Swift's Cotosuet

is the very best shortening for Baking Powder biscuits, because it has just the right consistency and richness to make them perfectly light and flaky and you can't taste the shortening in them.

Swift's Cotosuet is put up in tight covered, new tin pails under the close supervision of Government inspectors. It is as clean and pure as shortening can be and it makes such tasty pastry. Get a small pail to try it.

MILLER BOUND OVER FOR TRIAL ON MURDER CHARGE

Wichita, Kansas, where a widow and several grown children survive. S. H. Chatten, a brother, who was at Union Mills on his annual visit as the head of the various Chatten mill properties, returned to Wichita Tuesday afternoon with his brother's body.

Miller, who is 42 years old, has been employed by the Chattens all his life, coming here three years ago as sales manager. The tragedy left the mill town without a postmaster, as William Chatten had held that position, with Miller as assistant.

Greenman Chief Witness. Superintendent Greenman was the chief witness called by the state Thursday morning. He testified as to the location of his and the Miller home and said that he was sitting at a window in the lumber company's office overlooking these houses and was talking to S. H. Chatten, who had just arrived from Portland, when he heard the first shot, about 15 or 20 minutes of 10.

"I looked out of the window," he testified, "and saw three more flashes of a gun and as I ran past a window out of the office I saw another. Just as I turned the corner of the office building I saw one man about 100 feet away, running toward the office, and about 30 feet behind him a man and woman running and struggling.

"I didn't recognize any of them, but I ran up to the man and woman and yelled at them: 'What the hell is going on here?' The woman, who was grappling with the man as he tried to reload the gun, said to me: 'Oh, Mr. Greenman, help me,' and the man said: 'Now, you keep out of this—this is none of your affair—now you get out of this.' I recognized them then as A. L. Miller and his wife, and I tried to grab him but he broke away from both of us, ran out to the county road and turned around and faced the office. He raised his gun and tried to shoot but it failed to go off and he tried it again and it did.

Took Gun Away From Him. "I ran up to him and said: 'For God's sake, man; think of your family and the penitentiary,' and he replied: 'I'm thinking of the man who ruined my home.' Then I took the gun away from him."

The first person, whom he later recognized as William Chatten, fell near the office building, Greenman testified. With the help of another man and S. H. Chatten, Greenman said he carried the wounded man into the office and laid him on a stenographer's desk until a bed could be improvised, and put in a call for an Olympia physician. This, in general, was Greenman's testimony, interrupted by questions from the attorneys, much of his time being given over to explaining the details of the scene and the location of the various buildings.

Dr. J. W. Mowell, who attended Chatten at the mill and had him transferred to the local hospital, was the first witness called. In his testimony it was brought out that Chatten had been shot twice, one bullet entering the back near the spinal column and the other the left hip and lodging just under the skin of the abdomen. The operation, performed by himself and Doctors Ingham and Redpath, showed that the intestines had been perforated 16 times. Dr. Mowell's testimony was substantiated by Dr. Ingham. The revolver with which the shooting was done, the bullets taken from Chatten's body and the empty cartridges picked up where Miller stopped to reload his gun, were introduced as evidence.

Sheriff McCorkle was the last witness called by the prosecuting attorney at the morning session. He told of going directly to the lumber company's office with Deputy Jack Gifford and being directed to the Miller home, where he found Mr. and Mrs. Miller and the three children. As Prosecuting Attorney Yantis attempted to have the sheriff testify as to the conversation he had with Miller that evening, Attorney Vance objected and court adjourned to permit him to prepare his arguments in support of his objection, for the afternoon session.

McCorkle Allowed to Testify. At the resumption of the hearing in the afternoon Attorney Vance said he had been unable to find any authorities to sustain his objection and Sheriff McCorkle was permitted to testify as to the statements made by Miller to him in the kitchen of the Miller home late Sunday night.

"Miller told me," McCorkle testified, "that he was satisfied that someone was interfering with his home, breaking it up, and that he had had a talk with his wife about it either Saturday or Sunday, but that she denied it. He told me he didn't know who it was, and said that to satisfy himself he decided to make his regular trip to Tacoma Sunday night, and to get off at the next station and come back.

"This he did, he told me, getting back to his home about 9 o'clock. He remained out in the yard for a while and saw some man, whom he did not know, enter by the front door of the house. In a few minutes he walked around and tried the back door, but, hearing someone leaving by the front door, he rushed around, saw a man and shot at him. He was confused as to what happened after that."

Says House Was Dark. Deputy Jack Gifford, the next and last witness, testified that Miller had told him practically the same story while the two had walked over to a neighbor's, Mrs. Baker, to get her to stay with Mrs. Miller and the children Sunday night. Attorney Vance had asked Sheriff McCorkle if Miller had said anything to him as to whether the house was lighted or dark and McCorkle had answered in the negative, but Gifford testified that Miller told him the blinds were drawn to the windows and that he thought there was no light in the house, except in the bedroom.

With the conclusion of Gifford's testimony the state rested its case and the defendant, offering no testimony, was formally arraigned and bound over. His trial will be held some time in June.
