

"Tied some candy out of mudder's box. O Milly, dear! What shall I do?"

"Did you eat it, honey?" asked Milly, the truth beginning to dawn upon her.

"No, it's here," said Ned mournfully thrusting his fat hand into his pocket.

But alas! the chubby hand came out again a sticky mass of sugar and cream, the candies having been crushed in his sudden spring into Milly's arms. Such a doleful face as looked up into Milly's then. Its despairing expression went straight to her heart.

"There, there, never mind, honey," she said, as the blue eyes filled again, and the big tears began to roll slowly down the round cheeks.

"I'll put you on a clean dress, and wash out that pocket, and we won't say a word about it."

For one moment the grieved eyes looked doubtfully into the face of loving but foolish old nurse; then the doubtful look changed to one of certainty and determination, and little Ned said very slowly and gravely—

"Den I'd be a badder tief dan I was before, I'm dess going to wait for mudder, and tell her all about it," and slipping down from Milly's knee he went to the window to watch for his mother.

For an hour the flushed face, with every now and then another tear rolling quietly over it, was pressed against the glass, "Waiting for mudder," as Neddie said in answer to all persuasions to go out for a play in the bright sunshine.

Lillie, his two-year old sister, could not understand his curious mood, for she was used to having her merry brother ready at any time for a romp and frolic; but now when she coaxed him to come out and play, his only answer was a few big tears and a sobbing—"I'm waiting for mudder" and to all Milly's persuasions he returned the same reply.

At last the carriage drove up the avenue. Mother stepped out, and in another moment he heard her foot upon the stairs. She came in to the room, and he turned slowly from the window to meet her.

A little pocket turned inside out, and covered with a mixture of sugar and cream; a tearful, penitent face, and a tremulous voice saying brokenly—"Mudder, I isn't a welly honest little boy; I'm dess a naughty tief"—greeted her as she came in.

Mrs. Chalmers caught his meaning more quickly than Milly had done. "Have you been eating mother's candy, Neddie?" she asked very gravely.

"No, not eating 'em, only squashed 'em; but I was going to eat 'em." And the story was all told. How he had at first struggled with the temptation, and then been overcome. How at the very last he had repented, only to find, to his dismay that he could not restore the stolen candy.

Mother heard it all, with the tear-stained face laid close upon her breast; the sticky, chubby hands clasping her own with all their little strength. And then she knelt down, with her penitent boy beside her, and thanked the dear Lord Jesus that although he had yielded to the temptation she could yet feel that he was mother's honest little boy.

Ladies if you will just follow the crowd for millinery goods you will find yourself in Mrs. C. H. Curtis' large and well-filled store, where there is a fine assortment of goods, and the very lowest prices. Call and see if it is not so.

JUDGE POLAND has succeeded in having passed the bill which exempts from taxation all savings banks, doing business as such, and also exempts all deposits in such banks from taxation.

THE appointments of Gen. Briscoe to be Secretary of the Treasury and Judge Richardson as Associate Judge of the Court of Claims were confirmed by the Senate Tuesday, the former unanimously and the latter by a strict party vote.

AT the Mill River investigation on Saturday Mr. Bassett, the contractor, admitted that he did not think the work he did would prove secure, but he thought that if the dam was to be built he might as well take the job as to allow another to get it!

SENATOR MORRILL of Me., visited a church occupied by a colored congregation on Sunday, and found that civil rights did not prevail there. He received a hint that white folks were not wanted there, and accordingly retired. A few days ago he made earnest efforts in the Senate in behalf of the Civil Rights bill.

Decoration Day in Bradford. Decoration Day was observed in Bradford by appropriate ceremonies under the direction of Post Washburn, No. 17, G. A. R.

The backwardness of the season did not permit the usual profusion of floral offerings, and it also kept many of the farming community at home. The day was exceedingly warm, which served to lessen the number in attendance; notwithstanding the number present at the ceremonies was sufficient to indicate that the people of this section have an abiding interest in doing honor to the memory of the defenders of the nation.

The procession was formed in Main St., at a few minutes past 11 o'clock, under direction of Col. R. Farnham, in the following order: Bradford Brass Band—Leader R. E. Whitcomb; Post Washburn, G. A. R.—under command of Lt. J. W. Kelly; Bradford Guards—D. W. Cobb, Capt.; Orator of the Day; Clergymen, Invited Guests and Citizens in carriages.

The procession marched to the cemetery, nearly a mile and a half, formed in a hollow square, and the prescribed ceremonies by the Post took place accompanied by a dirge by the Band; singing of America by the assembly, under leadership of Mr. J. Tibbetts; prayer by Rev. L. H. Elliott, and then the Post proceeded, in a body, to each soldier's grave and placed thereon the floral decoration as a testimonial, that, although they have perished from the earth, and their bodies have returned unto dust, yet shall their memory spring up afresh in the hearts of coming generations, as springeth up the flowers in the spring-time, and the glorious deeds which they wrought shall be held in sacred remembrance, while our nation has a name.

The following is a list of those soldiers, of the late war, who are buried in our cemetery:

Charles H. Brown, company I, 17th Regt., mustered July 6, 1861; died Sept. 26, 1865.
2nd Lieut. Nat. Robie, enlisted as private in company D, 1st Regt.; reenlisted as private in the 8th Regt.; Jan. 5, 1864; Commissioned as 2nd Lieut. company D, 8th Regt., Feb. 24, 1864. Wounded May 27, 1863 and Sept. 19, 1864. Died of disease at St. Johnsbury, Dec. 6, 1864.
Sergeant Merrill G. Beard, company D, 15th Regt., killed railroad accident Nov. 1864.
Freeman H. Flemming, company D, 8th Regt., mustered Feb. 15, 1862; reenlisted Jan. 5, 1864.
David Horner, Wagoner, company B, 6th Regt., mustered Oct. 15, 1861; discharged April 19, 1863, and died since.
Geo. H. Taylor, company H, 12th Regt., enlisted August 15, 1862; discharged July 14, 1863; died after return home.
Geo. B. Worthen went into the Navy, was wounded at Roanoke Island Feb. 8, 1862; died at home Sept. 15, 1863.
Chas. Woodworth, company I, 11th Regt., enlisted to the credit of Northfield Dec. 3, 1862; died August 28, 1864.
James McLam, Sergeant company D, 15th Regt., enlisted Sept. 15, 1862; discharged June 22, 1863. Died since returning home.
John Moore, of the war of 1812. Was a Corporal in a New York Regiment. Volunteered at Buffalo, N. Y., Dec. 23d, 1812.

The following names are buried elsewhere, but have stones erected in the cemetery to their memory.

Benjamin Underwood, company D, 1st Vt. Regt., mustered May 4, 1861; died at Fort Sumner, May 31, 1861.
Moses Shumway, company D, 8th Regt., mustered Feb. 18, 1862; died at Algiers, Dec. 15, 1863.
Moody C. Martin, company B, 8th Regt., mustered Oct. 15, 1861; discharged Nov. 13, 1862; reenlisted in same regiment Nov. 30, 1863. Killed at Wilderness May 5, 1864.
Charles A. Smith, company C, 4th Regt., mustered Aug. 4, 1863; killed at Petersburg, June 21, 1864.
The following named were soldiers in the Revolutionary war:—
Cap. Emerson Corlies; Edward Pratt; John Martin; John Chadwick.
War of 1812:—
Stephen Tabor; David, Field; Andrew Field; Robert Hankins; Lt. Elijah Rowe; Mr. Bryant; Moody Aubrey; Leonard Fulham; Weyer McConnell; Nathaniel Shaw; John Carter; David Kelly; Dr. Thomas Colby; John Moore; John Putnam; Ephraim Putnam; Stephen Jenkins; Obadiah Davis.
Mexican war:—
Nelson B. Woodward.
The following enlisted from Bradford, were killed in battle, or have died and are buried elsewhere:—
Albert Woodworth, company I, 11th Regt., enlisted Dec. 2, 1863, to the credit of Northfield. Died Oct. 23, 1864, of wounds received in action.
Henry W. Dickey, company H, 12th Regt., enlisted Aug. 16, 1862; died at Wolf Run Shoals, March 13, 1863.
Rufus E. Tucker, company H, 12th Regt., enlisted Aug. 21, 1862; died Dec. 11, 1862.
Moses C. Stratton, company B, 6th Regt., enlisted Nov. 30, 1863.
Sidney T. Dolloff, company I, 17th Regt., enlisted March 29, 1864; killed at Petersburg, April 2, 1865.
John B. Shumway, company B, 5th Regt., enlisted Aug. 11, 1862; transferred to V. R. Corps Jan. 16, 1864; died at home Nov. 6, 1865.
Sergt. Daniel F. Skinner, company H, 4th Regt., enlisted Aug. 2, 1861; reenlisted Dec. 15, 1863; died May 16, 1864, of wounds received in Wilderness, May 5th, 1864.
Moses A. Hackett enlisted under the name of Moses A. Stanley, in company G, 4th Regt., Sept. 4, 1861; died Oct. 31, 1861.
Ralph Kendrick, company G, 10th Regt., enlisted July 18, 1862; discharged May 14, 1863. Afterwards enlisted in a Maine Regt., and died in the service.
Thos. Kirby, company G, 6th Regt., enlisted June 6, 1862, and died Jan. 13, 1864.
Charles Woburn, company D, 8th Regt., mustered Feb. 18, 1863, and died March, 1863.
Stephen S. Taylor, company D, 1st Regt., died after returning home.
Byron B. Wilson, Corporal company H, 4th Regt., enlisted Sept. 5, 1861.—Killed in battle of Wilderness May 5, 1864.
Amos B. Chaso, company H, 2nd Regt. Sharpshooters; mustered into service Nov. 30, 1862; killed at Petersburg, Va., June 13, 1864.
After this ceremony was concluded, Maj. Josiah Grout, Jr., of Newport, the orator of the day, delivered a very able and interesting address, which if space would permit we should be glad to publish. The Major is a Vermonter, who won distinction as a gallant soldier, in a N. Y. Cavalry Regt., and is no less distinguished as an able lawyer and speaker, than he was as a soldier.

After singing a beautiful piece appropriate to the occasion by the assembly, the procession returned to the village in the same order as it marched to the cemetery and was dismissed.

TRIALS, JUNE 2.
The jury calendar showed nine trials, but on calling the list of cases the number was reduced to fifty-five, and the number will undoubtedly shrink to less than twenty as the cases are in danger of being reached.

Joseph K. Darling, Esq., of East Corinth, and Watson T. Dunmore, late principal of Bradford Academy, were admitted to the Orange County Bar.

The first case for trial is No. 17 C. E. Abbott & Co. v. Ambrose Vose and Cyr en Joslyn. Action of covenant on lease. Perrin and Dennison for plff. Rowell and Clarke for defts.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 3.
No. 17, continued till into the afternoon when it was given to the jury.

SUICIDE IN FAIRLEE. Miss C. Morse, aged thirty-three years, daughter of Calvin Morse, of West Fairlee, drowned herself in a small brook running near the house, about five o'clock Saturday morning, leaving the house in her night clothes. Insanity was the cause.

$5.00 REWARD.
I will pay the above reward to any one returning to me a small Black Mare, blind in one eye, that strayed from the enclosure of Mr. Leonard, last Saturday.

MOSES LAROCK.
Newbury, Vt., May 26, 1874.

CONGRESS. Thursday May 28. In the Senate, the Alabama contested election case was decided in favor of Spencer. A bill for the admission of Pembina as a Territory was taken up, and after an amendment in favor of woman suffrage had been lost, the bill itself was rejected. The resolutions providing for an inquiry as to the best method of electing the President and Vice-President of the United States were reported back from the committee to which they had been entrusted.

In the house of representatives the bill for the relief of Captain Hall's widow was passed. The new currency bill was reported, and by a vote of 112 to 117, rejected. A motion to concur in the senate substitute was lost, and afterwards a vote was passed for a conference committee to consider the disagreement between the two houses. The bill for the reduction of the army was considered, and a committee appointed to investigate the condition of affairs in Arkansas.

Friday. In the Senate, the finance bill came from the house and the senate amendments were insisted on. The vote for a conference committee was concurred in. A number of pension bills were passed and miscellaneous business transacted. In the house of representatives the Army Reduction bill was further discussed and passed.

Monday. In the Senate, the Indian appropriation bill was discussed, and a large number of amendments agreed to. The naval academy appropriation bill, and bill amending the patent laws were passed, and a variety of other matters were considered. In the house of representatives the amendatory tariff bill was passed, as was the bill amending the mining laws, and a bill relieving savings banks having capital stock from tax on deposits.

Tuesday. In the Senate, the Indian appropriation bill was passed after a number of additional amendments had been agreed to. In the house of representatives the bill relating to the courts of justice in Utah Territory was passed.

Wednesday. In the Senate, the freedmen's bank bill and the consular and diplomatic and prison appropriation bills were passed. In the house of representatives amendments to the army appropriation bill, the repeal of the treaty with Belgium, and war claims were among the matters under consideration.

P. T. BARNUM'S GREAT TRAVELING WORLD'S FAIR AND ENTERTAINMENT EXPOSITION. Although this stupendous amusement combination is to pitch its acres of canvas colleges for the first time in Bradford, Tuesday, June 16th, its national fame has given it the most favorable of local introductions everywhere, and there are, besides, many of our readers who, having seen elsewhere, are prepared to unqualifiedly endorse the assertion that it is really more than twenty superior shows in one, and in marvellous magnitude, magnitude, variety and moral character, many times the most comprehensive, beneficial, costly and extraordinary enterprise in all the annals of field entertainment.

When this gigantic combination was first put upon the road, the managers of shows previously considered first-class in proportion to their cost, and certain to break in pieces from its unwieldy weight, and fall in ponderous irrefragable ruin upon its projector's head. The result—given far beyond Mr. Barnum's own most sanguine anticipations—is too well known to require comment. There was a method in his madness, utterly confounding the dismal sawdust program. His lecture was continuous, and soon began to set the whole country wild. Crazy millions congregated from all sections to view the almost superhuman results of his crazy curiosity-seeker's managerial efforts; and his well-researched and speculations have more than kept pace with the unmitigated excitement, until the circus—monstrous, in all the rest—unanimously pronounces the result altogether too multitudinous for description. In the words of Coleridge's "Pantismon," "Where all the world is mad 'tis worse than madness to be sane" and so, when the 1,000 men and horses, 100,000 cardinal curiosities, 1,500 rare animals, birds and reptiles, and super-proportion of "The World's Show" make their appearance, this community, and those adjacent, may as well calmly prepare themselves for an apocalyptic exhibition of insanity, which will culminate in a visit to the vast city of twenty-cent-pole pavilions, encompassing the wonderful Talking Machine, which sings and converses fluently in many tongues, the only living Giraffes in the country; the anatomical four-ton Asiatic Rhinoceros, as big as a common elephant, the strongest attracted Fiji Cannibals, with irrefragable penchant for missionary cheese; monster living Sea Monsters from the North Pole, in huge tanks of water; Admiral Det, the pigmy of dwarfs and smallest man that ever lived; a steam engine operated; Hall of Automata; and Polytechnic Institute, containing hundred of most wonderful life-imitating figures and fancy scenes; a colossal triple circus troupe and a visible crop of soft, silken hair has started on a part of the scalp which was entirely bald.—[Democrat, Abingdon, Va.]

HAIR VIGOR. In common with many others we have felt a lively interest in the investigation which Dr. FERRIS has been making to discover the causes of failure of the hair, and to provide a remedy. His researches are said to have been more thorough and exhaustive than any ever made before. The result is now before us under the name of ALEX. H. HARRIS' HAIR VIGOR. We have given it a trial, and with full satisfaction. It equals our most favorable anticipations. Our gray hairs have disappeared, or resumed their original color, and a visible crop of soft, silken hair has started on a part of the scalp which was entirely bald.—[Democrat, Abingdon, Va.]
