HARVEST TIME

Now the farmer reaps his reward for months of toil and planning.

He has waged a season's fight against worms, weeds and weather.

Will he voluntarily take another risk by keeping in some unsafe place the money he gets for his crops?

If he is wise he'll not tempt Fate. He will deposit every cent he receives in this sound bank where it will be safe from fire, flood and thieves, and available whenever he needs it.

When you sell your crops bring your money to our bank where we will safeguard it in every way. We will render you many services and will furnish you with every facility afforded by modern banking.
