REPORTS FINE DISPLAY AT THE PORTLAND AUTO SHOW.

Head of Local Chevrolet Agency Pleased With Entire Display.

Henry Schultz, president and general manager of the Capital Transit & Repair company, who visited the automobile show at Portland Tuesday and Wednesday, reports that it was an interesting and attractive display of all makes and types of cars and tractors. He says he was particularly pleased with the Chevrolet display, the Four-Ninety in the smaller car class, the Baby Grand in the medium priced and the beautiful Chevrolet Eight, which he says attracted a lot of attention. Besides these, the Chevrolet factory turns out 14 other models, including closed cars, trucks and light deliveries.

The company reports the delivery during the past week of a Chevrolet Four-Ninety to P. J. O'Brien. Inasmuch as the latter has dealt in various makes of automobiles in recent years, the Chevrolet agency feels that this is a strong endorsement of its car. The company also delivered Four-Ninety cars to Archie Gibson, a local barber, and Frank A. Woodward, a shipyard employe.

MANY NEW FARMERS IN YELM DISTRICT

IRRIGATION PROJECT BRINGING BIG NEW DEVELOPMENT, L. N. RICE REPORTS.

Some 80 new settlers have located in the vicinity of Yelm, on land watered by the big irrigation project, during the past six or eight months, according to L. N. Rice, one of the prominent farmers of that section, a pioneer resident of Thurston county and a leading promoter of the irrigation project, who was a pleasant caller at The Washington Standard office Monday afternoon.

Mr. Rice, along with other backers of the big project, which was recently incorporated as an irrigation district under the state laws, was in Olympia Monday in connection with a hearing in the local superior court on the petition of the directors of the district for authority to issue $250,000 in bonds for additional construction on the project and for maintenance and repair of the present ditches.

At the request of Attorney Frank C. Owings, representing J. A. McKenzie of Yelm, for more time in which to present objections to the bond issue, the court continued the hearing until March 5. McKenzie, according to Mr. Rice, is the only property owner in the district now fighting the project, others who presented objections at the time of the proceedings last fall to organize the district having since disposed of their property.

The development of the agricultural resources of the Yelm neighborhood is giving a big impetus to the business in Yelm, Mr. Rice says, pointing to the fact that the freight receipts of the railroads there during 1917 were from 12 to 13 times as much as before.

War activities are also growing greater throughout the district, Mr. Rice says, some $350 worth of War Savings Stamps having been purchased there one day last week, while the two Red Cross auxiliaries now have 190 members.

Preliminary construction for the erection of Olympia's new $112,000 high school building, on Main between Twelfth and Thirteenth streets, is now well under way and the work will be pushed as rapidly as possible so that the building can be completed early next fall.
