The funeral of Mrs. Lydia Raymond, who died Saturday at the home of her son, Fire Chief E. B. Raymond, was held at 1 p. m. Monday, at the Christian Church, Rev. W. S. Crockett officiating. The attendance was large and the floral tributes numerous and beautiful.
There will be no more sales of county realty for a month or more, as no applications are on file. A complete list of the bargain-sale lots of realty is in the hands of the printer and will soon be ready for circulation. Probably that will set the ball rolling again.
Mrs. Stovall says that her trade has increased and she is much better satisfied in her new location, in Dr. Mitchell's store-room, opposite the Elk's building. She has many novelties in confectionery, and she likewise supplies the much-prized "homemade" bread to a large line of customers.
The Thurston county shingle mills have agreed to shut down for sixty days from Dec. 1st, provided the movement is general throughout the State. The following committee will represent the local mills at Seattle, as delegates to the Bureau: Frank Kottick of Little Rock, S. C. Mumby and F. P. Keyes of Olympia.
Rev. A. G. Sawin has tendered his resignation as pastor of the First Baptist church, to accept a call at Reno, Nevada, on the first proximo. He has been with us ten years and probably his ever given better satisfaction in the church or made more friends outside its doors. His departure will be universally regretted.
Hugh Bridges, administrator of the estate of John Bridges, deceased, has brought suit against the Home Mutual Insurance Company of Seattle, for $400,000, on destruction of a house in Barnes' addition to Tumwater by fire about a year ago. A delay in presenting the claim resulted from failure to appoint an administrator for some time.
Mrs. F. M. Reynolds died in the hospital, from heart disease, Monday afternoon, aged 53 years. She leaves a son, who is now in Portland, and a daughter, Miss Blanche, who lives here. Deceased leaves a wide circle of friends in this city, where she has resided several years. The funeral was held at the Christian Church yesterday afternoon, the pastor officiating.
R. P. Shoecraft has bought the Matthews home in Elk's building, having been compelled to move from his quarters farther up Main street, near Fifth, adjoining the late Western Union Telegraph office. The union of both stocks will give him a splendid assortment in the tobacco and cigar line, well as fruits and confectionery, articles that he has not hitherto carried in stock.
North Dakota has made requisition on our State executive for Pat Rooney, held at Spokane. He was waiting trial on a charge of murderous assault upon Jerry Thompson, Aug. 20, 1904. His two accomplices have had trial and are serving terms in the penitentiary for the same crime. The requisition was honored and Sheriff Lammpan, of Williams county, left here for Spokane, Wednesday, to take Rooney back for trial.
The Taxpayers' League, which will meet in the Superior Court room tomorrow, at 1:30 p. m., will be addressed by Tax Commissioner J. E. Frost, and Mr. Motman will submit an essay on present conditions of assessment and collection of taxes, which, from the gentlemen's well-known sign in the case of the King of England, will doubtless be amusing and instructive. The people are not only invited, but urged, to attend.
The girls have formed an athletic club, and met in the Y. M. C. A. rooms Wednesday night to perfect their organization and formulate rules. The exercises will consist of physical development work in its various lines, including basketball. A few more members are required before the training begins as it is advisable that the class all start together. It is under contemplation to organize another class for girls under sixteen years of age.
Mr. J. L. Coates, the violin-maker, has been in our city the past few days to meet his many friends, before taking up a business engagement for a few months at Spokane. He declares that he prefers Olympia as a place of residence to any other city, but that his business necessarily requires a larger field for profitable development. He expects sometime to make it his permanent home. His wife's health has improved considerably and it was for her benefit that he has been literally "on the wing" for several years past.
At the tax sale last Saturday L. R. Gilbert, of the McGowan Lumber Co., bought the old variety theater building, at the foot of Main street, built in 1890, during the boom times by Mr. Sawyer, of Tacoma. It was operated several months in 1891, but in those days a very high license was exact for that class of vaudeville performances, and the project failed. The building was well constructed, and although it has stood ever since, tenantless, aside from broken windows and absence of doors, is in fair condition. Already a large gang of workmen are engaged in restoring the building to something like its original condition.

HE IS BORN LUCKY.
ROOSEVELT'S LUCK MORE THAN SUPERSTITION.
Senator Hanna Removed by Death, and Now Senator Foraker Seems Fated When His Acts Are Not in Accord With the Presidential Policy—Cheering News From the Isthmian Canal—The Inconveniences, Deprivations and Ill-Fated Sanitary Conditions Greatly Misstated—The Social Season at Washington About to Open.
(From our regular correspondent.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 26.
There has been a saying among Congressmen since the election of President Roosevelt, "You had better not get in Roosevelt's way or you'll die." It has always been said with a laugh, but "Roosevelt luck" is something more than a superstition with a great many people. Since the assassin's bullet made the way for him to the White House death has again come to interfere with those who stood in the way of his progress and in the case of Senator Hanna removed the only serious obstacle to his election. When almost immediately after the speech of Senator Foraker in opposition to the administration he was taken sick, people shook their heads and said "Roosevelt luck again." Senator Foraker still lies very ill at Columbus, Ohio, and the series of speeches he had planned and which would doubtless have had for their theme opposition to governmental control of railroad rates have had to be abandoned. Senator Foraker and the President have always been good friends and the President has appealed to the Senator for advice on many questions of policy during his administration, and entertains for him the highest personal regard but they were unalterably opposed on the railway rate question and the Senator's sickness, it must be admitted, removed from the campaign one of the most powerful opponents of the President's policy in this matter.
Senator Foraker has been in ill health for some time and his friends predicted for him a collapse at the close of the last session of Congress unless he should put aside all work and take a long vacation. His appearance on the streets here in the early spring left no doubt in the minds of those that saw him that he was in need of rest, if in fact he were not really a sick man then. He had completed a winter of hard work and close application. He was a member of the Foreign Relations committee, Chairman of the Committee on Pacific Islands and Porto Rico, a close attendant of the Reed-Smoot hearings and active in the Military Affairs committee. He was deeply interested in the work of the Interstate Commerce committee which had the consideration of the railroad rate question, he led the fight against Senator Beveridge's Statehood bill on the floor of the Senate and gave his personal attention to a large law practice outside of his Senatorial work. It is small wonder that he left Washington for his home in the late spring that he and his family have been run down and the plunging into campaign work should have resulted in this illness, which is serious enough to be giving his friends considerable concern.
A letter given out by Isham Randolph, one of the members of the Consulting Board of Engineers of the Panama Canal, says that the canal will be finished by 1915, or that ten years will be sufficient for the completion of the great ditch. This estimate is semi-official and is the first of its kind to be made. Mr. Randolph has just returned with the Commission from the Isthmus after having made an exhaustive examination of the work to be done and the conditions there. It is claimed that the big prediction that the work will be completed in ten years will be confirmed by the majority of the other members of the board which it is true will furnish the public the most welcome news it has had about the canal project. The completion will give out a great deal more information about the canal in its official report which is about due, and will also make a report on the disbursement of the ten million dollars appropriated by Congress.
Mr. Randolph believes that the introduction of the eight hour labor system on the Isthmus was a serious mistake, that will add twenty-five per cent. to the cost of the canal, as much more to the delay in completion and be without adequate results to the workmen. Secretary Taft has been one of the prominent men most opposed to the eight hour law in the canal work and his predictions as to the added cost and time are fully confirmed by Mr. Randolph. The latter acknowledges that the climatic and food conditions are not perfect but he states that the inconveniences and deprivations there have been greatly magnified. He does not commit himself in regard to the proposition to award the work to private contractors who will not observe the eight hour law but it is known that Secretary Taft is heartily in favor of this change and he is supported by prominent business men who believe that this is the best, if not the only way that the work will ever be done.
The social season is beginning in Washington and before the first of the year when the season of official entertaining begins the program of social affairs will have been completed. Since the White House has been occupied by President Roosevelt and his family society in Washington has received such an impetus that the season has been lengthened at both ends. Previous to the New Year's reception before sending out invitations for all sorts of social affairs. Programs of entertainments are made out during the summer and many society people come back from the summer vacation with invitations ready, caterers' orders given and every plan complete for an entire season of entertaining. Mrs. Roosevelt has returned from her trip South with the President and she is never long in Washington without inaugurating some entertaining for her friends and official acquaintances. Miss Alice Roosevelt, who has just returned from the Philippines, Japan and China is once more in the White House after an absence of several months. Her return is the occasion for much rejoicing among the younger set, for in spite of her delicate appearance she is indefatigable in the pursuit of social distinction. Her presence, which has been the subject of so much discussion in the newspapers, will attract a great deal of attention here and there, will doubtless be an exhibition of them, privately to her friends and probably later in the Corcoran Art Gallery for the benefit of the public.

Already the Diplomatic corps has returned to the city and the usual exchange of courtesies between the Cabinet women and the wives of ambassadors will begin. Ambassadors' wives go as soon as possible to call upon the President and upon the Vice President and Mrs. Fairbanks. All other diplomats and society in general go the same. Secretary of State Root and Mrs. Root will call upon the ambassadors' families and no matter what the fancy of these official hostesses there are hard and fast rules, which they dare not disobey.

NEWS OF THE STATE.

The Seattle Men's Sunday Club was organized for the winter on October 22. About 200 men attended.
Mrs. J. E. Marsh, of Colfax, lately sold her farm of 251 acres, near that city, for $11,826, or about $47 per acre.
H. Roberts, of Tacoma, is reported to have perished in a hotel fire at Hot Springs, Arkansas, on the morning of September 19th, in favor of the sum of $25,000.
Judge Albertson, of the King county Superior Court has ordered that Miss Rosena E. Grover submit to an X-ray examination to determine whether or not she is afflicted with tuberculosis, as charged by Mayor Zork of Ballard, as a defense in a suit for breach of promise against him.

THE WATER CONTENTION.

Mr. Schmidt May Build His Dam Under Circumscribed Limits.
The Superior Court has dissolved the injunction against Mr. Schmidt's dam to divert the water claimed by him at the lower falls of Deschutes, but orders that a portion of the dam be removed to make it conform in height and position of the old dam used by the Biles tannery. As the supply of water is sometimes inadequate during the droughts of summer to supply ample power to the light company, preparations are being made for installing a storage reservoir at Lawrence Lake, a body of water covering a large area, which may be augmented by an overflow supply from the river in the winter and utilized as occasion may require in the dry season. It covers 250 acres, and is so located as to enable a depth of eight more feet of water to be attained. This recourse is open to the light company, and it is thought will fully meet the demand in all possible emergencies.
Death of James R. Wood.
James R., or "Dick" Wood, as he was more generally known, one of our earliest pioneers, died at his home on Fifth and Columbia streets, at 12:30 this morning after a long illness. Mr. Wood came to Olympia in 1852, and his residence here since then has been continuous. In the early days, he was engaged in the lumber trade, and with his father Isaac and his brother John, were engaged in the brewing business, operating a small establishment near where the family residence now is, and manufactured about all the "cream ale" as the product was called, for Puget Sound. Mr. Wood was born in Husted, N. Y., in 1825. He came to this Coast
