STATE NEWS.

James Urquhart, a pioneer of this State, died Saturday at Napavine, at the age of 80 years.

Benjamin Dutton, the 11-year-old son of James Dutton, who lives near Waterville, accidentally shot and killed himself Sunday.

Mrs. Sarah Mathews, of Portland, was found dead in bed at Tacoma, Sunday morning, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Anna M. Loomis. She retired in good health, and her death was apparently painless.

Herman Elfrig, a watchmaker, shot and killed himself Sunday, in the rear of a saloon at Tacoma. Whiskey and gambling were the cause. He leaves a widow and four children.

Mrs. Louise Dryfoos, wife of L. Dryfoos, a well-known wholesale liquor dealer of Seattle, committed suicide at that place Sunday afternoon by shooting herself with a 45-caliber revolver. She lived for three hours after the shooting. Her husband left her after dinner to transact some business at his store down town, and during his absence she called up several friends over the telephone. She then locked herself in her room and shot herself. Before she died she said that she had committed suicide because her husband did not love her.

From the home of luxury to the life of a sailor drove W. W. Wilmot to suicide Sunday at Port Townsend, on board the American ship Kennebec, which was just ready to sail for Australia, with a cargo of lumber. Wilmot's folks are prominent and wealthy and live at Tasmania. Wilmot arrived at Port Townsend a few days ago, and on a spree, shipped before he was arrested, but before the vessel sailed begged Captain Gamman to release him. The captain refused, and Sunday as the tug was ready to take hold of the ship, Wilmot took cyanide of potassium and dropped dead in a few seconds. He was a Jew by trade.

Fred Byers, who has a bad reputation in Whatcom county, and who has been on trial for robbery twice, committed the most daring offense of his life at New Whatcom, the other night. At 9:15, while drinking, he went to one of the lower C street Japanese houses and attacked inmates with a knife. A fight ensued, and Byers attempted to get outside. The women of the house grabbed him. Two Japanese men interceded, and attempted to close the door, but Byers cut his way through. One woman was stabbed in the back and the side, and another in the left side just under the heart, and may die. One of the Japanese followed Byers out on the porch and struck him with a piece of wood, knocking him down. Byers calmly walked across the street after the fracas and washed his hands. He was arrested and is now in jail.

Mrs. Rosa Wurzer, a widow, in a fit of insanity, drowned her six children, aged from 4 to 12 years, at Uniontown, near Colfax, Sunday. Two were boys and four girls. She threw them into a well 30 feet deep, containing two feet of water, then jumped in herself and held the heads of the children beneath the surface until all were drowned. Mrs. Wurzer was found alone in the well with her six murdered children by neighbors, who pulled her out with a rope. She is violently insane. The woman's husband died a year ago, and she has since been supported by the county and charity of neighbors. The bodies of the children were hauled up one by one and carried into the sitting-room of the house, placed in a row acrosswise of a bed and a sheet thrown over them. In the pocket of one boy was found an apple, indicating that the family had finished the evening meal before the tragedy occurred. The dead children are: Anna, aged 7; Rosa, aged 11; Louis, aged 10; George, aged 4, and Joseph and Mary, twins, aged 6.

A RECENT of the population of Ballard, in King county, gives that municipality 5,416, while the government census officers were unable to enumerate more than 4,400.
