His methods were such as to cause alarm among nervous people, and it was finally deemed necessary to give him officially, a "grand bonjour," and he was sent on his way to other and more inviting fields.

J. H. Dillinger & Son arrived yesterday with their steam merry-go-round, to remain over the celebration. Mr. Dillinger says that Seattle, Everett, and other cities tried hard to secure the machine for the Fourth. Loss in amount as he had already made arrangements to come to Olympia he gave the matter no thought. Besides the many improvements made in the machine since they were here last year, a valuable and handsome piece of head-work for the center decorations which was imported from Germany, has been added.

Fred Marshall, of Tumwater, and Miss Kittie Whitaker, of Rocky Prairie, were united in marriage, Wednesday, at the bride's home, by Rev. Dr. Hayes. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Whitaker, well-known old settlers of Thurston county, and she will also be remembered by old students of Olympia Collegiate Institute as one of their number during the earlier days of that walk. Mr. Marshall is a prominent figure in the Black Hills logging interests. The best wishes of the STANDARD force are extended to the happy couple.

Harry Cooper, the shingle-weaver, met with another accident in the Richardson mill, Wednesday afternoon, while saving shingles. During an effort to move a block which had become caught, his hand fell against the saw and instantly the whole palm was cut off and the thumb almost severed. Mr. Cooper, with great nerve went to the office of a surgeon, where his wound was dressed, after amputation of the thumb, and the surgeon was sent to the hospital for care during treatment. It was but three months ago that Mr. C. was cut in the leg in the same mill.

Several of the brick buildings in our city have suffered in the past, either from defective workmanship, or poor material. It will be remembered that several years ago the main entrance of the Burmeister building on Main and Third streets had to be reinforced by columns and girders to keep it from falling. Afterward, Mr. Dorah, the telephone Superintendent who occupies quarters on the second floor, says he heard a loud crash which resembled the explosion of a dynamite boom, and on investigation found the lintel cracked, the floor sagging with fissures at various places in the masonry. Monday, Architect Hartsock had a force of men clearing away to secure a firm support from the foundation for placing a reinforcement of iron above the entrance to be supported by a column in its center. This will probably relieve the public from danger of a crash, unless an earthquake overturns the top-heavy iron wall, until the front is able to conform to common-sense principles.

The May Examinations.

The total number of applicants who took the teachers' examination in May amounted to 790, a number about equal to the average for the May examinations. About 680 of the applicants took the examination in one or all of the branches. The remaining 110 applied for certificates upon college diplomas and papers from other States. The total number of certificates issued was 547, divided as follows: First grade, 41; second grade, 292; third grade, 214. The number of applicants failing in their examination was 133, or about 21 per cent., the number of successful applicants in proportion to the whole number of applicants being much larger than at the February Examination.

One hundred and seventy-two applicants wrote for the purpose of raising their previously earned grades, and 78 succeeded in doing so.

The next quarterly examinations will be held August 9-11.

Following is the list of Thurston county applicants to whom teachers' certificates are granted upon their papers written at the May examination: Andrew Austin, Anna Brucker, J. L. Byrne, Ethel Baker, Agnes E. Farrell, Bertha Holdsworth, Jessie Hartsock, George S. Hopkins, Ida Iversen, Alice Langridge, Emma McKeay, Anna Morgan, W. C. Miller, Edna Patnade, Lottie Plomondon, Mary Scully, Rachel Shields, Lena Shields, Mary Schofield, Emma Wright, Mrs. Kate Young, Theo. Young, Eugene Canaday, D. G. C. Baker.

History does not always "repeat itself" in the minor walks of life.

The old negro melody, for instance, represents:

"Old Joe kicking up behind and before," but we fail to see

"A yellow girl kicking up behind old Joe."

In fact the procession behind "Old Joe" seems to be so attenuated as to be invisible. He appears to enjoy a monopoly of "kicking" at this time.
