AUNT JANE'S HINTS TO HOUSEWIVES TO CUT COST OF LIVING

"An inexpensive dish that looks, sounds and eats like an expensive one," remarked Aunt Jane, as she removed the cover from a quart oyster container, "is this same stewed fish with oysters that I'm making. It gives one an agreeable change from the regular fish and oyster dishes by the simple expedient of mixing the two."

"You just cut your fish into portions, remove the skin and the bone, and put it in the bottom of a stew pan, having previously prepared the pan with a thick coating of butter. Season each layer of fish with salt and pepper, and pour on enough boiling water to cover the fish. Add a tablespoonful of lemon juice, or of vinegar, and simmer until the fish is cooked but not broken. It usually takes about fifteen or twenty minutes."

"Then add a tablespoonful of flour cooked in a tablespoonful of hot butter, mixing this well with the boiling liquid in the stew pan, and taking care not to break the fish."

"Add a quart of oysters, and simmer until the oysters show plump. If you wish, add more seasoning. It should be served very hot."

BEAUTIFUL HAIR TINTING

Absolutely and Positively Harmless "Brownstone" Instantly Changes the Hair to Any Shade of Brown (or Black) if Preferred.

Nothing so robs a woman of her good looks and attractiveness as gray, streaked or faded hair. And there is no more reason or sense in tolerating unattractive hair than there is in wearing unbecoming gowns. Nearly all of the more noted beauties long ago recognized this fact, and so wear their hair not only in the style, but also the color, most becoming.

The one hair stain that stands supreme is "Brownstone." It is simple and easy to use. Just comb or brush it into your hair. It can not be detected, will not rub or wash off, acts instantly, and is absolutely harmless.

"Brownstone" will give any shade desired from golden brown to black. Your druggist sells "Brownstone" or will get it for you, and it is worth your while to insist upon having this preparation and not something else. A sample and a booklet will be mailed you upon receipt of 10 cents, and your order will be filled direct from our laboratories if you prefer.

Two sizes—25c and $1.00. Two shades—One for Golden or Medium Brown, the other for Dark Brown or Black.

Insist on "Brownstone" at your hair-dresser's.

LAURA JEAN LIBBY'S DAILY TALKS ON HEART TOPICS

Copyrighted, 1915, McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

CHILDLESS HOMES.

Having seen what looked most real Crumble in dust. Now I choose that test and trial Should precede my trust.

Whenever a childless wife sees her husband's eyes follow wistfully some happy father who has a troop of babies following after him, the longing for a child in her own home resolves into the determination to adopt one, that his heart hunger may be appeased.

The head of the house usually makes strenuous protest to the proposal at first, declaring if he cannot have children of his own he sees no comfort in fathering other people's. Yet he does not refuse his wife the privilege of housing this wee foundling or that one, for a week or so at a time if she finds pleasure in it. A score or more of such infants may come and go without awakening any particular interest in his breast, but there is always one who will at last touch the golden chord in his heart.

Some one will wish to have the intuition, the moment his eyes meet his that he has the power to make its future bed one of roses if he takes to it and keeps it, or makes its future path cruel with thorns if it is deemed to be an orphan's home later on to be cast on the cold world to battle for life and food as best it can.

That baby makes a direct appeal to him, coos with delight, holding out its arms to him, refusing to be comforted if the man turns away. This is flattering to his vanity and at the same time warms his heart. The touch of the baby's fingers clinging around his own, the weight of the little head anxious to nestle against his breast, touch the hidden spring of interest and open wide the door of liking. Baby will go to no one but him, all its affection is for him only.

Despite his protestation that one youngster is the same as another to him, slowly, by degrees, he begins to care for the child. He will remind him that the time for keeping it is about to expire and a renewal refused, he remarks that it might not be a bad idea, after all, to keep it, even if it does mean adopting a new member.

As the years go on both grow as flesh and blood, but they expect full measure in return. They have succeeded in getting a child who has no kith or kin their fond hopes are realized more often than not. If the child has nearer and dearer ties they care to win it, but the heart of the woman responsible for that little one's being. Her yearning to be near it, possess its love, is more than apt to sweep aside all barriers in her effort to win it at all costs. The foster parents resent it. Those who are mothers understand the situation from a mother's viewpoint and sympathize with her.

If decision is left with the child, who can blame him for answering to the call of nature? He loves those who have housed and loved him with all their hearts, but how can he withstand the mother call, the strongest heart tie and influence God ever created? Let those who would adopt babies reckon not only with the child in the present, but the future, not forgetting, "This better to have loved and lost, than never to have loved at all."

MISS LIBBEY'S REPLIES TO YOUR LETTERS

Miss Libbey's answers to your letters. Correct name and address must be given to insure attention. Initials printed. Write short letters on one side of paper only. Use ink. Personal letters cannot be answered. Address Miss Laura Jean Libbey, No. 916 President Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

TOO YOUNG FOR ACTRESS' LOVE

Dear Miss Libbey:—As a constant reader I come to you for advice. A certain girl of 18, an actress in a theatre, I have taken a liking to. I would like to know how I could possibly meet her? She has been paying a little attention to me. I am almost 20 years old. Jealous inclined. Thanks for opinion. C. C.

You are too young to think of loving a girl who may have many admirers, you do not know of. One you may imagine you care for now would fall to appear to you a few years later on. You might be constantly jealous of an actress. Love making is their part in the profession. If you are wise you had best wait two years or so and go with girls in your vicinity.

NOT COMING BACK TO SCHOOL; WRITE TO HER

Dear Miss Libbey:—I am a girl considerably past 15, like very much a youth I met last summer. He never liked the city. Boys tell he is not coming back to finish school. Maybe he will. Write to him before he left. I am anxious. Should I be the one to write first? Kindly advise me. M. T.

He expects to come back and visit you. Better not write first. Send a picture card, later.

WELCOME OPINION ON GIFT GIVING

Dear Miss Libbey:—I have known a nice young man a year. He remembered Christmas, Valentine Day, my birthday, with gifts. Is it proper for me to present him with something on Christmas, or his birthday, which comes shortly after mine? I pondered over this question some time to not make a breach of etiquette or appear too rude. Welcome your advice. A. R.

It is not out of place to give a nice young man, who has remembered you, a gift of a popular book that interests men, handkerchief, or collar box or a framed picture, inexpensive.

OBJECTS TO HOLDING HER HAND

Dear Miss Libbey:—I am a girl reader of 18; have had a young man's company less than a year. Am very fond of him. Every time he calls and starts for his home he reaches out to hold my hand. Is this proper or not? He tells me he loves me. Won't object to my decision. Please advise. D. E. M.

Avoid this boldness by holding your hand erect, not extending your hand, and he will respect and think the more of you in the near future. Reserved girls win love to last.

DOES HE GO TO SEE OTHER GIRLS?

Dear Miss Libbey:—Your advice to girls is aid for me please. I am 18, devoted to a young man of 22. He says he loves me. Parents object to him. He is not in town. Writes to me. Does he go to see other girls? I have a ring from him. Please tell me what to do. M. V.

He being worthy try to win your parents' liking for him. He may not see other girls as he writes to you.

TOO YOUNG TO WED.

Dear Miss Libbey:—Please advise your reader. I am in love, and am young, 17 years. Like my books well. But, dear Miss Libbey, mother is a widow, we are poor, work hard as we have to, and I cannot get schooling. I had a proposal to wed. Think I am too young? Please advise. L. C.

It is a great pity you had to give up going to school. You have refined ideas. If the one who proposed is steady, able to support you and your mother's needs, when you are a little older, you will wed the man you love, doubtless.

LITTLE BENNY'S NOTEBOOK

By Leo Pope.

I learned how to turn a handspring today, my cousin Artie, teaching me how up in our setting room, which I had to try 7 times before I could do it, and the 4th time I tried my feet hot, and the rings of a chair and break it, with the help of my pretty weak legs, so easy, and the 5th time I tried I knocked over a wun of mas plants and the dirt went awl over the floor, and the 7th time I tried I did it.

When pop came home I thawt I mite as well be honest and tell him before he found it out, and I sed, Pop, can you tern a handspring.

Well, I cant say that I've tried for a number of years, sed pop.

Good you ever ust to be abel to, I sed.

Well I shoed say so, when I was a boy I wood rathir tern handsprings than eet, in fact, I frequently ust to do both at the same time, sed pop.

I can tern wun, I sed.

Thats diffrent, sed pop, and I sed, I only lerned how to do it this afternoon.

That so, sed pop.

Yes sir, I sed, Artie lerned me how.

Do you mean tawt you how, sed pop, and I sed, Yes sir, he tawt me how up in the setting room.

I am very much in favor of handsprings for the young, but don't tern things that was' rathir a dangerous plase to lern in, sed pop.

No sir, it didnt do mutch damage, I sed.

What do you mean, mutch damage, sed pop, and I sed, The rung of a chare and wun of mas plants.

Well its a good thing you told me before I found it out, sed pop, your a deep wun of you are.

Wich I am.

CHARLES BRICKLEY

Charles E. Brickley, late of the Harvard eleven, will be twenty-four years old tomorrow. Brickley, you may possibly recall was at one time quite a prominent gridiron star, and, if our memory is not at fault, was captain of the Crimson eleven away back in 1914 or thereabouts. Many of the old boys at Cambridge talk about his sensational exploits with his good right toe. Right smart footballer Charles was, to hear the old timers speak about him. The world's champion drop kicker has lately been giving instructions in his art to the gridiron men of Penn State and John Hopkins University.

The Bank of England shipped 20,000 pounds gold to the United States. Released 27,000 pounds for miscellaneous accounts, and 75,000 pounds for Egypt.

VIENNESE PROUD OF THE WAY THEY TREAT FOREIGNERS

Say They Are Lenient With Interned and Are Not So Hostile As Others.

Vienna, Austria, Nov. 23.—The Viennese are proud of the fact that they have dealt leniently with the English, French and Russians in the capital. Only suspicious characters have been interned, and among the "enemy aliens" at large in the city there is far more freedom than in Berlin and most of the other German cities. The visitor from Berlin, for instance, is surprised to find that any language may be spoken freely over the telephone. Nothing but German is permitted in Berlin, and even a mispronunciation of a German word may be followed by a polite but firm request from the telephone operator to "Speak German, please." The second offense means a severed connection.

Aside from the freedom of the telephone, the Viennese mix without much friction in the cafes with the young Englishmen, Frenchmen or Russians. The cafe de Paris has been renamed the Nachtfalter, but the Carlton Bar retains its name, and the English, French and Russian language is heard there without exciting any protests from the Viennese who may be present. In fact, when pianist, plays some popular English song, such as "You Made Me Love You," the Viennese may be heard humming it or even singing the English words softly.

The closing hour of the public drinking and eating places is now fixed at one o'clock in the morning, but most of the places of the better class are permitted to do business until two o'clock.

In the bearing of the Viennese there is comparatively little indicative of war. Not so much mourning is worn as in some other cities.

"You must not think that we are sharing the war lightly," said one of the residents. "We have had our fair share of sacrifices and suffering. But it is bad enough as it is, without going around with glum faces and sorrowing all the time. There is little enough pleasure left in life. The Viennese are naturally a pleasure-loving people. It is fortunate that they have not the capacity of sorrowing continuously. It is this very characteristic that is keeping them up through these trying days."

Aside from the matters mentioned, however, there is no lack of indication that war is going on. Chief among these is the great number of wounded soldiers in the streets. In no other city—either in Germany or Austria-Hungary—visited by the Associated Press representative since the outbreak of the war have there been so many. So great are their numbers that they almost form processions on pleasant afternoons along the principal thoroughfares. The number of unwarounded soldiers in the streets is small, compared with Berlin.

The second striking indication of abnormal conditions is the price of food. "Ham—do note but one item—costs six crowns the pound. At this normal rate of exchange this figures out about $1.20. Restaurant prices are 100 to 200 per cent greater than those in restaurants of the same rank in German cities. No bread can be had without bread cards, and the daily quantum is somewhat smaller than that allowed in Germany. Hotel guests receive daily cards entitling them to 210 grams, a bit less than 7 1/2 ounces.

PRICELESS RELICS FOUND IN ANCIENT KOREAN TOWER

Seoul, Korea, Nov. 23.—A priceless relic of a Korean era fixed at 1,000 years ago have been found during excavations at the ruins of the old Shiragi dynasty tombs of Korea at Kyongju. Workmen engaged in the restoration of a nine-story tower discovered an old stone coffin, containing a jeweled ornament, a gold bell, a silver bell, a gold vase, a stone gourd, some exquisite comma-shaped jewels and other relics.

In this connection it was noted that one of the three sacred treasures of Japan which symbolized the sovereignty of the Emperor is a comma-shaped jeweled necklace. This jewel is borne to Kioto for use during the coronation ceremonies.

RUSSIA ORDERS SHELLS FROM JAP CONCERN

Tokio, Nov. 23.—An order for 3,000,000 shells has been placed by Russia in Japan through the Japanese army authorities. It will be distributed among various private factories of the empire, as well as among the national arsenals. In addition to the ammunition the Russian government has placed another huge order for woolen cloth.
