The Ladies' Sewing Circle, which met at the home of Mrs. George Gartley last Thursday, was largely attended. A delicious lunch was served by the hostess.

An excellent show was in Puget Monday and proved delightfully entertaining to a few favored spectators. A domestic animal which had been in close confinement for several weeks unexpectedly found a weak spot in his prison wall and squeezed through to liberty. But, alas! he was soon discovered and the four principal actors gave chase. He proved an excellent "sprinter" and a good "dodger" and they soon realized it would require both strategy and endurance to capture him.

The first act, which lasted several minutes, was on land, and the captive, being fresh and frisky, performed several grandstand feats, dodging between his would-be captors with remarkable agility.

When tired of this horseplay, he slid through their detaining hands like the proverbial eel and made a bold dash for the "salt chuck." His pursuers launched their boats in two jerks of his curly tail, and the waters of the peaceful bay boiled and foamed about him as they "luffed" and "larboarded" and "starboarded."

His cunning little eyes twinkled as he dodged between the boats and, with a sarcastic grunt, he struck out for the open sea. The boatmen plied their oars with might and main and finally succeeded in turning him toward shore. He landed on the beach at last near "Hogum," and he made another sprint for the woods, his enemies close at his heels. Only a few yards more and he would hide in the cool forest, but—his hind foot slipped on a smooth rock and the star actress made a mighty lunge and caught it, hanging on in spite of kicks and squeals, until help arrived, and thus was he ingloriously returned to his prison.

Anyone desiring his name inquire 412 Bay avenue. If the Puget baseball team needs a rooter they will do well to inquire at the same place.

Here's the Handle

Are you running things, or are things running you?

If you can save money systematically and persistently, even though it may not be in large volume, you have proved yourself master.

There's a way to go at this problem and solve it.

It is to save a dollar, put it into the savings department of a good bank—where it will draw interest—and then go on and save another to put with it.

Thus the task of accumulation that seems monumental is divided into bits—done bit by bit it becomes easily possible.

A savings account is the handle to seize for the control of things.
