THROUGH ATTENDS DOUBLE FUNERAL AT CLANCY HOME

Mother and Son Are Buried With Impressive Service at St. Patrick's. The double funeral of Mary and John F. Clancy, mother and son, was held from the undertaking establishment of Michael J. Clancy at 8:30 this morning and a half hour later from St. Patrick's church. A solemn high mass of requiem was sung by Rev. John C. Lynch, assisted by Rev. James E. Nihil, deacon, and Rev. Thomas J. Pickett, as sub-deacon. Rev. John J. Keane was master of ceremonies. The funeral was one of the largest ever held in North Bridgeport. Schmidt's funeral mass was sung by the church quarter, under the direction of Fritz K. G. Weber. At the offertory Joseph Kleier sang, "Veni, Jesu" and after the mass Joseph Clancy sang "I Will Not Be Long." Rev. Weber played Chopin's Funeral March on the organ chimes after the services. Among the numerous floral tributes were large broken columns from the "Eighth District Friends" and a large standing wreath of red roses from the fellow employees of Mr. Clancy in the internal revenue department. The bearers for Mrs. Clancy's funeral included: Patrick H. Ryan, Edward L. Callahan, John Shannon, Patrick F. Brady, Michael Hussey and John F. Brady. Those who bore Mr. Clancy's casket were: John F. Dwyer, John H. Cowan, Daniel P. Ferris, William I. Davis, Edward F. Morris and Henry Devaney. Rev. Father Lynch and Rev. Father Nihil read the committal services at the graves in the family plot in St. Michael's cemetery.

MODERN PROGRESS IN THE MAKING GORDON PRESENTS SERIOUS CHARGES CAN'T BACK 'EM UP Superintendent in Frenzied Effort to Land Job For Friend, Falls Down.

An entirely new and unique set of books has just been published which takes up a branch of human endeavor heretofore neglected by the makers of books. It would seem that we have all been so busy making progress, that we have not had time to make any books on the subject. But now comes "The Book of Progress" a set consisting of three splendid volumes which show the results of man's ingenuity from all the various viewpoints. Recognizing the rare educational value of such a work The Farmer has arranged with the publishers to set apart a consignment of the first edition sufficient to supply our readers with this latest reference work. Copies of these books are now ready for inspection and the distribution will start in a few days as announced elsewhere in this issue. Almost all well regulated homes possess books of knowledge—history, biography, science—but in none of these is shown the modern marvels now being wrought by man in the advancement of civilization—invention and discovery, development of natural resources, and the adaptation of raw materials to entirely new uses. To learn of a new invention in these news, but to know exactly what it is, how it is, how it is made, its object and its uses, is educational. So the editor of this great work has drawn upon the vast field of human progress to bring forth exact knowledge which should at once become a part of the education of every man, woman and child who seeks to keep abreast of the times. "The Book of Progress" is edited by Albert A. Hopkins, whose association with the Scientific American has afforded him unusual opportunities for gathering this material at first hand. His aim has been to compile a work of accurate and authentic information which will be of untold value to all mankind. That he has accomplished this purpose is conclusively proven by those three splendid volumes now being offered to our readers. Read the announcements from day to day in The Farmer. Call and examine this wonderful set. There is no contest and no coupons are required. It is simply an opportunity offered to our readers for the purpose of further promoting already firmly established friendly relations. Farmer Want Ads. One Cent a Word.

Entrances in Main Street, Fairfield Avenue, and Cannon Street. The Puritan, the Cavalier and 101 other graceful hats

Silk beaver and velvet, rich and beautiful, dominate the millinery of Autumn. How handsome and delightful! How fine! What satisfying beauty they gain from the metallic and flower trimmings used upon them! What a gathering of effective contradictions and contrivances is ready! The Puritan hats with their high crown and simple decoration; maybe only a buckle. The Cavalier hats with their graceful curves and their trimming of metallic ornaments or nodding plumes or beautiful flowers. The poke sailors, the veil hats, the little hats, the big hats,—a handsome gathering is ready. The Millinery section plans and skilfully works to have hats that women want. This news but hints at the many sorts ready. New ones come every day from our busy folks. Prices are from $5—with some good-style hats at even less and some rarely-beautiful ones at $10 and $15. Second floor.

We'll make suits to measure at $20

A quick and easy answer to the puzzles of women who cannot find suits ready for wear. Whatever the reason for that puzzle may be, for a limited time the store offers solution at special price. From any of our regular $1.50 woollens, suit in correct new style (and choice of several styles) all ready for service,—$20. Those woollens are handsome and new and in all the rich colors now so seasonable and attractive. They are in plain colors and weaves, in fancy weaves, in lively mixtures. They have the strength and texture and finish which fits them especially to be made up into suits. At this special price, there is included woolen and lining and usual findings. Only possible extra charge is for special trimmings such as fur and silk braid. Lining is of Skinner's satin, guaranteed for two seasons' wear. All sizes up to 46 at the one price of $20. Sizes larger than this at an additional charge of $2; complete suit for $22. Right aisle, rear.

Deserves Better Name—Is Really Attractive Melodramatic Comedy. The melodramatic comedy, "Love's Model," which Cecil Spooner and her popular company are presenting at the Lyric this week is one of the most interesting and best acted in which they have yet appeared. The play is a splendid melodrama, filled with thrills and a well carried out mystery envelops the character of Peggy Moore, portrayed by Miss Spooner, which is not divulged until the last few moments of the last act. The play itself deals with the secret service of France and the spy system during the present war. Each character is developed well and the interest is maintained at a high pitch until the fall of the curtain. There is plenty of comedy throughout all the scenes. The play is really deserving of a much stronger name than it bears at present, as "Love's Model" does not give a correct interpretation of the clever and entertaining play which is being acted. Miss Spooner was never more charming or better fitted to the part than Peggy Moore the American girl about whom there is much mystery. Fell Trenton as Kirk Fields, the American artist has another clever part in which he has an opportunity to display here qualities. As Fanchette, a German spy, Miss Monroe, a new member of the company, does some exceptionally clever dramatic work. Robert Lawrence is Mons Etienne, the head of the secret service of Paris, whose mysterious appearance and disappearances at times frightens the audience. Frederick Clayton gives some more of his good work as Alphonse, agent of the secret service and Muriel Valentine makes the most of the part of Clarette in which she appears in the first act. Reta Villers produces much laughter in the comedy part of the play. Captain Vinton has the part of Captain Marx, Leo Whalen of the second officer, while George Kelly essays two parts, that of the luggage man and of the first officer. IMMEDIATE ATTACK URGED Amsterdam, Oct. 5.—"The quicker the attack on Serbia comes to full realization, the more clearly will the threatened Balkan states understand that the central powers are protecting them from great danger," says the Lokal Anzeiger of Berlin. "Therefore, the reply to the Russian ultimatum must be given by German and Austro-Hungarian guns on the Danube."

"LOVE'S MODEL" AT BARS REPUBLICANS LYRIC THEATRE IS MOST INTERESTING FROM 9TH DISTRICT CLUB APARTMENTS

Former Senator Whitcomb's Adherents Break Into Rooms and Lock Doors. Friction between the Ninth district Republican club officials and former Senator J. H. Whitcomb, owner of the Whitcomb building at Shelton and East Main streets, resulted in an open hostility yesterday when Mr. Whitcomb effectually barred their entrance to the handsomely appointed club rooms on the top floor. Armed agents of Mr. Whitcomb ascended to the doorway and after cutting off the lock took possession of the quarters. The doorway to the club was barred from the inside and Republicans who attempted to get into the rooms last night were unsuccessful. The differences were patched up this morning and it is likely that occupancy of the floor will be granted for another month, when the terms of a lease signed some time ago are said to expire automatically.

Jitneys Storm Headquarters For Return of Fees Indignant jitney bus drivers who did not understand the action of the common council last night in setting back the date for payment of annual license fees from October 1 to June 1, stormed police headquarters today demanding a return of the pro rata fees which they had paid. The annual license is $10 with 50c cent additional for a badge. Under the first ordinance it was due and payable in advance on October 1. Jitney drivers operating prior to October 1, were required to pay a $10 rate amounting to that date. The department has received about $100 most of which is for pro rata fees. He has turned this money over to the tax collector and he refused to return any to the jitney drivers. He also appointed ten full fees of $10.00 each today and declares he will continue to accept the full fees until notified not to do so.
