

NEW HAVEN RAID BRINGS NINETEEN CHINESE IN NET

Revenue Officials Suspect Smuggling Over Border of Canada.

As a result of information furnished Collector of the Port James L. McGovern, a raid was made on the so-called "House of Mystery," 106 State street, New Haven, yesterday, and 19 Chinese were taken into custody.

Some of the Chinese could not produce the required papers to set them free, saying that their passports had been destroyed in 1904. However, their word was not sufficient to cause their release.

Others claimed that they were born in San Francisco and in consequence of this fact they were not required to have registration sheets. Again their word was not accepted.

Six were able to secure their release. Some of the others detained are without double in this country legally and have actually misaid the open season of admission.

It is the belief that the alleged smuggled Chinese were enabled to come across the Canadian border in most instances packed away in cars of baled hay.

Victor H. Jacobson Gets Heavy Penalty For Reckless Driving. One of the heaviest penalties, according to the records of the city court, ever meted out for driving an automobile while intoxicated, was imposed by Judge Frank L. Wilder today. The prisoner was Victor H. Jacobson of 24 Johnson street. He was fined $200 and costs.

JACOBSON WAS ARRESTED by Police-men J. T. Coughlin and Samuel Gregory at 8 o'clock Saturday evening after he had rammed his automobile into a newly purchased delivery wagon, the property of the Bridgeport Public Market. The collision occurred in Cannon street, between Broad and Courtland streets.

JACOBSON WAS COMING east in Cannon street at a fast rate of speed. Dodging between other vehicles in an alleged reckless manner Jacobson finally drove his car into the side of the delivery wagon. The wagon was broken on one side and the top covering was ripped from it. It was turned completely around and George McMahon, driver, was hurled to the roadway. He clung to the reins and prevented the horse from running away. McMahon was not seriously injured.

THE WINDSHIELD of Jacobson's car was broken. He abandoned the car while approaching later by the two policemen. He said he had gone to procure a service car to tow his machine back to the garage. He said the engine in the automobile had been wrecked. He admitted that he was intoxicated and he told Policeman Gregory that he was better fitted to operate a car when he had a little "grog" in him. He said his nerves were settled then.

TWO CHARGES were placed against Jacobson. Judge Wilder fined him $100 and costs on a charge of reckless driving and $100 and costs on a charge of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor. Jacobson paid. Judge Wilder ordered the clerk of the court to ask the secretary of state to revoke Jacobson's license.
