NEW YORK DEMOCRATS WOULD OUST TAMMANY

UP-STATE PARTY MEMBERS CLAMOR FOR NEW LEADERSHIP AFTER VICTORY.

New York state Democrats who believe that the great accession of independent voters to their party in the West at the recent election, means the beginning of a new era for the national Democracy, are clamoring for a new state leader to displace Charles F. Murphy, the boss of New York City's famous Tammany Hall. Whatever plans there may be to dislodge the Tammany chief they are still in the nebulous stage, but there is no doubt that the old and increasing foes of the Murphy leadership are bolder than ever since President Wilson proved he could be elected without the aid of New York. Their battle cry is: "New leadership and re-organization to advance the ideals of President Wilson."

Promoters of the latest anti-Murphy crusade say that their efforts will not be confined to the upstate districts but will be carried into New York City, their avowed purpose being, first to stop Tammany from electing a mayor and city administration next year, and then to build a new organization throughout the state. Of course this ambitious program is predicated upon expected support and active cooperation from the Washington administration. It is pointed out that, unless President Wilson has enough interest in the plan to lend his great influence toward clearing the field of debris and laying a new foundation, it will fall as it has so often in the past.

WHAT HAPPENED IN OLYMPIA AND STATE TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

From The Washington Standard for January 1, 1892. Vol. XXXII. No. 6.

The launching December 2 at Philadelphia of the big armored cruiser New York marks an epoch in steel shipbuilding in this country of which every American ought to be proud, says the Chicago Herald.

It is generally conceded by those who ought to know that work will be resumed at an early day on the Union Pacific railroad leading into Olympia. The engineers will avoid the tunnel near Tumwater, if possible, and find a more economical and practicable route to the city front.

The effort made by Esquire J. C. Rathbun for the establishment of a county historical society is in harmony with a sentiment that should find many responses in this city and county. The proud position Olympia is to occupy in the state of Washington will never be known until the history of Washington territory is written. She can best attain her proper position in history through a local historical society. For a time the history of the village of Olympia was the history of the territory.

It is a matter of public congratulation that the Olympia Electric Light & Power company have at last been able to float their bonds and will very soon secure ample funds—$250,000—with which to prosecute their several enterprises in the city. Negotiations were closed yesterday when a mortgage covering the company's property was executed as security for the loan. The bonds were purchased by the American Loan & Trust company of Boston through the agency of General Hazard Stevens. The company announce it as their determination to immediately begin the construction of an electric railway from the southern boundary of the city to Fourth street and eastward on Fourth street to Ayer's hill. It is expected to have four miles of road in operation by June 1.

Property owners are promptly complying with the house-numbering ordinance.

Rain, hail, snow, frost and sleet have composed the weather program for the past week. The high wind Monday night blew down the grandstand and part of the fence enclosing the ball grounds and several of the bill boards belonging to the theater.

Two carloads of machinery arrived for the Tumwater Ice company Wednesday. It is expected the company will have the plant in operation by the middle of February.

On Tuesday evening an ordinance redistricting the city into six wards passed the city council.

WILL LISTER HELP FIGHT ON FOGARTY?

POLITICIANS SPECULATE AS TO GOVERNOR'S ATTITUDE IN PARTY SQUABBLE.

Will Governor Lister take any part in the fight instituted in the Democratic ranks of this state to oust J. B. Fogarty as state chairman?

Now that the governor has been home several weeks from his vacation trip to California, politicians here and elsewhere are asking that question. Some seem to think that within a few days the governor will assert himself one way or the other in the organization fight, while others do not look for any immediate action on his part.

Governor Lister's friends declare that he will not make another move until the time is most propitious for moving, and all of Governor Lister's political career shouts the story that he is at least expedient and usually most effective. So it is probable that he will pay attention to the thing closest at hand, which happens to be state business, and leave political matters to be taken up later.

Two of the Stories.

There is a story to the effect that Governor Lister intends to take personal charge of the fight against Fogarty. There also is the story that he has had his say, having announced his position during the primary campaign and later emphasizing it in the general election, and that he is content to let matters rest on the record that he has made.

Then again, it is asserted that the executive is too busy to take up political matters now and that when he does he will take up the situation as it exists at the time he dips in.

It is more than likely that the governor is not at all apt to be precipitate. He is actually tied up with a heavy load of state matters and he could not take up party matters if he desired. So there is nothing more natural than to conclude that he will permit affairs to drift for a time and will do what he has expected to do whenever the time for doing is most propitious.

The story that Governor Lister intends to take personal charge of the fight against State Chairman Fogarty comes from Seattle. There is nothing unusual about the fact that Lister's intentions are foretold from Seattle, because Bourbon leaders of that city are more interested than are any other class of Democrats. And there isn't a safer prediction in the world than that when Lister's personal fortunes are involved he will take up the fight himself. Sooner or later he would be compelled to do so, and he has matters in his own hand so that he can choose the time when he will speak.

Committee Out of It.

It is an open secret about the state house that Lister will not consult the Democratic state committee when making his state appointments. His open break with Chairman Fogarty clearly defined his position and if it did not one with curiosity enough to look back over his record for past performances could find that he did as he pleased during the past four years.

Lister's friends claim he will not interfere with federal appointments, and whether he does or not is not the matter of immediate interest.

What the Democrats involved in the Fogarty quarrel want to know is when, how and where Lister is going to take charge of the fight for the control of the official Democratic organization and why he is going to do it.

There isn't much doubt but that Lister will answer these questions whenever he gets ready. That he has no intention of permitting Fogarty to stage the campaign of 1918 goes without saying; what he will do to prevent it is a matter of mystery. He may permit somebody else to place stumbling blocks in the way or he may do it himself, but the odds are that Lister has not made up his mind to anything beyond the fact that he does not want Fogarty to remain in charge of the Democratic theoretical organization.

An appropriation of $1,000 for armory equipment for a national guard company in this city, covering such expenses as renting a hall, providing lockers and furniture, and the like, is included among the recommendations of Adjutant General Thompson to the next legislature.

Farmers along the Black river north of Little Rock are again attempting to organize a drainage district, by which it is hoped to reclaim 1,400 acres of land.

UNITED STATES IS WEALTHIEST NATION

GROWTH OF FOREIGN TRADE UNPRECEDENTED, SAYS SECRETARY REDFIELD.

Unprecedented growth of the country's foreign trade, the commercial advantages which will accrue with peace and the opportunity presented for a heavier export business and greater investments abroad are set forth by Secretary Redfield, of the department of commerce, in his annual report, just issued.

The report gives figures showing the nation's trade expansion of the two years and sums up the country's commercial dominance as follows:

Wealthiest in World.

"Our foreign indebtedness has been reduced possibly three billions. We have loaned abroad a total since the war began on August 1, 1914, estimated at $1,500,000,000, and increasing."

"We are the wealthiest nation in the world and the most prosperous one. We have not wasted our men or means in war. Relatively to our fiscal power today our debts are trifling. Nations less wealthy than some of our individual states bear a heavier burden of debt and interest than we."

"We are the only one of the great industrial peoples at peace. Nations turn to us for goods and means with which to pay us for the goods. None of us, in our wildest financial fancies five years ago, would have dreamed that things could be as now they are."

Must Maintain Exports.

"To protect our reserve of gold, which is the ultimate base on which our domestic credits rest, we must maintain our export trade and must continue to increase loans and investments abroad."

"The work of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce is devoted to these important duties. The report of the chief of that service shows its extraordinary growth and effectiveness. In thousands of business offices its aid is acknowledged and welcomed. Never has our government put at the disposal of our business and industry the helpful facilities that are now provided."

"It is of national importance that the great service which shows such practical results should be given the men and money necessary to carry on its great work even more efficiently. The force of commercial attaches should be enlarged. Further sums should be provided for the foreign traveling service. The department acknowledges with keen appreciation the aid which congress has given. The funds for promoting the foreign trade of the country are now five times larger than they were four years ago. The results are many times greater than the increase in funds."

Vanderlip Says Prosperity Will Reign After Europe's War Is Ended.

Frank A. Vanderlip, president of the National City bank of New York, the largest bank in the United States, takes vigorous exception to the view that business disaster will come to this country with the end of the European war and the cessation of war orders. He addressed the Chicago Bankers' club at a banquet the other night. Bankers were present from all over the Central West.

Persons who view the after-the-war period pessimistically he called "mis-leading alarmists." The supplying of materials for the rebuilding of devastated cities and districts in Europe will be enough to prevent serious business depression in this country, he claimed.

"We must lend Europe the money it needs as well as sell the things it needs after the war," he said. This, he said, the United States would be abundantly able to do. Conditions in this country are fundamentally sound, he declared, and the United States is now the most prosperous nation in the world.

Stone Here for Christmas.

Frank Stone, the local fisherman whose midnight confession to Governor Lister during the industrial insurance investigation last spring made possible the conviction of J. F. Gillies, spent Christmas with his family in this city, having been pardoned by the governor after serving nearly eight months of his year's sentence. Stone formerly operated three fishboats here and says he will operate two of them right away.

SIX-YEAR MOLAR

They erupt just back of the baby molars and are not replaced by nature if lost. Parents frequently mistake them for temporary teeth and neglect them when they should be repaired by filling.

Look and see if your child's six-year molars are free from decay.
