STATEMENT OF THE OWNERSHIP, Management, Circulation, Etc., Required by the Act of Congress of August 24, 1912, of the Washington Standard, published semi-weekly at Olympia, Washington, for October, 1920.
State of Washington, County of Thurston, ss.
Before me, a Notary Public in and for the state and county aforesaid, personally appeared James M. Tadlock, who, having been duly sworn according to law, deposes and says that he is the owner of the Washington Standard, and that the following is, to the best of his knowledge and belief, a true statement of the ownership, management (and if a daily paper, the circulation), etc., of the aforesaid publication for the date shown in the above caption, required by the Act of August 24, 1912, embodied in section 413, Postal Laws and Regulations, printed on the reverse of this form, to-wit:

1. That the names and addresses of the publisher, editor, managing editor, and business managers are:
Publisher, James M. Tadlock, Olympia, Wash.
Editor, James M. Tadlock, Managing editor, none.
Business manager, J. M. Tadlock.
2. That the owners are: James M. Tadlock, Olympia, Wash.
3. That the known bondholders, mortgages, and other security holders owning or holding 1 per cent or more of total amount of bonds, mortgages, or other securities are: Eagle Fresh-water, Delaware, Ohio.
4. That the two paragraphs next above, giving the names of the owners, stockholders and security holders, of any contain not only the list of stockholders and security holders as they appear upon the books of the company but also, in cases where the stockholder or security holder appears upon the books of the company as trustee or in any other fiduciary relation, the name of the person or corporation for whom such trustee is acting, is given; also that the said two paragraphs contain statements embracing all full knowledge and belief as to the circumstances and conditions under which stockholders and security holders who do not appear upon the books of the company as trustees, hold stock as securities in a capacity other than that of a bona fide owner; and that affiant has no reason to believe that any other person, association, or corporation has any interest direct or indirect in the said stock, bonds, or other securities

Fordson

TRADE MARK

There are many Tractors clamoring for the patronage of the farmer. The very air is charged with the noise of claims. One would think that all the farmer had to do was to buy a Tractor and he would enter into the Millenium.

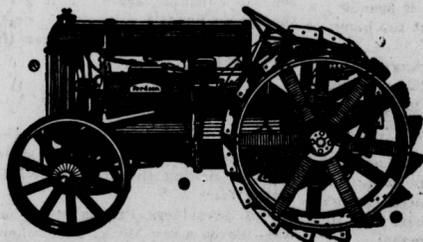

Well, consider this fact—there are a great many different makes of Tractors. Tractors have been on the American market for twenty years. In that time some three hundred thousand Tractors have been sold to the farmers in the United States. The Fordson Tractor has only been on the market two years, and in that time more than one hundred thousand Fordson Tractors have been sold to the farmers of the United States.

Two and two make four. Two and two always will make four. If the Fordson Tractor had not delivered more good work, more satisfactory work, more economical work, than any other Farm Tractor, it would not have sold in the ratio of anywhere from five and more to one. "The proof of the pudding is in the eating." The proof of the superior merits of the Fordson Tractor is in its larger sale and use.

The Fordson Tractor then asks you to buy it because of what it has done for your neighbors. It asks you to buy it on its merits. It asks you to buy it, Mr. Farmer, because you have use for it every day in the year. All the uses for the Fordson Tractor have not yet been uncovered because new places where machine power can take the place of human power can take the place of human power, where machine power can supplant horse and mule-power, are being found every week, and wherever such discovery occurs, the Fordson Tractor will fill the bill more satisfactorily than any other form of power.

The Fordson is simple in design, and it is very strongly made of the highest quality of iron and steel. It is the product of the greatest mechanical genius the world has ever known, and it is most economical in first cost and after expense. The Fordson Tractor on your farm will increase the value of every foot of ground in that farm. It will put more dollars and cents into every hour you put into the farm.

Now why not have a Fordson right away. Take up the subject with us. Come in and get the details, and all the particulars. It is only a matter of time until you buy a farm Tractor—that is sure. So dont put it off when it means money to you to act promptly.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Communications published under this column reflect only the personal views of the writer and the Standard assumes no responsibility for statements or arguments therein contained. It is the people's forum, but all matter submitted for publication must be kept free from personalities.

Editor the Standard:

We have been hearing a lot of discussion about the Carlyon bill pro and con, and one of the biggest objections that has been advanced it seems to me, is that costs of road building are now higher than when the bill was framed, while the bond market is weak, so that we may not be able to sell the bonds.

Now I have taken the trouble to read the bill through, and I do not see any reason to hesitate on account of either of these objections. The state highway board does not need to award contracts, under Referendum No. 1, when conditions are unfavorable for road building. It is not required to plunge ahead, if labor, purchase of materials, or the sale of bonds is unfavorable. In the same way it provides for competition in the award of contracts, and it does not prohibit the use of patented pavement if equally durable and permanent, provided the same can be bought at the same price as the unpatented type.

The bond market may or may not be favorable; I think that is largely a matter of opinion. But the sale of the bonds under the bill is not dependent on the market at any time. The guarantee of the state, placed back of them, makes possible the investment of idle money of our own state from various state permanent funds.

And so far as costs and conditions are concerned, it seems to me that prices are dropping, if anything, and all this fear of high costs seems a little out of date, judging from all present indications.

About all we can ask any thoughtful voter, or any loyal citizen of Washington to do, is to read the bill. It looks to me as though it has provided for every contingency that can arise.

The fact that it has already worked out satisfactorily in Oregon and that state is now ahead of us and reaping the harvest ought to convince the most skeptical.

Another claim I have heard against the bill is that it permits an excessive interest. I do not find it so. I think 5 per cent is mighty low, and if anyone objects to that rate, they had better not try to do business in the world today.

Suppose that the interest does have to be paid. What of it? They forget that these funds are being derived from the automobile license fees, not from taxation; and of these fees the 50 per cent that is needed for maintenance—$1,000,000 a year, will be saved. So where is the loss? And when you consider that the paving of the state highways is taken off the shoulders of the taxpayers, I think you have said enough. As some one said, ignorance is the only thing that will defeat the Carlyon bill.

Respectfully,
L. E. TITUS.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to thank the many friends and relatives for ministering unto us during our affliction and sharing with us the loss of our loved ones, resulting from explosion and fire.

For the information of these friends and relatives I wish to state that my son Harry has fully recovered and I am making rapid progress myself.

NOTED WAR WORKER WILL VOTE FOR COX

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 17.—Mrs. William Parker Lucas, who won distinction in France for her work among the children of that country during the war, for years a stalwart republican, has announced her intention to work and vote for Governor Cox because of her belief in the covenant of the League of Nations. She states that Senator Harding's position rejecting the League caused her to take the position she has.

P. T. A. State Meeting.

A sectional meeting of the Parent-Teacher associations will be one of the important features of the Washington Educational association convention, in Yakima, October 28 and 29. Mrs. Lou Diven and Mrs. W. H. Bryan, officials of the state branch of the National Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher Associations, are planning on attending the convention. Getting a knowledge of accounting principles is the first and most important step toward establishing an accounting system suited to one's individual needs. There are many degrees in farm accounting, from the simple to the extended and complex. Farmers' Bulletin 511, copies of which may be had upon request of the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., contains an outline of the principles of simple bookkeeping.
