THE THRICE-A-WEEK EDITION OF THE NEW YORK WORLD

Practically a Daily at the Price of a Weekly. No other Newspaper in the world gives so much at so low a price.

This is a time of great events, and you will want the news accurately and promptly. All the countries of the world steadily draw closer together, and the telegraph wires bring the happenings of every one. No other newspaper has a service equal to that of

The World and it relates everything fully and promptly. The World long since established a record for impartiality, and anybody can afford its Thrice-a-Week edition, which comes every other day in the week, except Sunday. It will be of particular value to you now. The Thrice-a-Week World also abounds in other strong features, serial stories, humor, markets, cartoons; in fact, everything that is to be found in a first-class daily. THE THRICE-A-WEEK WORLD'S regular subscription price is only $1.00 per year, and this pays for 156 papers. We offer this unequalled newspaper and the Washington Standard together for one year for $1.75. The regular subscription price of the two papers is $2.50.

Press Comment

Wilson on Mexico.
 (Pasco Progress.)

Every citizen of the United States should read the remarkable personal interview with President Wilson on the Mexican situation which appeared in last week's Saturday Evening Post. And every American who has the common instinct of humanity, who remembers the history of our own Republic, and who believes that the principles of liberty upon which our own government was founded should still persist, will agree that in this interview Woodrow Wilson makes one of the most significant and lofty contributions to the official literature of our country ever written. It is a clarion trumpet call to truth and justice away from the more sordid material considerations, and if the man lives who can conscientiously criticize the President's Mexican policy after reading his own explanation of his motives, that man must have the heart of a cur and is unfit to be called an American citizen.

Expects Bitter Campaign.
 (Chehalis Co. Call.)

The first great fight in the state of Washington between capital and labor has begun. Labor has championed the Seven Sisters and the eight-hour law, and capital is arrayed against these proposed measures. Never before have we seen the lines drawn in a political campaign as they will be this fall. And never before in the history of Washington has there been a campaign which any ways near approached the coming one in bitterness and heat.

Ellensburg Against Extra Session.
 (Ellensburg Democrat.)

Elsewhere in this issue will be found a petition signed by a number of business men and property owners protesting against the calling of a special session of the legislature, for the purpose of extracting the city from the financial muddle, which the incompetence and extravagance of the city officials have plunged the city into. There is not sufficient cause for putting the state to the expense of the legislature, and if the present city administration cannot carry on the affairs of the city within the limit of taxation as prescribed by law, they should resign and make way for men who can, and will, conduct the affairs of the city in an economical business like manner and keep the expenditures within the lawful limits. It is not believed that the governor will allow himself to be used for any such purpose as is requested of him, by a few self-confessed incompetent city officials.

Perhaps This Applies Here.
 (Mt. Vernon Herald.)

Examining the recently published list of warrants for current bills, we are impressed by the need of some more economical means of caring for the ills of those who in one way or another become dependent upon the county for medical and hospital treatment. From this list it appears that during the one month for which this report was made, Skagit county paid for such care between $700 and $800. We do not favor the reckless expenditure of money which must be supplied through taxation; and we are fully aware that objection is raised against the county hospital proposition because of the comparatively heavy initial outlay. But it does seem to us that if the expense to the county for these services is to continue at any such rate as that shown by the current list, the saving effected by the establishment of a county institution would very quickly offset the expenditure incident to its establishment.

Advertising the Best Investment.
 (Auburn Globe.)

No investment pays better than a purchase of space in a live newspaper. This is another fact which has not been disputed up to date. These hard facts ought to count with sensible people. Choose a real newspaper that is wide awake, progressive, up-to-date, has a healthy circulation and enjoys the confidence of the people. Prudent buyers are constantly on the lookout for enterprising merchants. Enterprising merchants are the ones that advertise. The ones who advertise are the ones who sell the goods. No one on earth will dispute this fact. It is hard to get around cold facts.

Lister and Good Roads.
 (Mt. Vernon Herald.)

In more senses than one, Governor Lister did a good day's work for the good roads movement last Friday. Only a strong and vigorous man could measure up to the physical strain of an all-day dash at top speed across this state with twenty odd stops and with a bit of teaming work and a speech at each stop.

U. S. WARNS AGAINST ALLEGED HOG CURES

AUTHORITIES SAY GOVERNMENT HAS NOT APPROVED ANY CHOLERA TREATMENT

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 5.—Evidence of what appears to be a well-organized campaign to delude farmers throughout the country into buying an alleged cure for hog cholera, under the impression that this has been investigated and approved by the United States government, has reached the department of agriculture. Articles praising this medicine, Benetol by name, are being sent out widespread to newspapers. These articles are so worded that it appears as if the department of agriculture had received reports from the state of Minnesota showing that the medicine had proved most beneficial.

As a matter of fact the one report received by the department was an unofficial and unsolicited statement sent presumably from the promoters themselves. The department attaches no importance whatsoever to this statement. It has no reason to believe in the efficiency of any proprietary cure for hog cholera and does not recommend any. Under certain conditions it urges farmers to protect their stock with anti-hog-cholera serum but that is all.

In connection with this attempt it may be said that the medicine which is now put forward as good for hogs was advertised some time ago as a means of killing tuberculosis, typhoid and cancer germs, according to an article published in the Journal of the American Medical Association. At that time it was asserted that the army was interested in it. As a matter of fact the army was no more interested then than the department of agriculture is now.

In view of the evidence that the attempt to create this false impression is persistent and widespread, all hog owners are warned to communicate with the United States authorities before accepting as true any statement that the government recommends any treatment other than the serum already mentioned.

LEPER EARLY APPEARS

Shows up at National Capital After Escape From Quarantine.

John Early, the famous leper, who escaped from the quarantine station at Diamond Head May 15, after being shipped from Washington several years ago, arrived in the national capital last Sunday and told newspaper men he had "returned to Washington to stay." Health officials are detaining him temporarily at a hotel.

Early's case had attracted attention throughout the United States. He contracted the disease when serving as a soldier under the United States flag in the Philippine islands. Dr. Duncan Bulkley of New York, famous specialist, took the case under his observation and declared the disease was not leprosy. Federal physicians, however, pronounced the disease leprosy and ordered him quarantined. He was sent to Los Angeles and later shipped away quietly and came to Tacoma. For some months he lived in a little shack near Summit, until he was taken in charge by the Pierce county authorities and sent to the Diamond Head station.

MILL TO BE RE-BUILT.

New Company Expected to Take Over Black Lake Industry.

Prospects are that the remnants of the Black Lake mill which was burned down some months ago will be taken over within a short time by a new company to be known as the Modern Mill company, and re-built and put into operation, according to those in touch with the company's affairs.

The re-organization of the company is said to be practically perfected and A. E. White and associates have added new members to the company to be known as the Modern Mill company, which will operate the re-built sawmill and later take over the shingle mill now running. The old company, however, will retain its lumber holdings and conduct the logging operations.

The assistance of the representatives from this state in Washington has been requested by the state board of control in caring for ten pupils, graduates of the state school for the deaf, who have been sent to Gallaudet college, Washington, D. C., for a college education. Should it be possible for the representatives to secure employment in Washington over the summer months for these children, the state board will ask the aid of the association of deaf in this state.

NOTES ON HEALTH

(Editor's Note—The Washington Standard has arranged with Dr. R. R. Daniels, the well-known writer on health subjects, to contribute to this paper a series of practical articles on health and body care. This is the first of the series.)

HEALTHGRAMS.

(By Dr. R. R. Daniels.)

Here is a message to the man who lives only for a good time, who believes that pleasure is the sole end of earthly existence: There is no pleasure equal to the sense of physical well being that accompanies real health, no artificial intoxication that can compare with the buoyancy of the disease-free body.

Starving with a full stomach isn't a joke—it's a feature of indigestion for you to digest.

One reason why health is not to be had out of a bottle is, that it requires no effort on the part of the sick man and is in opposition to Nature's inexorable law that nothing of value is to be had without labor. Effort is as necessary to health as it is to everything else of value.

Man seems to be the only animal who doesn't know enough to stop eating when he is sick.

Wrong eating doesn't cause everyone to have dyspepsia any more than the use of coffee always leads to nervous disturbances. Bad habits affect different people differently; as a rule, the weakest organ or part of the body bears the brunt of abuse. In many persons bad habits cause frequent attacks of illness; in others they cause chronic disease; while in many persons bad habits simply cut off life at fifty when it should have gone on until eighty.

When you eat what you need it is food for you; when you eat what you don't need it is food for the germs in you.

Not everyone who abuses his body develops disease any more than everyone who spends money foolishly becomes bankrupt. Many millionaires eventually go broke, just as many persons of good constitutions die young. We criticize the spendthrift because he could use his money to a better advantage; similarly in a few years we will criticize the man who spends his vital force in over-eating, drinking and following enervating habits where there are so many opportunities to do useful work.

KEGLEY ENDORSES WILSON'S POLICIES.

tween producer and consumer; remarked that what the farmers needed was "to come to a definite understanding among ourselves and be ready to submit a definite plan to congress" on rural credits legislation; discussed conservation, universal suffrage, national and state prohibition, the "seven sisters" initiative bills, taxation and co-operation, and urged more diversified farming, besides discussing essentially Grange topics.

"Indications are that we will have all the signers we need," he said with reference to the "seven sisters," "but it will not do to let up or to take any chances. . . . Every one of the 'seven sisters' hits some grafter or group of grafters or special privilege corporation, and all these are leagued together. Combined they are indeed powerful, and with unlimited funds, workers and ramifying influences, they will defeat us if defeat is possible. The only thing for us is for each and everyone to keep everlastingly at it until the very last moment. We fight for the freedom of our great state and the liberty and prosperity of her people."

The Grange in Politics.

In quite a lengthy discussion of the Grange in politics, he said: "Were it not for the Grange in politics we would have no parcel post, no election of senators by direct vote of the people, no direct legislative reforms, no smashing of corrupt political machines, no exposure of graft and corruption, and certainly in this state, no woman suffrage." Later he added: "We have taken up measure after measure for the public welfare, in our state, and forced them to victory. Monopoly and special privilege have singled us out for the enemy they have most to fear, and we know they are right. The rum seller, the white slaver, the gambler, the grafting politician, the fish combine, and other special corporations are raising huge funds to finance the Stop-Look-Listen league and fighting in the last ditch, knowing that the Grange is the solid center of the people's forces which have driven them there."
