IS CORRECTLY NAMED.
MOUNT RAINIER IS PROPER ACCORDING TO OLD MAPS.

Mr. Smith, an Officer of the United States Geological Survey, Shows that "Tahoma" was a Term Applied to Various Peaks by the Indians.

If Tacoma had been situated where Whatcom is, the controversy waged concerning Mount Baker's name would probably have had as its subject the true title for Mount Baker, according to George O. Smith, of the United States Geological Survey. On the old government maps of this section of the country at Washington, D. C., Mr. Smith has discovered the word "Tahoma" is given below Mount Baker's name, and the same is the case with Mount Rainier. In his opinion this would signify that the word meant "high mountain" or "the mountain," and was applied by the natives of a certain locality to the highest peak in their vicinity.

"These old maps which are more or less imperfect, were made prior to the civil war," said Mr. Smith at the Rainier-Grand hotel. "The fact that the word was attached to both the mountains would indicate that it was a common term for a mountain, just as we speak of a place as 'the mountain.' So if Tacoma had been at Whatcom, the dispute would most probably have been about Mount Baker. It also shows that the board of geographic names had good reasons for retaining the name of Mount Rainier."

Mr. Smith is leading a party of surveyors over a strip of country at least ten miles wide, from the Okanogan river westward to Puget Sound. They will examine the geological conditions of the section traversed. Speaking of the reports which have been recently issued by the department and those which are now in press concerning the resources of the State, he said:

"The report of J. E. Spurr, who last year surveyed the Monte Christo district, is now in the press, and will be of much value to mining men. It aims to determine the real growth of the district, and is very complete.

"I have also a report on the coal fields of the Pacific coast, dealing more especially with those of Washington, which is the principal coal State on the Pacific. This report is part of a comprehensive one which deals with the resources in this line of the whole country—from a commercial standpoint. The industry is one of the richest in this State, and of more importance than is at present realized. The report will be of value to the mining men, who have co-operated with us in the work to a large extent. It outlines the prospects for the industry in Washington.

"The division of hydrography also has a report being printed by Prof. I. C. Russell, dealing with the water resources of Southeastern Washington and the adjacent part of Idaho, and another compiled by myself on the artesian resources of Yakima county. The latter will show that the artesian wells of that part of the State have a permanent supply, provided it is not wasted. The last Legislature passed a law controlling its use and calling for the capping of the wells during the winter when the water is not needed. This law is unique, being the only one in this country of which we have learned. It will prove beneficial, as it will give a constant supply. People hardly seem to realize, as a rule, that the supply of water underground can be wasted and exhausted as easily as that above ground."

A Fish With Teeth on Its Tongue.

The biggest of fresh-water fishes, the "arapaima" of the Amazon, in South America, which grows to six feet in length, has teeth on its tongue, so that the latter resembles the file and is used as such. Some kinds of trout also have the same peculiarity. Fishes that swallow their prey entire have their teeth so supported on flexible bases as to bend backward, but not forward, in order that their victims shall not escape after they have been once seized. In ages gone by, there were voracious sharks, such as would make a mouthful of you without blinking, 70 feet in length. Plenty of their teeth have been found which are five inches long, whereas the biggest of the teeth belonging to sharks that exist at the present day are 1 1/2 inches long. Speaking of extinct creatures reminds us to say that all of the early birds—those of early geological times, that is—had teeth, with which they captured the early worms of the same period. Being descendant from reptiles, it is natural that they should possess a dental equipment, but when they ceased to be carnivorous they had no teeth any longer.

She Gave Herself Away.
Judge Davis was one day in his private office when he was President of the Senate and acting Vice President. A woman came into the room to see him. He turned and said, "Well, madam, what can I do for you?" She was neatly dressed in black, with an air of extreme poverty. She told a wretched tale of sorrow and suffering, winding up with the climax that she and her little family were actually starving and had not tasted food for two days. The judge seemed deeply moved. He excused himself for not attending to the case for the moment, as the Senate was nearly ready to open. He looked at his watch with an air of vexation, as if it were not going, and said: "Can any one tell me what time it is?" His visitor pulled

WOMEN WHO ARE LED ASTRAY BY MISCHIEVOUS MARSH FIRES.

Illustrative of the baneful power of the marsh fire, there is told the story of a woman who lost her way. She turned in this direction and in that, hopelessly puzzled as to her whereabouts in the murky night. Presently ahead of her she saw the gleam of a light. At once she saw in fancy the picture of home, the lamp in the window, the cozy comfort of those under the shelter of the protecting roof, "curtained and closed and warm." Steadfastly she moved towards the light. But as she moved it seemed to change its position. It was always a little farther away from her and presently when she sank down exhausted in a swamp the light disappeared altogether.

What was the cause of her distress? It was the story, it forcibly illustrates the career of many a woman who has followed the marsh fire of love in the belief that it led to home and comfort and found herself at last exhausted and deceived.

IT'S A BITTER LESSON

learned by many a woman who thought love all-sufficient, that love alone cannot be the foundation of the home. It needs health. Strange as it may seem, the beautiful loving woman who is weak may lose the love of the husband for whom she broke all home ties, while on the other hand a woman who has no greater dower than robust health may win and hold the love of her husband past all possibility of loss. The first requisite of marriage is health. The wife first necessity is health. Health must be the mother's or she will know no happiness in her children. What makes ill-health so common among women? Why do they suffer with headache, backache and pains past description? These ailments are in general caused by disease of the delicate womanly organs, and they are in general curable by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

"I take great pleasure in writing you what great benefit your 'Favorite Prescription,' 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pleasant Pellets' have done me," says Mrs. P. A. Graham, of Rice Station, New Orleans, La. "I have been a constant sufferer for the last eight years with female weakness, nervous and general debility, trying everything I could find to help me, but to no avail. Have been treated by several country physicians, and also had some of the best city physicians prescribe for me. They all said my case was incurable and was a chronic disease of long standing, but, thanks be to God and your great medicine, I have found relief at last, and soon will be cured sound and well again. I have taken three bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and two of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and two vials of his 'Pleasant Pellets.' I can't describe in words how much benefit I have received from them. I think your medicine is the best in the world for female diseases and for the blood. I think 'Favorite Prescription' is the best medicine made for women. I feel safe in recommending out a gold watch and told him the time. The judge said, "Can it be true that your children have been without food for two days when you have a gold watch in the house?" The woman saw the point of the judge's question and called out, "You are a hateful old thing!" and flounced out of the room. She was a professional dead-beat.

A Diary's Diary.
January 1, 1901.—I am bought. She is a nice-looking girl, but seems mighty quiet. Well, all the better. I hate to be bothered. She has put me away in a comfortable desk; very pleasant after that crowded shelf in the store. I shall have a good time in this house.

January 2.—No wonder she is quiet. The poor thing told me about it last night. Something to do with a man who hasn't money enough to suit her father. I'm sorry, but I do wish people wouldn't drop tears on one's glazed paper. It ruins one's complexion. This morning I'm a sight.

January 3.—She talks to me of joining a sisterhood or the University of Settlement. What rot!

January 4.—More tears. This is awful.

January 5.—Wish I was back in the shop.

January 6.—Her father is going to take her south. The doctor says she needs it. I know what she needs.

January 7.—We are off. I have to be pencil-written on the train. De-grading.

January 10.—At Bornemouth. She takes me out under a pine tree. Great Scott! How the dickens did he get here? She is frightened, drops me to the ground, runs back to hotel. He puts me in his pocket and follows her. We met papa; a scene. Evidently I am forgotten.

January 11.—This is extremely embarrassing. I passed the night under his pillow. He wanted to look into me, but didn't, of course. He's a good sort. Maybe I can manage it.

January 12.—He did me up in paper and sent me to his room. Her father guessed that the package came from him and untied it. Old dad! More than that, he's going to read me. Well, I'm—the only read one sentence, and it made his eyes blink. Glad of it. He's a widower and she's the only child.

January 13.—Papa asked him to dinner.

January 14.—It's better to be kissed than it is to be cried over.

Hard to Tell.

ing Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery to any one suffering from the effect of impure blood and his "Favorite Prescription" for female weakness.

"THE LAST SHALL BE FIRST."
How many times that saying is illustrated by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It's the last thing which is tried and the first to help. It's often the last resort of hopeless women and the first medicine to claim their gratitude by an absolute emancipation from the thrall of disease.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes weak women strong, sick women well. It establishes womanly regularity, stops enfeebling drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

"I suffered for six years with ovarian trouble," writes Mrs. E. Waite, of (Lake View Postoffice), Chicago, Ill. "Sometimes I could hardly walk, and when I had to cough it felt as though a knife were cutting me. My hands and feet were cold all the time. I had such a tired feeling and such a poor appetite, and when I went to bed I slept only about two hours at a time. A friend advised me to use Doctor Pierce's medicines, for they had helped her; so I got a bottle of 'Favorite Prescription' and by the time I had used two bottles I felt so much better that I continued until I had taken eight bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and one of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and now I am so well that my friends remark how well I am looking."

WHAT WELL WOMEN SAY.

Here a few brief statements called from letters of women cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription:

"I feel like a different being and I look well."—Mrs. Maggie Speltz, 410 Eighth Street, Mount Vernon, Posey Co., Ind.

"When I think how I was five years ago and how I am now, I say, God bless Dr. Pierce's work for women. I have had no return of my weakness and am well and hearty."—Mrs. Fred Kempton, Cambria, Hillside Co., Mich., Box 57.

"Two bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and one of 'Golden Medical Discovery' made a new woman of me."—Mrs. C. Nelson, Chemawa, Marion Co., Oregon.

There is no alcohol in "Favorite Prescription" and it is altogether free from opium, cocaine and all other narcotics. Do not allow the dealer to push on you a substitute for "Favorite Prescription" claiming that it is "just as good."

The record of its cures of thousands of women prove that there is nothing "just as good" as "Favorite Prescription" for weak and sickly women.

Women suffering from disease in chronic form are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter, free. All correspondence is held as strictly private and womanly confidence set down in writing are guarded by the same scrupulous professional privacy observed by Dr. Pierce in personal consultations at the "Invalids' Hotel and Sanitarium," Buffalo, N. Y. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

A GUIDING LIGHT.

However dark and devious the path of health Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser will prove a light to strength and happiness. This great book contains 1008 large pages and over 700 illustrations and is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. He Got the Wrong Foot.

It was in a Pullman sleeper, and just across from the bachelor's berth was a handsome little woman and her three-year-old boy. Early in the morning the two were laughing and playing together, and the good-natured bachelor smiled to himself as he rose to dress. Suddenly a little foot peeped out from the curtains of the opposite berth, and with a twinkle in his eye, the bachelor grabbed the plump toe and began: "This little pig went to market, this little pig went to market, this little pig went to market, sir," said the indignant voice of a woman. The silence which followed could be heard above the roar of the train.

Housewifely Advice.

Place an apple in the bread and cake boxes to keep the bread and cake moist.

Add one or two tablespoons of sugar to strong turnips when cooking.

Try rubbing tough meat with a cut lemon to make it tender.

Sprinkle clothes with hot water and a whisk broom.

Mix stove blacking with a little ammonia to prevent its burning off.

Add a few drops of ammonia to the blue water to whiten clothes.

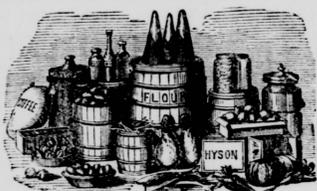

A Misplaced Letter.

The transposition of letters in the same word sometimes produces the most ludicrous results. In "The Still Hour," which was written by Professor Phelps, is the fine line, "The stillness of the hour is the stillness of a dead calm at sea." A large number was printed and disposed of before it was discovered that "clam" had been printed for "calm."
