Girls, make up your mind to your fate.

Four years hence is too long to wait; This is your chance to get a mate, So don't wait until it's too late.

You've had experience with boys so slow;

Now you wake up and make a show, For Uncle Sam may call them to go Across the water, to fight the foe.

Men will be scarce when the war is over, And Leap Year comes but once in four.

Now, dear girls, I still implore You to brace up and try once more.

WILSON VITALIZES MONROE DOCTRINE

REVEALS POLICY OF NEW "PAN-AMERICANISM"—PROPOSALS IMPRESS DELEGATES.

Giving application to the Monroe Doctrine and the new "Pan-Americanism" expressed in his message to congress, President Wilson and Secretary Lansing have presented to the diplomats at Washington representing the South American nations proposals for an effective agreement between all the countries of the western hemisphere "not only for the international peace of the Americas but the domestic peace of the Americas."

The program was discussed by President Wilson in an address before the second Pan-American scientific congress at Washington and deeply impressed the visiting delegates. All of the Americas, it proposes, shall:

Unite in guaranteeing to each other absolute political independence and territorial integrity.

Agree to settle all pending boundary disputes as soon as possible by amicable process.

Agree to handle all disputes arising among them by patient, impartial investigation and to settle them by arbitration.

Agree that no revolutionary expedition shall be outfitted against or supplies for revolutionists shipped to neighboring states.

Suggestions Are Practical.

"Those are very practical suggestions," said the president, "and I for my part believe that they are going to lead the way to something that America has prayed for for many a generation."

He said the Monroe Doctrine had been and always would be maintained by the United States on its own authority, but that the doctrine did not disclose what attitude the United States would assume toward other nations of the hemisphere, and consequently the other nations had been distrustful of it.

Senators Approve Policy.

Enthusiastic applause from the delegates greeted the president's remarks. His program was also discussed informally by members of the United States senate, many of them saying that the plan to have all the American nations guarantee the political independence and the territorial integrity of each other, and enter into agreements to settle boundary disputes by arbitration and prohibit the organization of revolutionary expeditions in one country against another, might so improve the conditions in the small republics that the United States never again would be called upon to offer even financial protection. They saw nothing in the plan, however, that would prevent the United States from extending a financial protectorate such as is proposed in the case of Haiti, if the action were requested.

Last Sunday, the last of the duck hunting season, saw crowds of local hunters take to their favorite haunts, and among them was a group of young people who spent the day hunting and picnicking at Black Lake. In the party were Misses Olga Hartman and Betty Angel and Messrs. Henry McCool and Henry Holthusen. They report having had a fine time.

Mrs. Mary Stampfer, 71 years old, a resident of Washington for the last 39 years and mother of Jules Stampfer, the veteran Mt. Rainier guide, has been committed to the Western Washington hospital at Stellacoom, after examination by an insanity commission composed of local physicians.

FIGHT APPOINTMENT OF G. A. WEST AS SUPERVISOR

voted, prior to the election, that it was the desire of the residents of the district to settle the supervisor question at that meeting, that its action would be final and that no petitions would be circulated, with the idea of ending the fight at that meeting and not carrying it to the commissioners. On this basis, they charge Thompson and his supporters with bad faith, claiming that they joined the association, paid their dues and agreed in that policy of settling the question, and are now violating it by circulating petitions.

The new law permits the commissioners to appoint road supervisors from petitions of the property owners of the districts or from the names of four persons recommended by the district Good Roads' Association, provided 75 per cent of the property in the district is represented in the membership of the association.

SHUMATE TO SELL HOGS.

Announces Public Sale of 40 Head of Pure Bred Swine January 25.

Public sale of 40 head of pure bred Duroc, Poland and Berkshire hogs at his ranch, a short distance south of Tumwater, January 25, was announced this week by C. W. Shumate, with Colonel J. G. Crouch as auctioneer. The sale will begin at 11 o'clock in the morning.

During the past season Shumate exhibited his hogs at the Southwest Washington, the Western Washington, the Cascade International, the Pacific International, and Thurston county fairs, and won many prizes, including firsts and seconds, champions and grand champions. Because of the well known high grade of stock raised by Shumate, the sale is expected to attract a large crowd of buyers.

Steel Trust Raises Wages.

Because of the prosperous condition attending the steel and iron trade, the finance committee of the United States Steel Corporation, acting on the recommendation of the heads of its subsidiary companies, has decided to increase the wages of its common laborers about 10 per cent, the advance to take effect February 1. Increases also will be made among other classes of employees.

More Oil Is Showing.

Strong showings of oil are being brought up by the bailer at the well being drilled by Albert Cannady on the Yantis property, southeast of Tenino, according to reports from that city. The drill is 11 feet in a sandy formation, through which Cannady will drill to determine its thickness. A plug will then be put in the bottom of the hole.

CHAMP CLARK WILL NOT FIGHT WILSON

SPEAKER FAVORS RE-NOMINATING PRESIDENT—WILL NOT AID BRYAN.

Intimates of Speaker Champ Clark assert that friends of William J. Bryan are responsible for the stories recently published of a proposed coalition between the speaker and his political enemy to elbow President Wilson out of the nomination at the forthcoming Democratic national convention, says a Washington, D. C., dispatch to the New York World.

While Mr. Clark has denied the story from New Orleans, placing himself definitely and finally on record in favor of giving Mr. Wilson a second nomination and standing squarely with him on the preparedness issue, the speaker's friends say there is one contingency in which the Missourian would accept the nomination. It is this:

If President Wilson should see fit to announce formally that he does not desire another term, and Mr. Bryan would state publicly that he desires to square his account with Mr. Clark for having snatched the nomination from his hand at Baltimore in 1912, then the speaker would be pleased to head the Democratic ticket in 1916. This would give the Missourian the support of President Wilson and his friends as well as that of the Nebraskan and his following on party ranks, which is still believed to be considerable.

Under no circumstances will Mr. Clark consent to make a fight against President Wilson's nomination. So far as the president is concerned Mr. Clark has buried the memories of the 1912 convention. He did not charge Mr. Wilson with responsibility for his downfall in that convention, and when he buried the hatchet it was planted deep and the earth packed over it.

Some of Mr. Clark's friends here go to the extent of declaring that the Missourian would not accept the presidency at the expense of a reconciliation with Mr. Bryan, and certainly not unless the Nebraskan took the initiative and acknowledged publicly and formally that he double-crossed the speaker in 1912. They do not think there is even the remotest possibility of a reconciliation between the two men on any such basis, especially in view of Mr. Clark's formal announcement that he stands behind the president's preparedness program.

Continued cold weather, unusual for this district, accompanied by low tides, uncovering the oyster beds, have caused a loss through freezing of from $50,000 to $100,000 to local oystermen, according to estimates made by various growers.

PIONEER MUSIC HOUSE TO RETIRE FROM THE PIANO BUSINESS

E. E. TAYLOR & CO. TO CLOSE OUT ENTIRE STOCK OF PIANOS, ORGANS AND PLAYER PIANOS—WILL CONTINUE TALKING MACHINE, SMALL INSTRUMENT AND SHEET MUSIC BUSINESS.

"After nearly a quarter of a century in the retail piano trade in Olympia, we have decided to permanently retire from that branch of the music business," said Mr. E. E. Taylor to The Standard. "That half of our store now given over to our piano department will be leased to another line of business, and every piano, including all instruments which have been rented, loaned or out on sale, will be called in and disposed of at once."

"We have found that through lack of ability to personally concentrate our efforts on any one department of our business, that the whole has suffered. The piano business especially requires so much persistent effort, experienced help, and such a large amount of capital to properly maintain, that it becomes necessary for us to retire from that part of the business.

"We will continue our talking machine, small musical instrument and sheet music business—all lines will be enlarged and we will be enabled to give to the good people of Olympia and vicinity even better service than heretofore.

"To the hundreds of friends who have purchased pianos of us in the past we wish to say that any promise or guarantee which you have received from us will be carried out to the letter, and to prospective purchasers at this closing out sale, even though the price you pay is only a fraction of the retail value, the same service and guarantee goes with each instrument as though you had paid the full retail price. You are also welcome to the same liberal terms of payment.

"We have about thirty instruments (Pianos, Player Pianos and a few Organs) to dispose of, including some of the highest grade and most celebrated makes of pianos in America, such as the Fischer, the Emerson, Kimball, Chase & Baker Player Piano, Kracht (made in Tacoma), Richmond and others.

"Sale is now going on. Come early while there is a good selection of standard makes."
