The flume carrying water to the ice works, at Tumwater, was prostrated by an accumulation of ice during the late "cold snap." It is being replaced with a new conduit.
Leopold Schmidt, of the Capital Brewing Co., Tumwater, is over from Portland on a visit. The product of his brewery is rapidly extending its fame all over the northern coast.
The next steamship sailing from Seattle for San Francisco, will be the City of Puebla, next Tuesday. The next boat for Alaska will be the City of Topeka on Sunday, the 13th inst.
This is the season for cracking fires and often red hot stove-pipes and no householder should go to bed without a thorough survey of his premises in the interest of safety against midnight conflagration.
Judge Reed united in the bonds of matrimony, last Monday, B. R. Gibson of Bucoda and Grace E. Knight of Minneapolis, Minn. They left immediately after the nuptials for their home on Mr. G.'s farm near Bucoda.
The Secretary of the Interior, on the 11th inst., approved of a list of 7,133 acres of land under sec. 17 of the act of Feb. 22, 1889, located in the Seattle land district. This is part of the grant for erection of a State capitol.
Joseph Shelly's daughter Jane, aged 14, was so seriously injured by her clothes taking fire from an open fire-place, Sunday, at Independence, a settlement nine miles south of this city, that she died soon afterwards in intense pain.
The price of Eastern Washington hay has advanced to $12, and other feed products in proportion. Flour now commands $1.10, $1.20 and $1.40 per sack; potatoes from 60 to 75 cents per hundred; butter 40 cents per roll and eggs 30 cents per dozen.
"Billy" Esling, late business manager of the Olympian, is now employed in a similar position on a paper at Roseland. He writes that he now sees dollars where he saw dimes in his former position, and his friends may consider his "tra-la" a final adieu.
Two bids were submitted for keeping the county poor, one by Mark Wynn for 25 cents per day, and another by Chas. Seed for 30 cents per day, but both were rejected by the Commissioners and the matter was laid over for consideration of the new board.
The People's Political Club, at its meeting Saturday night, adopted a constitution, which sets forth the objects to be education upon matters of public policy. Meetings will be held every Saturday night, and to-morrow night officers for the ensuing year will be elected.
J. H. Mori, who resided on a farm near Tumwater, dropped dead from heart trouble, Saturday night, at the age of 64 years. He came to this country about five years ago, bringing his family, a wife and six children. Mr. M. was a veteran of the war, and for the past year has been cared for at the Soldiers' Home at Orting. He was a Mason and Odd Fellow. The doublets on their way to Portland, where opium always has an established value. On arrival of the Multnomah, the doctor caught sight of rather a tough-looking character wrestling with a huge valve, which was placed on the wharf while its owner awaited the landing of the passengers. This individual was joined by another, and as they started for the street the doctor made himself known by pass-word and grip, and asked to see the inside of the valve. The strangers seemed to be willing, and handed it to the doctor. Arriving at Columbia street, the doctor suggested that they go to the Carlton House for an investigation, but as he turned down that street his companions kept on up Third, with the remark that they would see him later. The doctor was in a dilemma, and in the emergency decided that "a bird in the hand" was probably worth more than "two in the bush," and concluded to maintain his grip on the "grip," though the heavens should fall. It contained 60 pounds of opium, packed in 70 tins. The "dope" was sent to the Port Townsend custom-house, but its owners were not sent anywhere from sheer inability to ascertain what had become of them after they bade the doctor an affectionate adieu on the street corner.

Just What Miners Want.
All who are, or expect to be, interested in mines will be glad to know that Henry N. Copp, the Washington (D. C.) land lawyer, has revised Copp's Prospector's Manual. The mineralogical part of the work has been almost entirely rewritten by a Colorado mining engineer, who has had years of experience as a prospector, assayer and superintendent of mines and United States surveyor.
The book is a popular treatise on assaying and mineralogy, and will be found useful to all who wish to discover mines. The first part of the work gives the United States mining laws and regulations, how to locate and survey a mining claim, various forms and much valuable information. The price is 50 cents at the principal book stores, or of the author.

Cure for Crippled Children.
The National Surgical Institute, No. 319 Bush street, San Francisco, successfully treats all cases of orthopedic surgery.
One or more surgeons of this institute will be at the Hotel Olympia, Olympia, Friday, Dec. 11th, one day, to examine cases. The success of the Institute in treating all cases of curvature of the spine, diseases of the hip and knee joints, club feet, crooked limbs and bodily deformities as well as piles, fistula, nasal catarrh and all chronic diseases has made for the Institute a national reputation. Write for circular.

STATE NEWS.
A small plant has been established in Aberdeen by Paul Strauch for making soap.
E. M. Ranch, of Pomeroy, shipped 600 boxes of Garfield county apples to Portland, Or., last week.
The trustees of the Pullman agricultural college ask for $87,000 from the legislature for the next two years.
The woods at the headquarters of the Wishkah river are said to be infested by a large number of big gray wolves.
The Kelso Journal says the recent freshet in Lewis river, Cowlitz county, was the greatest since December, 1867. Great damage was done to property along the river.
The tax levy on city property in Seattle for 1897 has been fixed at 11 mills for the old limits, or for the first eight wards, and 8 mills for the new limits of ninth ward.
A baby was born to the wife of Captain Olesen, of the Norwegian Bark Record, while that vessel was off Cape Flattery November 27, during one of the most furious storms of the year.
Theodore Cleaves went to his house, about five miles south of Chehalis, at an early hour Tuesday morning, and with a Winchester rifle blew off the top of his head. He had been on a spree for several days. Cleaves was between 35 and 40 years of age and unmarried.

The Duniway single mill, at Castle Rock, was attached last Monday. The total amount of this week $2,321.33. The Advertiser says this is the result, in a measure, of the recent floods in the Cowlitz.
A. L. McWhorter, who was taken to the hospital in Sebo, Snohomish county, last week, badly frozen from exposure in the mountains, submitted an amputation of both of his feet last Saturday.
The total receipts of the second annual exhibition of the Washington State fair, held at North Yakima, from September 23 to October 3, 1896, were $3,943.55; the disbursements were $3,922.10, leaving $21.85 cash on hand.
The Sateo Manufacturing Company is running its big sawmill on five-quarters time, using the output of the different logging camps near Bucoda. If any one is idle in Bucoda it must be from choice rather than a desire to secure employment.
The Sound came in to Cosmopolis early last week, and went out Tuesday, carrying 314,000 feet of lumber and boxes, and 50,000 pickets eight feet long. Her destination now is a small landing about 500 miles below San Francisco, to deliver orange boxes.
Mrs. Rose Zettler, of Tacoma, convicted in the Pierce county Superior court of the crime of grand larceny and sentenced to 18 months in the penitentiary at hard labor, will have to serve her term, the Supreme court having affirmed the decision of the Superior court for refusing a new trial.
The police Sunday caught a bold robber in the act of breaking through the wall of McDonald & Sessions' shoe store, at Tacoma from a vacant room of the Bryan and Rogers Club. He was using buggy springs to make a hole in the brick. He is a tough-looking fellow, and gave his name as Tom Warren.
During the recent flood of the Cowlitz river, a large cedar caught upon the submerged cable upon which the ferry is operated between Kelso and Cathlamet, and it was several days before the obstruction could be removed. This has been accomplished, however, and the ferry resumed operation Tuesday.
The Pasco News has again changed hands, and Attorney Charles L. Harris, who was recently elected to the legislature from Franklin county, is at the helm. In his bow to the public he says he will continue to publish the paper just as long as he has the best wishes of the people and the vigilantes keep off his trail.
Good horses must be a drug on the market when 1,100-pound matched teams sell for $4.50 a team, and 1,000-pound horses, broke to ride and drive, bring $2.50 a head. These were the prices last week, and the market was last week, at an auction sale of horses of the Northern Pacific Railway Company at Tacoma.
The Barnes cannery, at South Bend, will probably start up again the 15th of December, when the season again opens. Steeldrums are already beginning to run, and the exact number of cases of salmon canned at the Barnes' cannery this season is 9,225. Besides this was shipped to Portland, in bulk, about 144,000 pounds of fish.
The strange burglar who took possession of Fred Everett's bathhouse at Green Lake, near Seattle, last week, and calmly bathed, fed and amused himself there, has been captured. He is the crazy man, George Kewer, who recently escaped from Steilacoom and has been hiding since at Green Lake. He was taken back to Steilacoom.
George Monroe, who is serving a short term in the county jail at Tacoma, is on parole. He has received a letter from Germany informing him that a legacy from his grandfather's estate awaited his order. It has been lying at interest for five years, while his whereabouts were unknown. The amount is not stated.
The delay in beginning the construction work at the new army posts at Seattle, Wash., and Bismark, N. D., is explained at the war department as being due to the fact that clear titles to the proposed sites have not yet been given to the government. Until clear titles are issued and filed at the war department, the work of construction cannot be undertaken.
On a recent trip to Tacoma, the steamer Olympia brought two brimstone pheasants for Frank Alling. Although half a dozen pheasants were sent him, only two arrived safely. Two of the six escaped and two died en route. Mr. Alling expects four more pheasants will be put on Fox island with several others that have been turned loose during the past three years.
Al Phelps, a gambler, committed suicide at Spokane, Tuesday, by taking morphine. Phelps was well known in Montana and Eastern Washington. For four months he had been running a gambling-house at Northport, but apparently went broke. The coroner found no money, but a pawn-ticket for a watch indicated that his last resources had been exhausted.
The Ellensburg creamery, from February 1, 1896, to October 30, 1896, ran 274 days; the milk of 600 cows was used and 1,713,700 pounds of milk were worked; 21,280 pounds of cream were bought, and 76,631 pounds of butter made; the average price per pound for butter was 20 1/2 cents, and for butter fat 3 1/2 cents. Customers were charged 24 cents a pound for making butter.
The farmers who live on the marshes in the valleys of the Snohomish, Stillaguamish and Skagit rivers are busily engaged raising their houses above the highest mark reached in the recent floods. The barns are also being raised, and preparations generally made for another flood. This looked for flood is extremely probable, for never has there been so much snow on the ground in November.

Private Wm. Jones was tried by court-martial at Vancouver barracks, Wednesday, and convicted of desertion. He was sentenced to be dishonorably discharged from the service, to forfeit all pay and allowances due him, and to be confined at hard labor for one year. The sentence had been approved by the reviewing authority, and the military prison at Alcatraz Island, Cal., designated as the place of confinement.
"Bob" Smith, a half-breed of Ohop valley, brought to Tacoma recently five deer, which he shot in one day. He used a single shot non-repeating Winchester rifle. He found the deer lying down, and as they did not see him, he dropped them one after another. It is a fact, says the Ledger, that frequently a band of deer at antelope can all be killed before running away if found lying down or quietly feeding, providing the hunter keeps out of sight. After each killing the others seem to become so excited and bewildered that they only circle around their dead companions and soon they are all killed.

Friday afternoon, as the Port Townsend Southern express was heading toward Port Townsend, a fire was noticed in the residence of George Cooper, of Leland. The train was stopped, and all hands, including half a dozen passengers, were soon at the scene of the fire. The fire originated from a defective flue. A large portion of the roof of the dwelling was destroyed. The damage amounted to about $100.
The cold snap found the people of Ellensburg poorly prepared for a siege, especially being very scarce, the advent of the new wood heaters had had a good supply on hand. As a result the price at once jumped up and four-foot wood, which had been snapped up, when it could be secured, at $1 a cord, slab wood, green chunks and everything that looked like fuel was readily sold.
Several accidents occurred in South Bend last week because of the slippery condition of the sidewalks. A young daughter of John Stewart fell on the icy plank and sustained what may prove a serious injury. She was taken to the Hotel Albee in an unconscious condition, and remained so for about half an hour. When she recovered consciousness she was removed to her home. Jas. A. Johnson was severely injured, Monday morning, by a fall. S. S. Noteman slipped and fell one day last week and suffered some severe bruises.
Last Saturday morning two tramps stole a ride on a brake beam of the early morning passenger train, from Walla Walla to Bolles junction. When they reached the latter place, they were glad indeed to crawl out from their uncomfortable riding place. They were covered with snow and frost from head to foot, and their hands were swollen to double their normal size. The poorly clad hobos quickly made their way to the fire in the waiting room at the station, where they spent most of the day. One of the men's toes were frozen.
Some time ago, a report was circulated that several corpses had been found on the farm of Joseph Mauerman, a farmer living in the eastern end of Lewis county. The matter was investigated and found to have been only a rumor that in some manner had gained its way into Lewis county, and has lived on his present farm for the past 18 years.
Roy Reilly, about 18 years old, a son of Mr. and Mrs. William Reilly, who formerly kept a restaurant at Schone Junction, was drowned near Point Lawrence, Orcas Island, in the heavy gale last Wednesday. He was trying to cross from Clark's Island, to Orcas in a small boat. His father, who was on Clark's Island, saw him disappear, but was powerless to help him, and was unable to get away from the island until Friday. The boy had gone out in his boat to tow another boat ashore, which had gone ashore. Fragments of one boat were found yesterday at Point Lawrence, and the other near Peavine Pass, about seven miles from Clark's Island.
In the latter part of 1894, Ed. Holtzheim, a farmer of California creek, north of Custer, in Whatcom county, Pa., was shot in the chest by a door by somebody. He grasped the gun, and a second shot took effect in his leg, and in the darkness, the assailant escaped. Andrew Miller, with whom he had some previous quarrels, was charged with the attempted murder and had a preliminary hearing, and was bound over to the Superior court. There was no evidence brought forward to show that Miller had anything to do with the shooting, or on motion of the county attorney, the case has been dismissed on the grounds of insufficiency of the evidence.
About 1 o'clock Monday morning fire destroyed the residence of H. McDonald, a farmer, living six miles from Anacortes and also burned to death the only person in the house at the time, Mrs. McDonald. The origin of the fire is not known. Mr. McDonald had gone to the home of his son-in-law, Henry Layton, leaving his wife, who was 70 years old, and blind, at home. The burning building was seen by J. S. Sattler, a neighbor, before any one could reach the spot the roof had fallen in. An examination of the debris revealed the remains, terribly charred and almost unrecognizable, of the unfortunate woman. The contents of the property belonged to L. H. Andrew.
The output of logs from the largest lumbering concern of Mason county for the month of October was 12,041,000 feet, divided as follows: Peninsular Railroad, Simpson's two camps, 4,028,000; Mason County Logging Co., 1,413,000; Simpson's camps on Port Blakely railroad, 3,900,000; Williams' and other camps, 3,200,000; Southwestern Railroad, 2,800,000. This does not include the smaller camps on Hood Canal and other places in the county. The annual log burned out at the Tacoma mill, which reach 150,000,000 for the year 1896, and at the reasonable estimate of $5 per thousand feet, will reach a total of $750,000 worth of logs produced in the county. This is the main industry of Mason county.—Shelton Journal.

Paul Bates, a student of Vashon college, and Carl Chelcen, an assistant superintendent at the Tacoma mill, were probably drowned last week while crossing to Tacoma from Vashon Island, seven miles distant. Chelcen spent Thanksgiving with friends at Burton, where the college is located. About 9 p. m. they boarded Bates' sailboat to cross to the city, Bates expecting to return by steamer the next morning. A brisk north wind was in their favor, and they had not been seen for several days, when they were found dead on the sea all his life. He was a native of Sweden, and came here about five years ago, on the steamer American. Both were aged 21 years. Bates' family reside in Tacoma.
Joe Twyman, an old timer, 75 years of age, was found dead in his house, five miles west of Walla Walla, Monday morning. He lived alone on what is known as the old Coe farm. As he had not been seen for several days, his neighbors went to his home that morning and found him lying dead on the floor. He lay near the stove, with an armload of wood beside him, his white locks covered with snow that drifted on him. He had gloves on his hands and sacks wrapped around his feet, indicating that he had entered the house just before he died. It is supposed heart disease caused his death. Twyman lived in that county for 40 years, was one time well-to-do, but said he gave most of his property to a woman with whom he was infatuated and who abandoned him shortly after she secured possession.

Another Walla Walla firebug has fallen into the clutch of the law. A man by the name of Keen was caught setting fire in the barn of Harry Riffe, in that city, Monday morning. About 7 o'clock, Riffe noticed smoke issuing from the barn. He went to the barn and found Keen standing in one of the stalls with a blazing fire built by the side of a horse that stood in the stall. Riffe grabbed the man and stamped out the fire. After the fire was put out, Riffe dragged Keen out of the barn and to the police station. He fought desperately to escape, but Riffe turned him over to City Marshal Kaufman. Keen was given a preliminary examination, and placed under $1,000 bonds to appear in the Superior court. He made a statement that he and a pal had been on a protracted drunk for several days, and that the night before they went into the barn to sleep, and that the next morning his companion started the fire to get warm.
