LUMBERMEN CO-OPERATE TO SUPPLY GOVERNMENT

Camps and Mills to Work Exclusively on Orders for Ships and Big Army Camp.

Washington loggers and lumbermen this week placed their camps and mills at the disposal of the government to the exclusion of commercial business in rushing orders for lumber for the 60 ships ordered built on the North Pacific coast by the federal shipping board and the material for the big cantonment at American Lake.

A special committee to co-operate with George S. Long and J. T. Gregory of the lumbermen's branch of the National Council of Defense in handling the government's business, was appointed by President A. L. Paine of the West Coast Lumbermen's Association. S. C. Mumby, proprietor of the big mill at Bordeaux, in this county, was made chairman of the manufacturers' committee, and Mark E. Reed of Shelton a member of the loggers' committee. Most of the independent mills of the state as well as those operated by members of the Association will co-operate in the arrangement, by the terms of which the millmen are to sell the lumber for the ships at an average of $35 per thousand, and the business will be distributed equally among all the plants. The lumber for the big American Lake camp will be furnished the government at from $14 to $17.50 a thousand, an average of $2.50 a thousand less than the prices prevailing today.

EGG DEALERS INDICTED

Chicago Speculators Charged With False Purchases and Sales.

War against food speculators manifested itself at Chicago recently when a United States grand jury returned indictments against nine firms and 16 individuals connected with the Chicago Butter and Egg Board, charging violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

The indictments charged fraudulent manipulation of the market to establish an abnormal condition and advance eggs to an unwarranted price. It is asserted that, Chicago being the principal egg market of the country, prices in other cities followed the lead set there.

Following the return of these indictments, the grand jury turned its attention to grain speculation.

GERMAN MILITARISM MUST BE BROKEN, SAYS PRESIDENT

WILSON DEFINES AMERICA'S AIMS IN WORLD WAR, DECLARING AUTOCRACY MUST BE SUBDUED, LEAGUE OF DEMOCRATIC NATIONS MUST BE FORMED TO ENFORCE PEACE, NO PEOPLE MUST BE FORCED UNDER UNDESIRE SOVEREIGNTY, AND NO INDEMNITIES IMPOSED EXCEPT FOR MANIFEST WRONGS.

AMERICA'S WAR DEMANDS OUTLINED BY PRESIDENT

America's war aims are outlined in President Wilson's message to new Russia.

America is in the war to stay until Germany's intrigue against the peace and liberty of the world is broken beyond repair. America will not consent to a peace on the basis of the status in Europe before the war, unless Germany's power for evil is shattered.

Germany now sees defeat approaching; therefore she is using every means to promote a propaganda for peace in her own interest, even using groups and parties of her own people.

America insists no territory shall change hands without consent of the inhabitants and no indemnities must be insisted upon, except in reparation.

After peace comes all free peoples must "draw together in some common covenant" to insure future peace.

Denounces Germany's hypocritical and high sounding, but meaningless phrases about "brotherhood of man" and future conditions.

Declares that America can afford to pour out "blood and treasure" to maintain the war aims.

Warns Russia that the day has come "to conquer or submit" to autocracy's attempt at domination and that all nations must stand together against such attempts.

A league of Free Nations to enforce Peace must arise out of the blood and ashes of the world war. This is the first and foremost of America's demands, made plain in the note from President Wilson to the provisional government of Russia.

America will not be content with a peace with Germany which merely restores the status of Europe before the war.

The United States will demand that the "net of intrigue" by which Germany seeks to link together a central European empire, "be broken beyond all possibility of it ever being re-woven or repaired."

Must Conquer or Submit. "The day has come," the president declares, "to conquer or submit."

The note clearly and emphatically sets forth America's determination to "go through" in the war until Germany's great Mittel-Europe dream of empire is shattered beyond all peradventure—until the phrase "brotherhood of mankind" is no longer an empty one.

The note, which was made public this week, defines the aims of America in the war, tells what the United States is fighting for, and what she will demand when the peace delegates gather round the green table and start redrafting the map of the world.

The president declares that the United States can never accede to the declaration of status quo ante as a basis of settlement. That, he declares, is what the Germans want. What America is fighting for and will demand are these things:

First—No transfer of territory except to give its inhabitants a better rule and larger liberty. Second—No indemnities except to right wrongs done. Third—No people to be forced under a sovereignty distasteful to them.

But, above all, the president repeats and reiterates: "Adequate safeguards must be created" to prevent an outlaw nation with a thirst for world power and "a place in the sun," again overthrowing the peace of the world.

The president's note, in reality the public declaration of what the United States is fighting for, was sent to Russia to time with the arrival of the Root mission there. It had the purpose of bringing to the realization of the Russian people, now fighting their own fight for liberty from an autocratic rule, the sympathy and support which that fight is finding in the republic across the seas, and of bracing the tottering efforts of the new Russian democracy from falling into the meshes of German intrigue for a separate peace.

Sent to Stiffen Russia. It was to stiffen the backbone of Russia that the note was sent, and that the Root mission was rushed to across the sea at top speed. Former Senator Elihu Root and his colleagues are now in Petrograd. It had been in the hands of the provisional government for 10 days prior to the commission's arrival.

President Wilson bases his note on the fact that the objects of the United States have been the target for misleading reports. This he blames on Germany, and enters into a bitter castigation of the government and its treachery both to the world and to its own people. It is remarkably short, for so important a state document, the full text of it being: In view of the approaching visit of mitted again. We ought not to consider remedies merely because they have a pleasing and sonorous sound. Practical questions can be settled only by practical means. Phrases will not accomplish the result. Effective readjustment will; and whatever readjustments are necessary must be made.

But they must follow a principle, and that principle is plain. No people must be forced under sovereignty under which it does not wish to live. Every territory must change hands except for the purpose of securing those who inhabit it a fair chance of life and liberty. No indemnities must be insisted on except those that constitute payment for manifest wrongs done. No readjustments of power must be made except as will tend to secure the future peace of the world and the future welfare and happiness of its peoples.

In Common Covenant. And then the free people of the world must draw together in some common covenant, some genuine and practical co-operation that will in effect combine their force to secure peace and justice in the dealings of nations with one another. The brotherhood of mankind must no longer be a fair but empty phrase; it must be given a structure of force and reality. The nations must realize their common life and effect a workable partnership to secure that life against the aggression of autocratic and self-pleasing power.

For these things we can afford to pour out blood and treasure. For these are the things we have always professed to desire and unless we pour out blood and treasure now and succeed we may never be able to unite or show conquering force again in the great cause of human liberty. The day has come to conquer or submit. If the forces of autocracy can divide us, they will overcome us; if we stand together victory is certain and the liberty, which victory will secure. We can afford to be generous, but we cannot afford then or now to be weaker, to omit any single guarantee of justice and security.

—WOODROW WILSON.

MUST GET CONSENT TO LEAVE. The war department has made public a statement from the office of Provost Marshal General Crowder, announcing that the consent of the military authorities must be secured by Americans of military age who desire to leave the country after having registered and prior to a disposition of any claim they may desire to make for exemption. In case where a registered person leaves the country the burden of informing himself as to whether he has been drafted rests wholly upon himself. If drafted, he may be required to return to the United States at his own expense to appear before a board or be examined for service, the war department says.

New Mill Starts Up. The E. M. Witherow Lumber Co. is the name of Tenino's latest industrial acquisition. This company has built a fifteen thousand capacity mill on the Morgan Davies ranch on the Skookumchuck and began cutting Monday morning. It is the plan of the company to put in a shingle mill and planer next fall. They have plenty of timber to give them many years' run.
