

SOUTH BAY MOURNS OVER SAD ACCIDENT

DROWNING OF 15-YEAR-OLD RUSSELL BUMP SATURDAY SHOCKS COMMUNITY.

Leaving home about 12:30 Saturday noon, his first day of vacation, Russell, the 15-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George Bump of South Bay, was drowned shortly after in North Lake, where he had gone fishing in a dug-out canoe. His death was not discovered until along in the evening when his parents were preparing a birthday party for a younger brother, Forney, as they thought he had spent the afternoon playing with the children of the neighborhood.

The Bump family has lived at South Bay for the last year and the unfortunate accident saddened the entire community. The finding of the boy's straw hat by the Haydeen children and the discovery of the canoe drifting in the lake, about 6 o'clock Saturday evening, told the story. All that evening and until 2 o'clock Sunday morning South Bay residents searched the lake for his body, being aided in their work by the light of a huge bonfire, and the search was resumed Sunday morning. The body being finally found about 9:30 near bog island on the shore of the lake in 12 feet of water.

After eating dinner Saturday, the lad got into the canoe and went out into the lake to spear fish, and it is presumed he lost his balance and fell overboard. About 1:30 that afternoon his grandfather, Lorenzo Bump, went down to the lake and noticed the boat drifting, but thought nothing of it as he did not know the boy had taken it. It is presumed that he was drowned between those hours.

His absence was not noted until in the evening when the family went over to Haydeen's, a neighbor, to have him come home for his brother's birthday party. Not finding him there, a search was begun immediately and the straw hat, found floating on the lake by the Haydeen children, broke the sad news. The search of the lake was then undertaken by the men of the neighborhood.

Russell was 15 year old April 15, a pupil in the South Bay school, and had just passed the eighth grade examinations. Besides the parents, three sisters, Laura, Annie and Dorothy, and two brothers, Robert and Forney, survive. The funeral took place at the Borthwick-McClintic parlors Monday afternoon, Rev. Amos Minneman officiating, being attended by the boy's many friends, and burial was made in the Mt. Tabor cemetery.

County Auditors Here Soon.

Preparations are being made by Miss Annie Gaston, county auditor, for the annual convention of the county auditors of the state, which is to be held in this city June 28, 29 and 30, in the Chamber of Commerce offices. Various important questions are to come before the convention and it is expected the meeting will be largely attended.

The size of the petitions was quite a surprise to those who thought the referendum movement was not making much progress. Approximately 40 per cent of the signers live in Seattle.

New Law on Checks Effective.

Local banks called particular attention this week to that one of the new laws effective Thursday which makes a person issuing a "no-fund" check liable to prosecution for larceny. The issuance of such a check and its refusal by the bank upon which it is drawn, because of no funds to the credit of the person paying it, is prima facie evidence of guilt, and the banks urge all persons having accounts not to make mistakes.

Armitage Brothers to Engage in Electrical Supply Business.

L. Armitage, proprietor of an electrical supply house in Corvallis, Ore., and brother, G. H. Armitage, will open a local store the latter part of next week in the Safe Deposit building on East Fourth street, to be called the Electric Fixture & Supply company. They propose to do a general contracting business.

The Armitage brothers disposed of their Corvallis business this spring and spent some time investigating various cities and towns in Oregon and Washington, finally selecting Olympia as offering the best opportunities in their line and are enthusiastic over the prospects for their business. L. Armitage is president of the Oregon Electrical Contractors' association and both he and his brother are experienced in the business, the latter having been associated with him for the last four years.
