

Red Saunders

By HENRY WALLACE PHILLIPS

CHAPTER III
LIDDY was on the station platform, walking up and down, looking about him anxiously. He caught sight of each other in the same way.

"Well, there's time for a chin before the chowchow starts. Thought I'd be early, not saving this kind of traveling a great deal. Banned if you that grooved since I saw you last. Well, how's everything? I didn't say nothing to the other boys about pulling my freight, as I wanted to go solo for a while. You explain to 'em that old Red's head ain't swelled, will you? Seems kind of dirty to go off that way, but I'm bound for God's country and the old time folks, and somehow I feel that I must cut the lounge out of it. 'Nother thing is I'm superstitious, as you may or may not have noticed, and believe me, I just as different results as can be the second time. You heard how I hit it in the mines, didn't you? No? Well, that's so. You ain't seen many people out on the flats here, have you? I'm glad to know principally where to begin. You remember Wind River Smith's partner that the boys called Shadler, because he was so thin? Nice feller, always willing to do you a favor or say something comforting to you. He ain't expected it. Had a kind of style with him too. Yes, sir, that's the man. Well, him and me was out in the Bend one day, holding a mess of Oregon half breeds that was to be shipped by train shortly, when old Shadler comes with the mail. Letter for you, Shadler, says Smith and passes over a big envelope with words of realing wax all over it. Shadler reads his letter and folds it up. Then he takes a look over the country—the kind of a look a man gives when he's thinking hard. I don't see 'em, Red, take off your hat. I don't see 'em, Smith, 'but you tell me why or I'll smite the shirt off you to square that 'em."

"Here's your watch and the rest of your valuables."

"What's the matter?" says he, seeing my face. "Nothing wrong, I hope?" "Why, the watch and the gun and the other things is all right," says I. "But I'm not sure 'bout the watch. It's a good watch, but I don't want to see it in the hands of a stranger. I'll take it home with me. I'll be in the next morning. Here's your watch and the rest of your valuables, including the cash. Count your money and see if it's right."

"Well, sir, I was one happy man, and I thanked that feller as I thumbed over the bills, but when I got up to a hundred and seventy I began to feel queer. Looked like I'd made good money on the trip."

"What's the matter?" says he, seeing my face. "Nothing wrong, I hope?" "Why, the watch and the gun and the other things is all right," says I. "But I'm not sure 'bout the watch. A LAZY LIVER

May be only a tired liver, or a starved liver. It would be a stupid as well as a savage thing to beat a weary or starved man because he lagged in his work. So in treating the lagging, torpid liver it is a great mistake to lash it with strong drastic drugs. A torpid liver is but an indication of an ill-nourished, enfeebled body whose organs are weary with over-work. Start with the stomach and allied organs of digestion and nutrition. Put them in working order and see how quickly your liver will become active. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has made many marvelous cures of "liver complaint," or torpid liver, by its wonderful control over the organs of digestion and nutrition. It restores the normal activity of the blood-making glands, cleanses the system of poisonous accumulations, and so relieves the liver of the burdens imposed upon it by the deflection of other organs.

Symptoms.—The tongue has a bitter or hoarse taste in the morning, poor or variable appetite, coated tongue, foul breath, constipated or irregular bowels, feel weak, easily tired, despondent, frequent headaches, pain or distress in "small of back," gnawing or distressed feeling in stomach, burning nausea, bitter or sour eructations, general debility, or all the kind symptoms of weak stomach and torpid liver, or biliousness, no medicine will relieve you more promptly than Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Perhaps only a part of the above symptoms will be present at one time and Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will cure you of all the ailments of the liver and stomach. Avoid all hot bread and biscuits, griddle cakes and other indigestible food and take the "Golden Medical Discovery" regularly, any small amount, until you are vigorous and strong.

Dr. Grover Coe, of New York, says: "I have used Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and it has cured me of all the ailments of the liver and stomach. It is a most superior remedy in catarrhal gastritis (inflammation of the stomach), chronic constipation, general debility, or all the ailments of the liver and stomach. It restores the normal activity of the blood-making glands, cleanses the system of poisonous accumulations, and so relieves the liver of the burdens imposed upon it by the deflection of other organs."

"I tell you I won't. I don't like to have anybody walk on my feet."
