Temperature, Wind, Rainfall, etc.

MISS EDNA WISOMAN and Elmer A. Pease, prominent young people of Gill Harbor, also Charles Radko of Carbonado and Miss Ina Layman of this city, were among the numerous marriages which took place this week.

Last Sunday Mrs. Chas. H. Morse and Mrs. Chas. S. Foll came over to Olympia from Tacoma to spend a few hours visiting with their sister, Mrs. Byron Millett, returning to the City of Seattle on the steamer Greyhound at 4 P. M.

R. P. Shoecraft, an old and prominent resident of this place, and Mrs. Ella Clark McDonald, of Missoula, Montana, were married in the latter city, on Sunday, July 23rd. They are visiting in their future home, Olympia, last Friday.

George Gibbs and wife, of New Kamille, were on a visit to our city this week. Mr. Gibbs cooked for E. T. Young many years ago when Young's Hotel was noted for the excellence of its meals. He now owns valuable oyster beds near his home.

There will be a Silver medal Contest at the Christian Church, corner of Eighth and Franklin streets, next Monday evening. The contestants are Joy Crockett, Harold McNamara, Maudie Yelverton, Ida Dwyer, Hazel Ainsworth, Marion Haycox and Arvilla Scott.

A. W. Holmes of this city, and Miss Nellie Lois Benson, of Los Angeles, were married in this city Saturday evening. Rev. A. B. Eddy, of Seattle, performed the ceremony. This happy couple are the leading exhorters at the Christian Mission in this city.

There is a practice which is becoming quite common in this county, of naming a successor in advance of death, and the amount actually received. Purchasers believing that by pursuing this policy it will decrease the valuations of real estate holdings for the purposes of taxation.

Gov. Mead has re-appointed John LaCrome, Chaplain of the Penitentiary; John W. Arrasmith and Wm. H. Jewel members of the State Grain Commission, and has appointed R. C. McCroskey, of Garfield, a member of the same Commission, to succeed David P. Anderson, of Rosalia, who died last month.

Following officers were installed by the Women of Woodcraft Tuesday night: Guardian Neighbor, Mrs. Belle Hagar; Past Guardian Neighbor, Mrs. E. E. Grimm; Magician, Mrs. J. H. Lassity; Attendant, Mrs. Wm. Scudell; Inner Sentinel, Mrs. Carrie Hopp; and Outer Sentinel, Mrs. Anna Klam.

One divorce was granted this week to Fay R. West, from her husband whose name is Dennis. She gets custody of the daughter and costs and disbursements of suit. Two were started by Nellie G. Horst vs. J. H. Horst and another by Theresa S. Norton vs. Chas. M. Norton. Neglect, cruelty and non-support are alleged as causes.

John Mays, of Lacey, has been appointed deputy Fire Warden for this county, and the Board of Supervisors has accepted him. He is a well-known Republican. As the per diem was reduced from $1 to $3, by the late lamented Legislature, it looks as if it may be the habit that paper to return thanks for little favors and benedictions for big ones.

Olympia Typographical Union No. 142, elected officers at their last regular meeting, as follows: President, F. L. Satterlee; Vice-President, C. Dyer; Secretary, Treasurer, Geo. W. Hopp; Sergeant-at-Arms, Charles Murphy; members of executive committee, Floyd Howard and Charles Gillette; delegates to the Trades Council, Wendell Williston, A. W. Brown and P. L. Satterlee.

W. Hepp, who resides in Hays district, near Tumwater, was placed under arrest yesterday, on a charge of assault and battery, in which his father, mother and sister were victims. It is said that trouble arose over money matters, but conflicting stories are told by the parties. Probably the truth will be developed in the police court to-day. Hepp is an employee of the Chambers market.

City Attorney Bigelow, very properly we think, refuses to have further applications for compromises of street line improvements, and to refer upon himself to decide. He declares that his action hereafter on such matters will be to make a vigorous attempt to collect. So all requests for cancellation, refund or return of money to him, will be considered as burial of the petition beyond the hope of resurrection.

G. E. Thomas, who conducted a bakery in the theater, some months ago, sold out and returned to California, has come back to re-engage in the same business. He has rented the store-room in the Dowling building, corner of Fifth and Washington streets, next to the tea store, which is being fitted up for the business. The Dowling billiard and ten-pin resort, is numbered among things of the past.

The Olympia Light and Power Co. have won out in the final round for condemnatory rights to Lawrence Lake, as a restraining reservoir to augment the flow of the Deschuttus river in summer, when the water is too low for operation of the light and railway service. It only remains now for a jury to estimate the value of the land required for the purpose. This is the decision of the Supreme Court on a review of the case.

Paul and Mrs. Dethlefsen have returned from their trip to Germany, and declare that with the aid even of the expressive English language to aid the mother tongue they find it almost impossible to tell all that they heard, felt and saw. In counting their age they were again within a year one. Mr. Dethlefsen says that his chief joy while across the main was in reading the STANDARD, every copy of which reached him while in the old country in twelve days time from date of publication.

Brighton Park Grange held a very enjoyable all-day session Saturday. Two initiations filled the morning hours. In the afternoon an interesting programme was rendered. A cantata and an original poem entitled "When the Cows Came Striding Home," were features of this. At a business session during the afternoon, the office of Purchasing Agent was created, and Claude J. Agent was elected to fill the position. It was thought necessary to establish this office, to have charge of the details of erection of a Grange hall this summer. Mr. Olney was likewise elected Treasurer, Mr. Lawrence having resigned.

George R. Cummings and Miss Clara Sheldon were married Sunday morning, at the residence of the bride's parents, Plum Station, Rev. Graham, of Tumwater, performing the ceremony.

According to reports, portions of the sidewalk on the north side of Fourth street a few rods east of the opera house need repairs in order to prevent injuries to pedestrians, and save the city from possible damage suits. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.

The City Council, at its last meeting passed an ordinance creating a park commission, leaving a special tax of one mill and appropriating ten per cent of all fines and licenses for park support. It provides that the members of the commission shall serve without pay.

W. R. Whiteside, President of the Washington Undertakers' Association, returned Monday to Olympia, where he had been in attendance at the Oregon State Funeral Directors' Convention, held last week. The Washington convention will be held at Tacoma, beginning Aug. 11th.

Miss Verma Alice Kennedy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Kennedy of this city, and Blaine Edward McKenna, also of Olympia, were married Tuesday afternoon. The wedding took place at Tacoma. After a several days' bridal trip to lower-Sound points they will go to house-keeping here. The STANDARD joins with many friends of the joyous young couple in wishing them happiness and smooth sailing on their voyage through life.

It would seem that our City Council is not disposed to make further concessions in the matter of old street assessments, on which there are outstanding warrants, payable out of special funds, believing that such reductions might make the city liable for the balance due on its outstanding paper, claiming that this method of compromise is in violation of constitutional law in that the obligation of the contracts cannot be impaired.

In the case of Geo. A. Mottman vs. Anna Mackley, tried in the Superior Court last Saturday, the court instructed the jury to bring in a verdict for the plaintiff. The suit was over a strip of land, lying contiguous to property claimed by plaintiff on defendant, forming a part of Fourteenth street. This disposal of the matter will be a declaration that the street is a public thoroughfare. Mr. Troy represented Mr. Mottman, and Major Pelletier, Mr. Mackley.

The last Legislature refused to repeal the law of 1905, requiring brokers' contracts for the sale of real estate to be executed by the owners thereof, in writing. A question has arisen whether a County Auditor is authorized to record such agreements without acknowledgment before a notary public or other officer empowered to act in that behalf. It is claimed in numerous instances, owners hesitate about entering into such contracts, think the broker ought to be willing to take their verbal statements, and act thereon while the agents claim they should have some measure of protection for advertising, finding purchasers and negotiating sales.

Judges T. N. Allen and Byron Millett, Thurston County Jury Commissioners, expect to begin work next week preparing the jury list for the Superior Court for the year 1907. Names are taken from the poll lists, then written on separate pieces of pasteboard, placed in a box under lock and key, and then deposited with the clerk in open court. The clerk is required to enter the names of all eligible jurors furnished by the Commissioners on the court journal. Whenever a panel is ordered by the court, the clerk, being bifurcated, draws the requisite number from the box, in the presence of the Judge and Commissioners in the court room, in full view of the members of the bar and bystanders.

The law is supreme, and great is the man who holds the bastion of authority. And this thought runs up against the proposition of the poet, when he says:

"But man, proud man, Drest in a little brief authority, Is oft more ignorant of what he's most assured."

All cities, presumably, have ordinances in restraint of placing advertisements on the telegraph or street poles that adorn the street corners, and it is to prevent overgrown boys from making veritable totem-poles of these very essential upholders of public utilities, that any restriction is made. Not so thought our ever-vigilant and over-zealous Chief of Police who, one day last week, industriously sought out and destroyed the few placards that had been displayed on boards placed on the street corners announcing a celebration of the Fourth at a neighboring town. Of course these placards were in "open violation of the law" and the law is surely sacred when represented by the mighty Chief arrayed in war-paint, with scarping-knife drawn against imaginary foes. It is with some gratification for cancellation, refund or return of money to him, will be considered as burial of the petition beyond the hope of resurrection.

TO MODIFY AND EXPLAIN. Ed. STANDARD: In reading over your issue, on some phases of the recent term of the jury, I notice that you have evidently been misinformed as to one of the causes, to-wit: State ex. Hines. You were led to think that the case had cost the county about $1,000. This is incorrect, because the exact record shows that the total cost of witnesses, etc., is $108. It took a day and a half to try the case, consequently adding the per diem of the jurors would add another hundred dollars, and this would be the total expense of the trial. This is by far too much and was made necessary by the fact that the case was continued twice, and I may say, over the objection of the prosecution. These continuances made it necessary for the witnesses to come in twice often than necessary. Many of your suggestions in regard to the expenses of court trials are true and pertinent, and I know the State's desire for fair play and its determination to be as accurate as possible, and hence I make this correction. This case was one inherited by the prosecutor from a previous administration, and conditions were such that the case had to be tried. Trusting that this letter will be received in the spirit it is given, to-wit: In the interest of being correct and not in any sense as a criticism upon the article in question, I am Yours very truly, P. M. Troy.

Mr. Troy is a faithful prosecutor and the STANDARD does not claim, for a moment, that he is responsible in any manner for the costs incurred in this petty misdemeanor case. But we think that a jury session of the Superior Court for a day and a half will cost more than $100. The average jury panel is 24 jurors drawing

A DESTRUCTIVE FIRE.
The Springer Door-Factory Sawmill Completely Destroyed.
One of the most severe losses from fire has befallen our city since the destruction of the Olympia hotel, in November, 1904, was the entire demolition of the Olympia Door Company's mill, Tuesday night, at the foot of Jefferson street. It was between eight and nine o'clock that frequent blasts of the pipe company's whistle and a signal from station 23, caused people to rush to the streets, where it could be seen from the dense volumes of smoke arising from the doomed building, that a big fire was raging in the manufacturing district of that part of town.
The origin of the fire is a matter of surmise. It seems to have sprung into existence with the vigor of spontaneous combustion, and that all parts of the mill were wrapped in flames almost simultaneously.
Our firemen responded promptly, and fortunately had local safeguards, as well as the usual apparatus, for use, but it was found that nothing could be done but to confine the fire to the limits of the building. The door factory and dry sheds stood near by on the southeast, and the pipe works on the east, and further south were Richardson's shingle mill, residences and the theater, with the wind blowing in that direction. It was only an act of Providence, however, that enabled our firemen to keep the flames within bounds, for a drenching rain which came on an hour or two before the fire, had saturated all roofs, and the sparks and cinders that were showered upon them failed to ignite. It will be remembered that like conditions prevailed at the Olympia hotel fire, and at the Carlton House fire, a year afterwards, saving our city from still more disastrous conflagrations than those which caused so much trouble and anxiety to the community in finding accommodations for legislative and other visitors to the capital.
The present fire was, within an hour, under complete control, and long before midnight only charred timbers, dismantled machinery, and smouldering embers marked the spot that had hitherto been the scene of much industrial activity.
The capacity of the mill was about 35,000 feet per day, considerable of the machinery was new, and it was a thoroughly modern plant, giving employment, direct and indirectly, to about eighty men. The estimated loss is upwards of $20,000, with some insurance. Some of the machinery, including the boilers and engines, may be of use in reinstating the plant, which Mr. Springer announces it is the intention of the company to do. In fact some machinery for further improvement escaped damage or destruction by tardy delivery, it being still on the way here.
