DRESSMAKING, COOKING, MANUAL TRAINING AND OTHER ARTS FEATURE EXHIBIT

Dresses that would rank close to those of a modiste; cans of fruits and delicious vegetables that carry you back to the thoughts of the things that mother used to make; paintings and drawings that presage the future crop of artists; penmanship that defies the statement that the younger generation is careless in its handling of hieroglyphics; and furniture that speaks of the master

THE CORDUROY

Suits for boys came in at last; very late, to be sure, but they look mighty good; they're made just as well as the best grades of boys' clothing, and our price is the same as the last lot—$10.00.

A year ago now we bought boys' goods for last Fall and this Spring; that was six months back of the extreme high prices on woolen fabrics. The goods for Spring were shipped in January and they are all here, a powerful fine lot of boys' toggerly, all belted suits, with patch or slash pockets, classy and up to date in every particular; clothes that any boy will be proud to own and wear.

Our prices on these goods are based on their cost to us at that time, plus our cost of business and interest on our investment, which means $7.50 to $20.00

craftsman—these were a few of the displays in the annual exhibit at the Olympia high school showing the work of all the school children of the city.

The exhibit was open to the public from Tuesday evening until Thursday evening.

The dress contest of the home economics department was one of the most interesting features of the exhibit. Two cash prizes of $3 and $2 each were given as awards for the two best made dresses. Twenty dresses were entered for the contest, which was open to high school girls only.

Under the direction of Miss Lilly Grube, head of the cooking section of the home economics department of the Olympia schools, a very interesting program was arranged for the three days the exhibit was in session. The cooking demonstrations on the program were held at the high school. The program follows:

Canning of spring vegetables, by the first year class, Tuesday afternoon; same demonstration Tuesday evening; meal preparations, invalid trays, simple lunches and school lunches, by the first year class, Wednesday afternoon; bread making, sandwiches, baking powder biscuits; variations by the second year class Wednesday evening; quick breads, desserts, by the eighth grade class Thursday.

Cooking classes each day prepared foods to be on display. These were sold at the end of the session.

City Superintendent C. E. Beach also arranged a series of community sings during the week, to familiarize the people with the patriotic airs so that on Memorial Day, the Welcome Home that will be given the men of Thurston county, June 28, and Fourth of July, the people will sing their national anthems in a lusty voice.

WARNS OF NEW RASCALS.

Secretary of Treasury Says Traffic in W. S. S. Must Stop.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—A new "by-product" of the country's post bellum days is the "W. S. S." rascal. Secretary of the Treasury Glass, in a statement issued this week, warns the public against those "rascals who are buying War Savings Certificates and stamps for less than their redemption value and promptly turning them in to the government for redemption at a profit."

The treasury department serves notice "upon those people who are engaged in this disreputable business that it will use all the means in its power, and has asked the cooperation of the postoffice department to prevent payment being made to them."

War Savings Stamps and certificates were not meant to be negotiable. Furthermore, the government still needs money and the treasury department asks all holders of the certificates to retain them if possible.

If not, however, it will place no obstacle in the way of bona fide holders who request payment.

REJECT GWIN HICKS' OFFER.

Commissioners Turn Down Offer of Estate as Playground.

The county commissioners Monday rejected the offer of Gwin Hicks to deed his estate, "Gwinwood," at Lacey, to the county to be held in trust for the children as a playground. They refused to accept the gift because they say there is some litigation concerning the property in which they do not wish to become entangled.

The commissioners also feel that if they take the property and it is turned into a public playground for the children there will be a big upkeep on the county which is already under a great financial strain.

SEATTLE PLEDGES AID FOR BIG CANAL

BUSINESS MEN, ON TOUR OF THE SOUTHWEST, SPEND MONDAY HERE

Fifty Seattle business men, traveling through southwest Washington under the auspices of the development bureau of the Seattle Chamber of Commerce, were entertained by the members of the Olympia Chamber of Commerce Monday evening. The purpose of the junket is to establish better trade relations with the merchants of southwest Washington.

The meeting at the local Chamber was in the nature of an informal smoker and after the business men of the two cities had visited together for an hour, P. M. Troy, acting for the local Chamber, called those present to seats around a table on which was placed applique and cigars and there opened an informal program with a short address of welcome to the Seattle delegation, after which he called upon C. J. Lord to tell the visitors something about the advancement and condition of the community in the last few years. Mr. Lord recited the accomplishments of the county in the war work and was greeted by applause as he told of each oversubscription that the county had made in every campaign that was put on.

C. J. Willis, a trustee of the Seattle Chamber of Commerce, responded to the opening address and told of the bonds of sympathy that should and did exist between the two cities, and also spoke at some length on the industrial problems that the business men of the two communities might expect to face in the next few years. He told of the organization of the Associated Industries in Seattle, whose purpose is to work out the solution of industrial harmony.

Wiley Hemmill, of the Pacific Coast Coal Co., official humorist for the party, responded to some of the remarks of Mr. Lord, in which he had compared the work of Seattle with that of Olympia, much to the credit of Olympia, in a manner which brought laughter from the crowd.

The present status of the Grays Harbor-Puget Sound canal and a short history of the project was explained by Secretary H. B. Fultz of the local Chamber, in which he solicited the aid of the Seattle Chamber of Commerce, stating that while the present project could only take in the territory from Olympia to Grays Harbor, that the committee at work had in mind at all times the larger project, that of an inland waterways system for the Pacific Northwest.

Thomas B. Hill, secretary of the State Development bureau of the Seattle Chamber of Commerce, assured the local citizens that Seattle would get behind the canal and do all that she could to help get the survey ordered. He spoke at length upon the new idea in business and in city development and said that Seattle belonged to the entire state and that it was Seattle's purpose to assist in the development of industry anywhere that it could in the state, and not to try to locate everything in Seattle, as the results of the great development in all parts of the state always made prosperity for Seattle.

At the request of Douglas Shelor, secretary of the Western Auto club, Senator P. H. Carlyon gave a short history of the capitol situation and explained the road bonding plan of which he is the father, stating that the success of the measure seemed assured by the present sentiment that was being expressed in the bond elections that were being held over the state.

Other speakers were Pliny Allen of Seattle, who spoke of his belief and interest in Olympia, and complimented Olympia on the fact that she was to have a new hotel, saying that as a senator from King county he would certainly welcome it, as he knew his colleagues would, when they came to the next session of the legislature.

W. L. Bilger, a former resident of Olympia, is the chairman of the party on the tour. Mr. Bilger was in the hardware business in Olympia many years ago.

The party went to Shelton Tuesday morning, doubling back for the trip to Grays Harbor, where they spent the afternoon and evening.

The ladies of the party, of whom there were eight, were entertained by a committee from the Woman's club, consisting of Mrs. George Blankenship, Mrs. C. A. Rose and Mrs. William Lasher.

Lawn Fete and Pavement Dance. Another novel entertainment, consisting of a lawn fete and pavement dance on the grounds of the church and rectory at Ninth and Washington streets, is being arranged by the members of the Rectors' Guild of St. John's Episcopal church. It will take place Wednesday evening, June 11.

Mr. and Mrs. Leopold F. Schmidt and family went to Salem, Ore., Friday, where Mr. Schmidt will take charge of a new department being established in the Phez company's big fruit-juice plant in that city. Mr. and Mrs. Eagle Freshwater will occupy their home at Twenty-sixth and Main streets.

SILK SKIRTS

Although this season of the year usually shows an increasing demand for wash skirts over silks, the reports from all sections of the country to our New York Information Bureau indicate that novelty silks are being purchased considerably in excess of wash skirts and that the condition will continue throughout the summer. Pleated and plain, shirred numbers are shown in both silks and woollens, and while the fuller modes have some call, the tendency appears to favor the straight lines and narrower types, with novelty pockets.

STORE OPEN SATURDAYS UNTIL 8 O'CLOCK P. M.

The girls who are graduating from the high school this year were very pleasantly entertained at a luncheon at the Mitchell hotel last Saturday noon at which Miss Phyllis FitzHenry, daughter of Surveyor General and Mrs. E. A. FitzHenry, was hostess. Mrs. FitzHenry and Mrs. J. F. Kearney acted as chaperons, and after luncheon the party attended a matinee. The guests were the Misses Marian Troy, Elizabeth McElroy, Evelyn Chambers, Anna Springer, Gladys Holcomb, Frances Lamborn, Grace Kenney, Mary Owings, Olive Taylor, Helen Lord, Elinor Parker, Dorothy Rose, Beatrice Kearney and Mildred Mumbly.

Mrs. Mary V. Johns was elected president of the O. E. S. auxiliary at a meeting last Friday afternoon, at which Mrs. F. A. Longaker and Mrs. Josephine Corliss were hostesses. Mrs. George Blankenship was named vice president; Mrs. J. H. Brown secretary and Mrs. F. L. Satterlee treasurer. During the past year the Auxiliary has been busily engaged in various war activities, under the leadership of its president, Mrs. F. G. Blakeslee.

WORK PROCEEDS ON CITY'S NEW HOTEL

To the left of the lobby will be the main dining room, which will be 36x88 feet. North of the main dining room will be three private rooms 12x36 feet, divided by folding doors, so that they may all be opened into the main dining room, which will face directly on Sixth street. The finish of the dining room will be the same as that of the lobby.

The lobby and the main dining room, both of which will have tiled floors, by the use of French doors can be thrown into one big room with floor space of about 90x80 feet. It is contemplated that the legislative balls will be held here.

The entire Washington street front will be taken up with store rooms, one large business room being located at the corner of Washington and Sixth streets. To the right of the Washington street entrance will be a barber shop and next to this a small business. At Washington street next to the alley will be the coffee room, with service from the main kitchen of the hotel. The main kitchen will be 40x50 feet, modernly equipped in every respect, and located so as to give service direct to the main dining room, the private dining rooms and the coffee room. Men's general toilet and boot shining stand will also be on the first floor.

Overlooking the lobby and dining room will be a promenade space on a mezzanine floor. The promenade will be 30x70 feet, with a light well opening to the main lobby 25x40 feet. On the promenade will be lounge space, writing rooms, ladies' retiring room and rest rooms. The entire Washington street side and half of the Sixth street side will be given over to guest rooms. Linen rooms and storage will be on this floor, connected with linen chute to all rooms on the floors above. Entrance to the guest elevator is on the first floor at the northeast corner of the lobby, just off the Washington street entrance.

The service elevator will be in the rear of the building. Each floor above the second floor has the same arrangement of 35 guest rooms, of which 17 on each floor will have private bath with built-in tubs. Each room will be connected by phone.

Woodwork will be of silver gray stain. All walls are to be decorated with selected wall paper, with decorative plaster ceilings. All rooms, with or without baths, will have hot and cold water. There will be one public bath and toilet on each floor.

The fire escape will be enclosed, with openings to the alley. The main stairway will be enclosed in a fire tower, thus making all rooms accessible to good fire escapes. The structural portion of the building is to be of reinforced concrete columns and slabs; the enclosing walls of brick and eight-inch hollow tiles.

Walls on the Sixth and Washington streets side will be of selected light-face brick, with terracotta trim. There will be a decorative marquee over the main entrance on Sixth street. The building is designed for the future addition of two stories. Provision is also made on the second floor court for the addition of a ball room 45x85 feet of clear space.
