

METEOROLOGICAL
The following forecast of temperature and conditions for the week ending Wednesday, May 12, 1920, is based on the observations of the Washington Weather Bureau.

City and Country

County property sale tomorrow.
The county property sale tomorrow, at 10 o'clock, will include the following:
1. A parcel of land in the city of Olympia, containing 1.5 acres, owned by the county.

Memorial services will be held in the town of M. E. Church, Sunday, at 11 A. M.
The Olympia grocery stores will be closed all day next Monday—Decoration Day.

Several old buildings at the foot of Main street are to be torn down by Street Commissioner Weston.
The Attorney General holds that the limit of time for paying taxes does not expire till after Tuesday.

It may be bad news for the noisy boys but good news for the comfort-loving citizen, that the curfew ordinance is hereafter to be rigidly enforced.
To-day the public schools open the doors for impatient pupils to enjoy the pure air of heaven for the Summer vacation, which lasts till September.

The funeral of Virginia, 4-year-old daughter of Dr. Calhoun of the Steierson asylum, who died of spinal meningitis, was held in Seattle, Saturday.
The popular Olympia Bazaar, conducted by F. M. Moays, has a special program for Saturday and Monday.

Four new commands $6.45 per barrel for $1.65 per sack, and potatoes $1.90 per hundred in the local market, the highest figure for both products for years.

After an absence of six weeks Thomas T. Langridge, formerly of Olympia, now of Elma, was seen on our streets Wednesday. In the meantime he has visited Mexico and different localities in the Southwest.

Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Schultz are the proud parents of a baby girl. The little Miss made her debut into the world on Saturday. "Rudie's" christening has ever since been stamped with a broad smile.

Paul Holthuisen, aged 63, died on the 21st inst. The funeral was held Sunday from the residence of Mrs. C. Holthuisen, under direction of undertaker White-side. Interment was made in Masonic cemetery.

The Board of Control have received a fine bunch of bananas from the insane asylum, at Fort Steilacoom, raised from a tree planted by Jessa Mills, some years ago, while he was a member of the Board of Control.

Mrs. Carrie Grubick is recovering from a prolonged spell of lameness. She was confined to her bed for two weeks. Her numerous friends in this city and elsewhere will be glad to note the improvement in health.

Mrs. Blanche H. Mann has been appointed State Inspector, to care for the sanitary condition of members of her sex employed in the several labor institutions. Her duties begin in June, with a salary of $1,200 and $500 for traveling expenses.

Engineer Van Epps, to whom the matter of iron or wooden water-pipe was referred for the graded part of Main street, has reported in favor of the former. He says there is no doubt but that the iron pipe will stand greater pressure and last much longer.

The question has been propounded to the STANDARD on several different occasions whether there is any inhibition upon the Legislature of Washington regarding the increase of the number of Supreme and Superior Court Judges. There appears to be none.

To-night (Friday) commencement exercises will be held in the theater, at which diplomas will be awarded and an address delivered by Deputy State School Superintendent F. E. Nalder. The diplomas will be granted by City Superintendent F. O. Kveager.

The attempt to stop the erection of a warehouse in the rear of the Roger & Lewis store. Councilman Kaiser called attention to the fact that a new frame in the rear of the Knox building, the Mitchell building on Main north of Fourth, and the Jeffers building on Washington and Fifth streets, as having been erected to build within what or should be the prohibited district, and he did not believe in making fish of one or fowl of another property owner.

The Lemon concrete building on Third street, between Franklin and Adams, has been leased to a knitting factory, and E. N. Stebel, representing the local interests in the enterprise, is in Seattle, supervising removal of the plant to this city, aided by Sol Meyers, who has been running a factory since its opening in Seattle. All the machinery necessary to put the factory into operation here, and keeping it running till it secures a foothold, has been shipped. The mill will start with ten knitting machines and employ about twenty people. The place secured is large enough for adding more machinery, which will doubtless be demanded. A number of the employees will be secured here, but a few experienced operatives will be required for general management and instruction, but they will become a permanent addition to our community. The goods will find a ready market, and as Mr. Meyers is an expert in the knitting business, it seems that no element for success is wanting in the new enterprise.

W. C. T. U. CONVENTION.
The 19th annual convention of the Thurston Co. W. C. T. U. will meet at the First Baptist Church of Olympia, June 1, 2, 1920. A hearty invitation is extended to all other temperance and church and friendly organizations to join in this convention and help to make it a power for God and humanity.

It seems logical that the opinion given by a close weather observer, regarding the cause of cool evenings is the true one. He says that the deficit of rain has caused the snow to remain on the hills, and as a result the winds that sweep from them nightly partake of the boreal characteristic. The Spring of 1920 is an unusually dry season, less rain having fallen for that period than during the past thirty years.

Wednesday afternoon sojourn of the fine shade trees, on the north side of Capitol square, on Sixth street, were removed by an explosive to make way for the graders. Some of these trees had attained considerable growth, having been planted over a quarter of a century ago. The shock of the blast jarred the buildings across the street considerably and even the capitol a block away was shaken by the concussion.

The charges against Fire Chief Raymond, were practically dismissed Monday night by the Council, and the matter laid over for final action at next meeting. They consisted briefly stated, of drunkenness, use of profane language, donation of chemicals for hand-fire apparatus to individuals; turning in false alarms, and buying a case of beer to entertain visiting firemen. Attorney Owen appeared for the defense but abandoned the case when he was held down to gag rule.

A heavy taxpayer of Olympia, Wednesday, with a slip of paper in his hand, while going to his home on Eastside, paused as he was crossing Swantonville tide-falls along Eighth street. His appearance was sad as he turned the precious piece of paper over in his hand, muttering the words: "Outrageous," "not much," whereupon it was learned accidentally that the individual was referring to the proposed Swantonville fill of the mudflats, and the scrap of paper proved to be his 1920 tax receipt.

John W. Query, one of Olympia's best citizens, does not fancy paying $3 or any other sum for the privilege of repairing a sidewalk about ten feet in length. The STANDARD is in possession of information that the ordinance in that behalf is not receiving much consideration from property owners who happen to have sidewalks in need of repairs. One citizen recently remarked, one need not be surprised that the City Council contemplated charging men a couple of dollars for the privilege of making a garden or planting shade or fruit trees.

The opinion is gaining prominence over the State that Gov. Mead and Auditor C. W. Clausen of the State Military Board know about Hamilton's short-comings last fall during the campaign, but kept silent because they apprehended if party success became known the chances of Republican nominees in the different portions of this commonwealth might thereby become greatly diminished. Have Gov. Hay and the investigating committee struck a snag, and agreed to quit for the good of the party? Evidently there is something mysterious about the actions of the ruling powers at the State House.
