

HOME NEWS.

Eugene has a population of 1,500. Baker county is entirely clear of the small pox.

The church edifices of Eugene are worth $5,000. Potatoes are worth only 37 cents per bushel in Eugene.

There are twenty-seven newspapers published in Oregon. The McMinnville Reporter has entered upon its third volume.

Flour at Baker City is scarce and retailing at three and a half cents a pound. The Common Council of Salem have vacated the foot of Trade street for wharf purposes.

John R. Brown and Frank Trimble are the names of the volunteers killed in the late battle.

The Umpqua Valley has got the horse disease and several deaths of valuable horses are reported.

Citizens of the Goose Lake country have organized a company for home protection against Indian raids.

Two hundred and seventy deeds and mortgages were recorded in the Clerk's office in Jackson county during 1912.

Water from Mill creek is to be brought in a ditch to the Penitentiary at Salem for the purpose of driving machinery.

Mr. Waldron was the recipient of a benefit at the Theater on Tuesday evening, and the house was filled to overflowing.

The printers of Salem propose contributing toward the erection of a suitable monument to the memory of Horace Greely.

The Oregonian says the next thing to be a newspaper at Hillsboro, devoted to the interests of Washington county and Republican in politics.

Prof. Chaney is to lecture in Oro Fino Hall next Sunday evening at half past seven. Subject, "Physical Life and Life Eternal." Seats free.

The Corvallis Gazette says that no real cause existed for the Siletz excitement, and that the Indians were as badly scared as the whites.

A Marion county man has been cured of fever after the doctor had quit fooling with him, by gratifying his thirst for cider and hunger for pickles.

A lumber yard is to be started at Hillsboro, and it is expected large quantities of material will be used there the coming summer in building.

The Molok Chieflain known as Shack Nasty Jim (modo-California), being filially join to have his mother on a sick bed, when called to war, considerably killed her before leaving.

A Douglas county paper says: There is more sickness in this county now than ever before since its settlement. The measles and whooping-cough are the most prevalent. The doctors are kept busy.

The many friends of Mrs. Capt. Crandall will be pleased to learn that she is recovering from a very dangerous illness which, for a time, was considered fatal. We cordially welcome our sister back to life and usefulness.

Corvallis College is now enjoying great prosperity, and the Faculty are laboring with untiring zeal and energy. Every county in the State is now represented in the State Agricultural Department. Spring session opens March 18th.

McMinnville has two flouring mills, one planing mill, four dry goods stores, two drug stores, one harness shop, two boot and shoe shops, three blacksmith shops, one furniture shop, one hotel, one paint shop, one butcher shop and a picture gallery.

Says the Statesman: We are informed that the Pioneer Oil Company of this city has under contract about sixty thousand acres of flax for the crop of this year. The principal part of it is in Linn county, where it has succeeded heretofore better than elsewhere.

A writer at Empire City, to the Advocate, says: "Business and population have largely increased since I first traveled this circuit. We average from fifteen to twenty vessels per month, mostly schooners from San Francisco. The trade, lumber and coal centers there, and the place seems to be our nearest neighbor."

A Douglas county paper says: "Over one thousand acres of grain will, it is estimated, be raised in the Missouri Bottom, in this county the present season. The farmers of Cow Creek and the South Umpqua are equally active in seeding. It is safe to estimate that 200,000 bushels of grain will be raised in the three valleys above mentioned, the present year."

Out of the fire! S. J. McCormick, the unextinguishable indefatigable book seller and stationer, has arisen from the ashes of the late catastrophe, opened an extensive business again, and as evidence of his determination to succeed and deserve success, he flings an advertisement to the breeze to which we call everybody's attention. Look out for St. Valentine. "Mac" has harnessed him for duty.

The Salem Mercury says: The Governor, on Wednesday the 23d, made out a list of lands embracing 1,840 acres, selected for Capital building purposes, and caused the same to be transmitted to the La Grande office for approval, said lands being located in that district. Also, a list of the same class of lands embracing 641 30-100 acres, located in the Roseburg district. Congress has donated 10 sections for this purpose.

A large meeting of farmers was expected at Corvallis last Saturday. The Gazette says: "Many farmers of Benton county were, by threat of law and other means, compelled to dispose of their wheat at 50c to 55c per bushel, when, within a short time thereafter, it would have readily commanded 75c to 80c per bushel. The farmers have endured this until forbearance has ceased to be a virtue, and are now moving to throw off the galling chains of serfdom that have too long bound them."

The revival at Gervais seems to be almost as remarkable as that at Salem. The meeting has been held daily for nearly six weeks, and they will be continued yet, for some days. They have been, most of the time, conducted by Methodists, Baptists and Cumberland Presbyterians, but now only the latter are engaged in them. Rev. Mr. Henderson of Salem preached there Sunday when twenty-seven persons joined the church, and about thirty were forward for prayers. In all, there have been about sixty conversions.

Clark Smith, writing to the Advocate, says the chief features of the Nehalem mountains is their coal. The beds which have been definitely located and claimed are in the eastern range, but coal doubtless exists in the other ranges as they are of equal elevation, and are a continuation of the eastern. The coal is remarkable for its fine, close texture, and for the large per cent. of bitumen which it contains. Instead of being imbedded in rock or the usual coal measures it is found in a bluish sand, which may account for the entire absence of fossil leaf impressions which are so abundant at the Cowitz and other coals. The seams are generally in a horizontal position and contain but a small per cent. of impurity of sand, clay and pyrites.
