Eugene Taylor, of Oyster Bay, was in the city yesterday, and left on a business trip down the Sound in the afternoon. The next steamship for San Francisco will be the City of Puebla, Sunday, and for Alaskan ports, the Cottage City, Tuesday. Mr. and Mrs. John Gimble left Wednesday for Green River, to try the merits of hot water on Mr. G.'s paralytic condition. The Misses Chambers, Connelly and Anna McReavy returned Wednesday from a several weeks' outing at Twana, in Mason county. Allison's saloon at Tumwater was broken open and robbed of a few boxes of cigars and several gallons of whiskey, Saturday night. Jay Decker, formerly of Olympia's police force, was married to an estimable young lady of Seattle, Tuesday. Mr. Decker is now a member of the Seattle police force. Louis S. Barnard, one of the largest stock-raisers in this county, sold this week, to A. Ludwig, of South Tacoma, 25 head of Short-horn Durham steers, at 4 cents a pound, or an average price of $50 a head. Mr. Barnard still has about 150 head of cattle on his place.

The United Presbyterian Sunday School children, large and small, participated in a very enjoyable excursion to Miller's Point yesterday. It seems that Mr. Falknor just now is the whole in the local political swim. His latest exploit was swallowing the Recorder, the Jonah of the G. O. P. Miss Alma M. Weaver, of Mud Bay, and H. W. Cummings, of Kamilehie, were united in marriage, Monday, at the home of Conrad Schneider, on Westside. At the annual convention of the State Bar Association recently held at Ellensburg, E. G. Kreider was re-elected Secretary and N. S. Porter Treasurer. Isaac Blumauer, postmaster at Bucoda, Tuesday departed his official bond to the department at Washington. His sureties are Tom Ismay and Robt. Frost. Paul Witham, well known in this city, who has been attending school in Illinois for two years, but is now located in Seattle, was up on a visit a few days ago. Samuel W. Johnson, of Grand Forks, N. D., and Mrs. May C. Bramesness, of Rochester, were united in marriage Tuesday night at the M. E. parsonage, by the pastor. Thirty-seven applicants for common school certificates renew on test as to qualifications at the quarterly examination, in this city, all but two of whom are women. C. S. Wilcox received, Wednesday, the sad intelligence of the death of his mother, the previous night, at Denver, Col. She was 84 years of age and had been ill for some time. Mr. and Mrs. Fisher, of Minneapolis, are visiting the family of Chas. Billings, in this city. Mr. F. is largely interested in this State and will probably make his home here. "Dave" Blake is figuring on moving the old variety theater building, at the foot of Main street, to a more central position and opening it to first-class vaudeville specialties. Chas. Brown, the painter, sustained severe injuries by a fall from a ladder, while at work on the Eastside, last Friday. His wounds will incapacitate him from work for some time. A moonlight excursion takes place to-night on the Capital City. Refreshments will be served, music rendered and the moon is already "full" in anticipation of the joyous event. Another society is on the tapis, the "Sons of Herman," which is composed largely of the German population wherever instituted. The headquarters of this jurisdiction is at Seattle. For many weary weeks it was Tracy who served for breakfast and supper, by our local dailies. Now it is Falknor. What they will select for the next sensation, the devil only knows. B. L. Hill and sister, Dr. Redpath, Mrs. Carthy, Miss Alice Sypher and Miss Maynard constituted a joyous party who left for Ocean Beach, Gray's Harbor, Tuesday, to take a plunge in the surf. Miss Zulu Jenkins, who has been visiting in this city, left Tuesday for Whatcom, whither she was called by the serious illness of her brother, Will D. Jenkins, who is suffering from appendicitis. An ordinance went into effect to-day prohibiting wheelmen from riding on sidewalks of Main street its whole length and of Fourth street from the Port Townsend Southern depot to the eastern limits of the city. The preparatory department of the Peoples' University will open a six months' term in the Collegiate Institute building, on Eastside, on Sept. 16th. J. R. Chaplin has been chosen Provisional President of the institution. The steam schooner Santa Barbara put to sea Wednesday, about noon, with 650,000 feet of lumber for Seattle, Monics, Cal. She will carry several passengers from Seattle, who prefer this method of taking an outing on the ocean wave. The people are getting about tired of running to false fire-alarms, and it does seem that the alarm bell is designed for something else than calling people together for an excursion or to witness a test of patent self-extinguishing fire extinguishers. Miss Eva Van Epps now leads in the contest for Carnival Queen with 198 votes. Jennie Savidge has 148, Grayson Price 122, Bessie Scooby 106, Georgia Allen 63, Ruth Allison 40, Jessie Brown 15, Verona Salisbury 6 and Julia Schuler 2. The Chamber of Commerce at its meeting Tuesday night fully endorsed the objects of the Taxpayers' league and authorized the Secretary, in replying to the Spokane League, to assure that body of its cordial co-operation in plans for relief. A box of live turtles came from Portland, consigned to a prominent Chinese firm in this city, a few days ago. It seems that our Celestial friends have a true conception of epicurean task in the choice of their food, as is shown by their preference for poultry, fine pork chops and tempting turtle soup. Let it be remembered that the Canadian thistle may be easily extirpated by cutting them down at the proper season of the year. Attention has already been called to the necessity of a common and persistent war on the pest. It is now quite late but some good may be accomplished. Do not delay applying the knife. At the horse-salut at Hubbard's barn on Second and Washington streets Saturday, about 30 head of unbroken horses were sold at an average price of $45. They were brought from the range east of the Cascades, where they are purchased for from one-fourth to one-third that price, so the business is a profitable one for those engaged in it. Surveyor Ruth left Tuesday with a party of six men to survey a tract in Skagit county. This will probably take six weeks to accomplish, after which they will go to Wenatchee, where Mr. R. has another contract to execute. His party consisted of Al. Muirhead, Chas. Conklin, S. Henderson, Frank Colter, Arthur Green and Harry Langton. The next attraction at Olympia Theater, will be a matinee by the Republicans of Thurston county, on Saturday, the 23d inst. The play will be one of serio-comic nature, entitled "Cushman or Falknor, Which or Who," with high-jinks specialties and lofty tumbling acts. It is said that Mr. Emory will act as musical director and may be induced to perform a solo on the piano. Little Rec has been practicing considerably on a "base" drum and will probably give an exhibition of its skill as a curtain-raiser. Chas. Riggers, of Westside, has applied for a divorce from his wife Mand. It seems that she has an uncontrollable desire to frequent dance halls, and she at times flies as far as Hoquiam from the domestic fireside, to engage in that questionable means of recreation. Charles has forgiven his erring spouse until forbearance has ceased to be a virtue and now determines that those who dance must pay the fiddler. There was a lively fight in one of the Olympia "resorts," late Saturday night, between two evenly matched, husky young men, which lasted for over an hour. The fighter from down the Sound, it is said, got the worst of the scrap, but didn't seem to be satisfied and went back the next day looking for more, when the police captured the would-be pugilist and sent him out of town. A woman was the cause of the trouble. The State Board of Control is preparing to take advantage of the appropriation of $6,000 made by the legislature for the purpose of improving the water works at the Western Washington Hospital for the Insane at Steilacoom. Bids will be called for the erection on a hill above the hospital of a large standpipe. The present pressure and supply is maintained by the filling of two large tanks on top of the buildings. George Martin and George Vincent went fishing for tom-cod last Sunday, near Priest's Point, and while enjoying the popular pastime, Mr. Martin got a "bite" and giving a jerk, the boat suddenly capized, plunging the occupants into the water. They were rescued by parties who happened to be passing in another boat and are none the worse off for their refreshing bath. It may be that after this they will take a different kind of "bait." Dr. Riley is again able to be on the street and is receiving congratulations of his friends upon his escape from a very "close call" by blood poisoning. He expects to accompany his sister on her return home, near Marietta, Ohio, in about a fortnight. The doctor says it is ordained by the almighty relative that he must go, and that ends it, but the merry twinkle of the eye which accompanied the assertion shows that the doctor fully realizes the fact that he has become so thoroughly acclimated to the coast to live with comfort or contentment elsewhere. Alexander Laird, who lives a few miles from this city, the first hold-up by Tracy, seems to glory in the enforced part he took in the convict's career. It is reported that he went to Tacoma last week with a book of "poems," by himself, on the life of Tracy. Mr. Laird lives on a ranch four miles south of Tumwater, and did not know until his arrival at Tacoma of the death of Tracy. Learning the details, however, he very wisely decided not to publish his work. Few are called to the service of the muses, and when the summons comes it is seldom in the shape of a Winchester rifle. George C. Israel never forgets his friends, though they may be temporarily out of sight. The other day several crates of the finest and largest apricots ever seen in this latitude were received for distribution to his friends and a crate fell to the share of the STANDARD. They are from Campbell's, the place where Mr. and Mrs. I. are so popularly and are of the "Moorpark" variety. A note in the crate states that they were picked from the trees and packed by the visitors themselves, which to the aesthetic taste adds very materially to their exquisite flavor, as pleasant memories always augment the capacity for enjoyment. Some of the specialties of the Sweeney-Alvino company were excellent, especially the performance on unusual instruments and the jig-dancing. The company was not large, from the fact that there are so many carnivals and fairs in progress, which do not give specially attractive prices for their own price to take part on the "Midway," which, of late years, seems to be an essential of every fair of any importance. Big pay tempts many short-sighted people to leave permanent engagements for the glittering prizes of immediate gain. The Weidmanns suffered from this and Mr. Sweeney lost some of his best men at Seattle. A TERRIBLE COLLISION. A Logging Train Collides With Freight Cars at the N. P. Depot. Monday, about noon, the first local railway collision took place within the city limits. The harbor logging train ran into some freight cars standing on the yard track. It seems that the engineer of the logging train could not see that the track was blocked from his vision being obstructed by several passenger coaches used in Sunday's excursion, that were standing near the curve and it was not till he was within a few feet of the cars that he discovered the danger. He immediately reversed his engine, and with the fireman, jumped from the cab. The momentum was so great, however, with the long train of logs in the rear, that the engine crashed through the first freight car, and the supply car in its rear and in front of the logs was simultaneously telescoped with the engine. It was in this car that Edward Searle was caught in the doorway, and righteously scalded by escaping steam. He was taken from the car unconscious immediately after the disaster, and in the afternoon was sent to Tacoma for treatment in the company's hospital. The momentum imparted to the freight cars carried them forward, producing another collision, near the passenger depot. The freight engine, a moving other cars on the siding, and one of these was passing the switch, when the caboose came in contact with it, throwing both over and completely blocking the side-track. When the engine stopped, the engine was twisted and shattered out of shape, while the great force of the train had run seven pairs of trucks under the first load of logs, and the first part of the load was several feet above the track, the logs remained in place as they were loaded. A wrecking crew was summoned from Tacoma, but before it arrived a local force had the track cleared for business by three o'clock. The Tacoma crew made rapid progress in clearing up the remaining debris, after it arrived, about 4 o'clock. The big crane handled the wrecked cars as they were toys. Such of the cars as were able to "travel," were placed on the track, and made to carry the serviceable parts of their neighbors to the repair shops. Remnants that were beyond repair were stacked up and afterwards burned. Tuesday morning, about daylight, the broken cars and disabled engine were hauled out on their journey to the company's machine shops at Edson. STATE NEWS. A Brief Summary of News Gathered from All Parts of the State. Chas. J. Pickard, a wealthy farmer of Eureka Flat, Walla Walla county, was killed by a runaway team Tuesday afternoon. While camping on the shores of Vashon Island, Sunday, Miss Louise Wagner, of Seattle, found the skeleton of a man, just at the edge of the water. Several old plaster-of-paris molds for the manufacture of counterfeit $1 pieces were found this week in the brush near Johnson's wharf, between Seattle and Ballard. Walla Walla now bars married women from teaching in its schools. This may be all right in Walla Walla, but in some places husbands would suffer if such a rule were enforced. A gambling house at Ballard was raided by the officers on Saturday and McDonald & Johnson, the proprietors, were arrested. Monday each of the men was fined $25 and costs, amounting to about $60. The Washington State Press Association will meet this year at Walla Walla on September 23d, 24th and 25th. The members of the press will be royally entertained by the good people of that city. Alice Kanin, a niece of Bob Kanin, son of the chief of the Tulip Indians, who signed the treaty in 1854 with Governor Stevens setting aside Elliott Point as a reservation, was married at Everett, Tuesday, to David Gu. Richard Taylor, of Pasco, is one of three heirs to a million dollar fortune left by Mrs. H. F. Flegler, of Chicago. Mr. Taylor and his two brothers will each have an income of $40,000 a year from Standard Oil stock. Some wretch has apparently stolen a bicycle belonging to the Columbia Chronicle man. The editor says that any man who would stoop low enough to steal a bicycle deserves to serve a term of six years in the penitentiary. The body of R. G. Thomas, who was drowned in the Vematche river last week, was found eight miles below Mission, Sunday evening. With four young men the deceased was floating on a log, which turned and plunged them into the stream. The body of Miss Louise La Chance, one of the girls who was drowned in the Chehalis river, near Aberdeen, was found this week, while fishing, was found Friday with a few feet of where she last went down. The body of Miss Niess, the other unfortunate girl was found Saturday. A Whatcom dispatch says that it may be necessary for the shingle mills of this State to close down temporarily. There is a good demand for shingles, but there is a scarcity of cars in which to move them. Nearly all of the mills have their dry kilns full and no place in which to store any more shingles. George Jeffries, an old soldier, engaged as a cook, died Saturday afternoon, at North Yakima, from the effects of the heat. The temperature there during the past few days has reached 110 degrees in the shade. Old settlers say that the heat is more intense this year than at any time since the settling of the Yakima valley. Aberdeen saloon men have organized for mutual protection under the Liquor Dealers' Association of Chehalis county. It is understood that the principal object of the association is to work for legislation favorable to saloons and the saloon men will work for legislative candidates that will work for saloon interests in return for such support. For enticing Pearl Ives, aged 15, to a saloon at Seattle, and coaxing her to drink beer, J. C. Hart and Wm. Bigger were arrested Sunday night. The circumstances surrounding the affair are of such a nature that the Prosecuting Attorney will endeavor to make an example of the men. Hart is a person who lives off the earnings of his wife, a young girl who has escaped a trip to the penitentiary only by marrying a young girl whose virtue he had ruined. Stella Thompson, of Arlington, a woman of the town, attempted suicide the other day by taking three grains of corrosive sublimate. Two doctors worked over her all night, saving her life, but she was unable to get up. The supposed cause of the attempt at self-destruction. This woman is a widow whose husband was killed in a street car accident at Tacoma about about two years since. Her associates say she has always appeared to be dissatisfied and unhappy. J. M. Kidney, an employe at the Station-Post Mill, at Seattle, met a horrible death Monday by being caught in a conveyor and finally dumped into a roaring furnace, where his body was quickly burned to a crisp. Kidney was a man 50 years of age and his duty was to remove obstructions from the conveyor wheel so that the machinery would not become clogged. All refuse drops from the mill into the conveyor and by it is carried to the furnace, some distance away, where it is consumed. The body was not removed until it was found in the furnace, and it was while suffering from one of these attacks that he fell on to the conveyor. He grasped the rods so firmly that when he was hauled past another employe of the mill the latter found it impossible to disengage Kidney's hands and he was carried to the end, where he dropped over into the 24-foot furnace below. When gotten out the body was burned to a crisp. While the funeral services over the remains of Miss Louise La Chance, one of the young ladies who was drowned in the Chehalis river, were being conducted Saturday, at Aberdeen, by Rev. Father Bourke, in St. Egidius' Roman Catholic Church, the large congregation was thrown into the wildest excitement by a messenger rushing into the church and announcing that the body of Miss Niess, the other unfortunate girl who was drowned at the same time, had just been found. Mrs. Niess, the mother of Miss Linnie, was in the church at the time, and the sudden shock made her so hysterical that it required the efforts of several persons to control her. The service was stopped, to great grief, and the body of Miss La Chance was removed to the undertaking parlors, where that of Miss Niess had been taken. A double requiem service was held late in the afternoon, and the two bodies laid to rest by side in Fern Hill cemetery.
