Sunday School Excursion.

Sabbath School in this country there has been a rapid extension of the methods and means of gathering together the children, and in keeping their interest from flagging. None have, however, been more successful than the establishment of the monthly concert in which all have an opportunity of participating, and the annual excursion, picnic or festival contribume bonds which unite them to and draw them towards the Sabbath School, such an element for the good of the rising generation. In fact so customary have become these means of creating and keeping up the interest that it sometimes appears to be a question whether the Sabbath School could be maintained without this species of entercursion was enjoyed by the children of the Congregational church at North Benning of which Rev. H. C. Weston is par or. The school, its teachers and friends to the number of about three hundred, with Henry D. Hall, the efficient superintendent in made a trip to Rutland, arriving here about 12 o'clock. They at once, led by Wales Cornet Band, proceeded to the Town Hall, where tables had been erected and utensils provided for their convenience. The tables were soon spread and a substantial collation enjoyed. They made themselves at home, in such sports and enjoyments as were agreeable to them Later in the day they enjoyed a ramble about town, some on foot and others in home—having enjoyed a pleasant festival sive heat of the day.

Wales' Cornet Band, of North Bennington, which accompanied the excursion discoursed most excellent music. They paid the GLOBE office the compliment of a serenade before leaving for home, and they will accept our most cordial acknowledgements therefor.

F. C. White, the superintendent of the towns, gave the trot much prominence and Harlem Extension railroad, was constant in his endeavors to make the trip agreeable. and to provide for their enjoyment while

Mr. James C. Dunn and lady, and Henry F. Field, Esq. and lady, were vigilant in making arrangement for their reception.
