

PARTY HATRED.

IT IS ENGENDERED BY RIVAL ASPIRANTS FOR NOMINATION

For President on the Republican Ticket, Reed's Position is Clearly Defined - National Democratic Association Club Will Meet at St. Louis, Inauguration Regarding Canada Paper Immigration to Be Checked.

WASHINGTON, April 17th, 1896.

Speaker Reed is now the object of the McKinleyites' hatred to a marked extent. They realize that if McKinley fails to capture the Republican nomination it will be because of Reed's opposition, which is making itself felt in a much stronger manner than some people deemed possible. A prominent McKinleyite said, under conditions which prevent the use of his name: "Reed may possibly succeed in keeping McKinley out of the nomination, but it won't do him any good. Not only will McKinley's friends work against Reed, but they will endeavor to throw the nomination to some man who will not treat Reed any better than Harrison did during his term."

Although the charge has not directly been made, the inference from the repeated refusals of Senator Mitchell, of Oregon, who is in charge of the resolution, to set a date for taking a vote on the question of seating Col. Dupont as Senator from Delaware, is that he is afraid to have a vote taken. Senator Gorman evidently does not take much stock in the talk of adjournment in May, as he remarked when Senator Mitchell tried to give his reasons for not setting a date for a vote, that it meant it would be put off until after June 1.

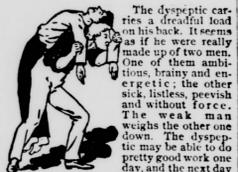

Two Republican members of the House who have been included in dreams of the figure they would cut in the speaker's chair of the next House, provided, of course, that the Republicans continue to control that body, were very much disgusted when it was authoritatively denied that Speaker Reed intended to retire from public life if he failed to get nominated for President. Their dream is over, unless they can get Reed nominated at St. Louis, as they know he can be Speaker as long as he remains in the House and the House remains Republican. Hopkins, of Ill., and Barrett, of Mass., are the members referred to.

There is no longer any reason for doubt as to where Speaker Reed stands. The platform adopted by the Maine Republicans this week was submitted to Mr. Reed for his approval and for the purpose of allowing him to make any desired changes therein several days before the convention met. Mr. Reed revised the platform and made several changes in the wording, so that it may be considered as a personal declaration of principles held by him. He deserves more credit than McKinley, for in his handling of the financial question, he doesn't try to straddle it, but comes out squarely against silver and in favor of gold.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the National Association of Democratic Clubs held here this week, it was decided to hold the next national convention of the association at St. Louis, on Sept. 30th next. The committee adopted a resolution thanking all who helped to make the Jeffersonian birthday pilgrimage to Monticello a success. After adjourning the committee called in a body at the White House, to pay their respects to President Cleveland.

Representative Livingston, of Ga., succeeded in getting applause from both sides of the House in a few remarks he made, which he called explanatory of the increase from $2,000,000 which was the amount appropriated last year, to $11,000,000, which was carried by the Fortification appropriation bill passed this week. When it wasn't anticipated. At this point Mr. Wash of New York, interrupted to ask if Mr. Livingston knew that England had sent 45 rapid-fire guns to Kingston, Canada, for the protection of the lakes. "It matters not," replied Mr. Livingston, "if she has sent 45,000 guns. We can, in the event of war, take Canada in three weeks, no matter how many guns or men she might send there." That brought the loudest applause of all.

Notwithstanding pressure to relax the strict enforcement of the immigration law brought by agents of the steamship lines the law will be strictly enforced and if it becomes necessary to relieve the overcrowded station in New York harbor the Italian immigrants will be put back upon the steamers which brought them over until their right to land is established. The steamship men knew the law when they brought those papers over here.

The dyspeptic carries a dreadful load on his back. It seems as if he were really made up of two men. One of them ambitious, brainy and energetic; the other sick, listless, peevish and without any force. The weak man weighs the other one down. You do not become a dyspeptic by eating. You do not become a dyspeptic by not eating. You do not become a dyspeptic by eating too much. You do not become a dyspeptic by eating too little. You do not become a dyspeptic by eating too fast. You do not become a dyspeptic by eating too slow. You do not become a dyspeptic by eating too hot. You do not become a dyspeptic by eating too cold. You do not become a dyspeptic by eating too much of any one thing. You do not become a dyspeptic by eating too little of any one thing. You do not become a dyspeptic by eating too much of any one thing. You do not become a dyspeptic by eating too little of any one thing.

HOGS AS PLACER MINERS.

Mr. Johnson's Unique Method of Digging Pay Dirt in California.

"I was riding through the mountains in Trinity county a few days ago," said a prominent mining man, "when I happened to take a trail that leads to old 'Burlap' Johnson's cabin, and witnessed his peculiar method of placer mining. "He took down a double barreled muzzle loading shotgun and his powder horn. He sat down on a bench at the cabin door, rammed down a couple of charges of powder and poured a handful of corn into each barrel. He put on a percussion cap, pressed it down with the hammer, cocked both barrels and blazed away at the side hill across the little gulch. The roar had not died away until a drove of hogs came running, grunting and squealing and commenced to root the side hill for the corn. Whenever they slacked up in their work the old man fired another charge of corn.

"That's a mean trick," said I. "Why don't you feed it to them in a trough?" "Feed it to 'em?" he repeated in amazement. "Then they wouldn't work. Besides they don't need it." "What do you want to make them work for, and why do you waste corn on them if they don't need it?" "Why, man alive, they do as much work for four men would. They root up the dirt, and when the rain comes I sluice it."

"Then I understood that he was using the hogs to help him mine."

A bulletin on the subject of cork will soon be issued by the Department of Agriculture. The bulletin will advocate the culture of cork trees in this country, urging that forests of these species of oak could be established with great profit in the Southern States. Statistics show that $2,000,000 worth of cork is imported into the United States annually. It is steadily increasing in value, fetching now eleven times the price that was paid for it in 1790. The soil of California is particularly well adapted to the cork oak, which grows there with greater rapidity than in Europe. Already about 1,000 of the trees have been planted in the San Gabriel Valley. The University of California has distributed several bushels of the acorns, which are said to be very good to eat, tasting like chestnuts.
