The thickest of the scrub until he came to a dense clump of brushwood. Into this he rushed, regardless of thorns, and threw himself into the heart of it, pulling me down by his side. "There," he panted, "I think we are safe here. They'll make for the camp as sure as fate. It will be their first idea. But this should puzzle 'em."

Elthy boasts figured me all over, and I feel as if I should never be clean again. They tied us up—the fellow who handled me could tie like a bo'un—and there we lay with our toes up beneath a tree while a great brute stood guard over us with a club in his hand. When I say "we" I mean Summerlee and myself. Old Challenger was up a tree eating pines and having the time of his life. I'm bound to say that he managed to get some fruit to us, and with his own hands he loosened our bonds. If you'd seen him sitting up in that tree hobnobbin' with his twin brother and singin' in that rollin' bass of his, "Ring Out, Wild Bells," 'cause music of any kind seemed to put 'em in a good humor, you'd have smiled, but we weren't in much mood for laughin', as you can guess. They were inclined within limits to let him do what he liked, but they drew the line pretty sharply at us. It was a mighty consolation to us to know that you were runnin' loose—and had the archives in your keepin'.

"Well, now, young fellow, I'll tell you what will surprise you. You say you saw signs of men and fires, traps and the like. Well, we have seen the natives themselves. Poor devils they were, down faced little chaps, and had enough to make them so. It seems that the humans hold one side of the plateau over yonder, and you saw the caves—and the ape men hold this side, and there is bloody war between them all the time. That's the situation so far as I could follow it. Well, yesterday the ape men got hold of a dozen of the humans and brought them in as prisoners. You never heard such a jabberin' and shriekin' in your life. The men were little red fellows and had been bitten and clawed so that they could hardly walk. The ape men put two of them to death then and there—fairly pulled the arm of one of them—it was perfectly beastly. Plucky little chaps they are and hardly gave a squeak. But it turned us absolutely sick. Summerlee fainted, and even Challenger had as much as he could stand. I think they have cleared, don't you?"

"We listened intently, but nothing save the calling of the birds broke the deep peace of the forest. Lord Roxton went on with his story. CHAPTER XVII. A Thrilling Rescue. I THINK you had best escape of your life, young fellow, my lad. It was catchin' those Indians that put you clean out of their heads, else they would have been back to the camp for you, as sure as fate, and got there by you. Of course, as you said, they have been watchin' us from the beginnin' out of that tree, and they knew perfectly well that we were one short. However, they could think only of this new haul. So it was I and not a bunch of apes that dropped in on you in the morning. Well, we had a horrid business afterward, and I don't think I'll ever get the whole thing out of my head. You remember the great bristle of sharp canes down below, where we found the skeleton of the American? Well, that is just under ape town, and that's the jumpin' off place of their prisoners. I expect there's heaps of skeletons there, if we looked for 'em. They have a sort of clean parade ground on the top, and they make a proper ceremony about it. One by one the poor devils have to jump, and the game is to see whether they are merely dashed to pieces or whether they get skewered on the canes. They took us out to see it, and the whole tribe lined up on the edge. Four of the Indians jumped, and the canes went through 'em like knitting needles through a mat of butter. No wonder we found that poor Yankee's skeleton with the canes growin' between his ribs. It was horrible—but it was doocedly interestin' to us. We were all fascinated to see them take the dive, even when we thought it would be our turn next on the springboard. "Well, it wasn't. They kept six of the Indians up for today—that's how I understand it—but I fancy we were to be the star performers in the show. Challenger might get off, but Summerlee and I were in the bill. Their language is more than half signs, and it was not hard to follow them. So I thought it was time we made a break for it. "So I broke away early this mornin', gave my guard a kick in the tummy that laid him out and sprinted for the camp. There I got you and the guns, and here we are. "But 'the professor'!" I cried in consternation. "Well, we must just go back and fetch 'em. I couldn't bring 'em with me. Challenger was up the tree, and Summerlee was not fit for the effort. The only chance was to get the guns and try a rescue. Of course they may catch them if they don't catch Challenger, but I wouldn't answer for Sum-bigger. But they would have had him in any case. Of that I am certain. So I haven't made matters any worse by bolting. But we are honor bound to go back and have them out or see it through with them. So you had better make up your soul, young fellow, my lad, for it will be the one way or the other before events!" (To Be Continued.)

RHEUMATISM MEDICINE FREE We want the name of every person everywhere who is suffering from rheumatism, so we can send him a free sample bottle of Hill's Rheumatic Remedy. We don't care how long or how severe he has had it, as there are very few cases that have not yielded and been thoroughly cured with it. It works at once. In twenty-four hours it stops the pain. Don't take our word for it—test it at our expense. This is not a new untried thing. For twenty-five years it has been regarded by physicians as practically the only certain treatment for this terrible disease. Over 10,000 Testimonials Like These: "Mr. E. M. Ehlers, Sect'y, Grand Lodge of Masons of New York City, writes that: 'Although a sufferer from rheumatism for many years two doses stopped all pain and one bottle cured me.' Mr. A. Goldman, Victoria, Texas, says: 'I am very well pleased with your medicine; am recommending it very highly. It has done more for me than anything I have ever tried.' Marshall P. W. Geraty, of 70 Manhattan St., New York, says: 'I have suffered with rheumatism for many years, have tried almost every known remedy but got no relief or cure until I took yours. In forty-eight hours I was entirely cured and free from all pain. I send this unolicited.' Hill's Rheumatic Remedy is on sale at most drug stores at $1.00 per bottle. One bottle generally effects a complete cure. Call or send for free sample bottle and booklet at once. There is no greater service you can perform for humanity than to tell any rheumatic sufferer about this wonderful preparation. Address: Hill Medicine Co., 117 East 84th St., New York, N. Y.
