The road has been ragged and rough, old man,
you see a dear being with graite eyes
as shared your labor and sarrines.
If their has been sunshine enough,
For you and me, sunshine enough.

You're now ut the foot of the hill, old man; At last at the foot of the hill. The sun has gone down in the golden glow. And the Heavenin City lies just below. Ge in through the pearly gate, old man— The beautiful pearly gate.

We have a great many divorces in our State. (Interrupted by a member of the committee). Never mind my friend from Delaware, he has never been troubled with a divorce. One poor woman went before the legislature and asked for a divorce. She had left her husband two years before. She had accumulated about $100 in the hands of her employer, and that sugabond of a husband laid an injunction upon that momey and would not allow her to collect it; and the laws of the State of Data ware would not let her employer pay aware would not let her employer par it to her, because she was her huse and slave, and nothing more, although and the taking care of herself and the dren for two or three years. She cam to me and asked me what to do do, an said, "Get a divorce." She went b fore the legislature, and the legislatur granted her a divorce at once, after con-sidering her trials and what she has done. And I said, "Now, let the ma-pay the money and the other get it i he can; I will trust it to the beach." Ami she got it out of his hands, and th vagabond never troubled her.
