Arrest Follows Row In Machinist's Home

The lodging house of James Bishop, a machinist in the employ of the Locomobile Co. was somewhat broken up yesterday when Mary Curry, alias "Bishop," his housekeeper, went on the rampage. Through a charge of breach of the peace was made against Mary by Bishop and more serious counter-charges were lodged against Bishop for questionable conduct, the police referred the complainants to Prosecutor Alexander DeLaney.

While Mrs. Curry was walking to the prosecutor's office she was overcome by alcoholic convulsions and received treatment at an electrical store on Broad street by ambulance surgeon Canavan, after which she was placed under arrest upon a charge of intoxication.

In city court this morning a parole was granted under supervision of the probation officer. Prosecutor DeLaney has not yet heard the allegations against Bishop.

MORE THAN ONE THOUSAND PERSONS ATTEND FUNERAL SERVICES OF FR. MOLLOY

Classmate of Dead Priest Celebrant At Requiem Mass

REV. JAMES F. BARRETT

With all the solemnity that characterizes the office of the dead in the Catholic Church, funeral services for Rev. Thomas J. Molloy, late assistant at the church of the Blessed Sacrament, Waterbury, Conn., were held this morning at the Sacred Heart church here. The spacious edifice was thronged during the solemn services and it is estimated that at least 1200 persons were present at the impressive services.

The majestic roll of the organ, the chanting of the black robed priests, the incense laden air, and the solemn hymn that pervaded the church combined to form a scene that will live long in the memories of those who in attendance. Fully 75 priests took part in the services.

Despite the brevity of the young priest's career, which extended over a period of only 18 months, there were present prominent men of all walks of life, many coming from the parish in which he labored. And next to them were persons in the paths who knew the young levite from his boyhood.

Many persons to whom Father Molloy's brilliancy and human traits were known intimately held their handkerchiefs to their eyes and wept with unrestrained emotions as the solemn services proceeded. They were sorrowful as they realized that the fruitful career had ended and a noble spirit had departed.

This spirit of mourning had been manifest all during yesterday and evening and in the solemn watches of the night while the body reposed in state in front of the altar. There was a long and continuous procession of people who had come for a last glimpse of the clergyman who was born, baptized and confirmed in the Sacred Heart church, and who sang most devoutly at the altar.

Through the night the devout members of the parish and members of the Ozanam club sat on guard over the remains. The younger element of the parish who received their elementary education with Father Molloy, came in large numbers to view the features for the last time.

The celebrant of the solemn requiem mass was Rev. James F. Barrett, assistant at the church of the Immaculate Conception, Hartford, a classmate, and also a native of the South End. Other officers of the mass were: Deacon, Rev. Andrew Kelly, Hartford; Celebrant, Rev. John Kelly, Hartford; of ceremonies, Rev. Daniel Manning, Waterbury; thurifer, Rev. John Heller, Milford; acolytes, Rev. Walter McElroy, New Haven, and John Ball, Rochester, N. Y.; eulogist, Rev. Maurice F. McAuliffe, Hartford; Bishop John J. Nilan occupied the episcopal throne and was attended by Rev. James B. Nihil, of the city, and Rev. James O'Brien of Stamford.

At the close of the mass the eulogy was delivered by Rev. Maurice F. McAuliffe, vice president of St. Thomas' seminary, Hartford. He was a former classmate of the deceased and a student in the seminary and was exceptionally qualified to speak concerning his character and achievements. Father McAuliffe is an eloquent and forceful speaker. With his fine diction and splendidly carrying voice it was easy for those in the rear of the church to hear him.

The preacher paid a glowing tribute to the life of the young priest, his early calling to that divine vocation, his work while in the ministry and his personal characteristics. Before the eulogy had finished there were very few in the congregation who were not deeply touched and inspired as he recounted the work and attainments of Father Molloy.

The honorary bearers were Rev. James C. O'Brien, Stamford; Rev. Peter McClellan, Milford; Rev. William Smith, Waterbury; Rev. William Redy, Hartford; Rev. John Moore, Hartford, and Rev. Walter McCrann, Norwalk.

The active bearers were Edward Dargan, Thomas Hogan, Edward Donahue, Peter Clark, Stephen Moran, Jr., and Francis Curran.

Following the eulogy, Bishop John J. Nilan pronounced the immediate family members of the deceased to be permitted to view the body before carrying it from the church. After mass, Thomas McDowell sang "Some Sweet Day," and "The Lord is My Shepherd." The choir sang "Heaven is His Home." As the casket was being borne from the church the combined choir of Sacred Heart and St. Augustine's churches rendered "Thy Will Be Done." Schmidt's funeral mass was splendidly sung by the combined choir. Then began the trip to the cemetery. The streets through which the cortege passed were lined with people who stood in respectful attention as the hearse and the long line of coaches passed.

The committal service was read at the family plot, St. Michael's cemetery. The classmates and several others of the clergy assisted.

Among the priests present at the obsequies were: Monsignor John Sydnott, president of St. Augustine's Seminary, Hartford; Rev. Joseph Ford, New Haven; Rev. James McDonald, Hartford; Rev. William Barry, Hartford; Rev. Lawrence Quinn, South Meriden; Rev. Joseph Martin, Hartford; Rev. Martin Wilson, Hartford; Rev. John Murray, Hartford; Rev. Matthew Panikowski, Bridgeport; Rev. George Grady, Windsor Locks; Rev. Patrick Lawlor, New Haven; Rev. Michael Keating, Hartford; Rev. Francis P. Nolan, Hartford; Rev. John Anderson, Hartford; Rev. Harry Coleman, Southington; Rev. Amos Chasman, New Haven; Rev. Stephen Panik, Bridgeport; Rev. Terrence Smith, Waterbury; Rev. William Redy, Hartford; Rev. Charles Leddy, Seymour; Rev. Stephen Chertkizky, Bridgeport; Rev. Joseph Byrne, Norwalk; Rev. Robert Shortell, Ridgefield; Rev. Eugene Cryne, Waterbury;
