Washington is agast, today, over the denunciation of Colonel Roosevelt by Thomas Nelson Page, in an address before the National Democratic League, last night. Declaring the Colonel guilty of treason, and that he forfeited the respect of the country by his attacks on the Supreme Court, the novelist said: "There is no question, whatever, that his denunciation of the Supreme Court has done much to injure his prestige in the country and command a breach which it is difficult to cov-

He quoted from George Washington to support the contention that an attack upon one co-ordinate branch of the Government, was an attack upon the liberties of the whole country. Yes. In this case I have furnished (Continued on Page 2)

DEMOCRATS WILL SWEEP TOWN SAYS CHARMAN -- REPUBLICAN LEADER NOT OVER-CONFIDENT

By Democratic Town Chairman William W. Bent.

By Republican Town Chairman Percy C. Farwell.

"Baldwin will carry Bridgeport by 2,000 majority. The Socialists are going to poll a big vote but they will draw from the Republican columns. Congressman Hill has been strongly entrenched here, but his allegiance to Aldrich tariff bill has weakened him. I expect Wilson will carry Hill in Bridgeport by a good majority. Wilson ought to run nearly as well as Vollmer, who I believe will carry Bridgeport by 1,500. This city will elect three Democratic senators, two representatives and nine aldermen out of the twelve. Edward F. Hallen, candidate for judge of probate, will have a good majority."

"I don't think there is going to be a landslide in either direction. Goodwin will carry Bridgeport by 1,000 majority. The Republicans will elect senators in the 21st and 23rd districts, but will lose in the 22nd district. We calculate to elect seven out of the twelve aldermen. Boudren and Ortlepp will come out ahead. Boudren may be cut some but he will get two votes from the other side to every time he is cut. Hawley is going to pull out of Bridgeport with a good vote. He may run behind in the lower end of the county, but he will get enough votes at this end to carry him through. In the probate court fight there is a close race, but Nobbs will win with a few hundred to the good. Hill will certainly win."

Italian-American Alliance Meets at South Norwalk Sunday

The Italian-American Alliance will hold a big meeting in South Norwalk tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at Arion hall, at which hundreds of local Italian citizens plan to be present. Among the speakers who will address the gathering which promises to be large and enthusiastic, will be William Vollmer, candidate for sheriff; Jeremiah Donovan, John Keogh, F. Altieri, editor of "La Stampa" of Bridgeport and R. Robert of this city.

Jumps in Water to Escape Police, Dislocates Arm, and Is Sentenced to Jail

Unable to pay fines aggregating $75 and after the assault on a peace officer and theft, George C. McCarthy, a huckster of Winnipauk, Norwalk, went to jail today as the result of a "rough house" and sensational flight from a dwelling at 17 Bank street last evening. On leaving the place, McCarthy snatched a gold watch from Joseph Russell, and fleeing with him in pursuit escaped by the window along the water front. Sergeant Hazel discovered him hiding behind the piles along the dock, suffering from a dislocated arm resulting from his leap in the darkness from the dock to the cement casing of a sewer outlet.
