CAMPAIGNS INCREASE USE OF MILK IN WASHINGTON CITIES

Milk consumption was increased 30 per cent in a recent milk campaign put on in Spokane, Wash., by the State College and the Spokane Farm Bureau. The work was supported by every civic organization, with the assistance of representatives from the dairy division of the United States Department of Agriculture.

During the week of the campaign 27,911 children heard talks on the value of milk in the diet of the child, and a large number of these children helped personally in various ways to make the campaign a success. The fifth, sixth, seventh, and eighth grades in the city schools made clever milk posters. The primary grades put on a play, "The Milk Fairies," and all the children in the graded schools wrote essays on "Milk as a Perfect Food." A survey made before the campaign showed that milk did not enter into the regular diet of 4,770 children in the Spokane schools or 17 per cent of the whole, and that 8,846, or 31.7 per cent, drank tea and coffee regularly.

Milk campaigns by the state agricultural colleges, together with the farm bureaus and other local organizations, in which the United States Department of Agriculture has co-operated, have been held in many cities during the past 12 months. The increased consumption of milk following these campaigns has varied in the different cities. In Kansas City the increase was 14.7 per cent, in Topeka 25 per cent, in Seattle 9 per cent, in Pittsburgh 24 per cent, in Detroit 10 per cent, in Tacoma 30 per cent, in Davenport 15 per cent, and in Clinton 15 per cent. The basis for the computation of these percentage increases is a comparison of the month immediately following the campaign with the corresponding month in the previous year. The amount of butter used in the cities after a campaign has increased from 15 to 79 per cent.

In every city a part of the work is to explain to the public how the milk supply is protected against contamination. Other features are the work with the schools and demonstrations in the use of milk by the children. That the work results in improved health on the part of the little ones is clearly brought out by the feeding demonstrations.

Charles Tyler Makes Staff.

Charles Tyler, a freshman at the University of Washington and a member of the class of 1920 at the Olympia High School, has recently succeeded in making the staff of the University of Washington Daily as reporter. He feels greatly encouraged in getting a foothold in his chosen field of work. While in the high school he served for two years on the staff of the school paper where he developed a liking for journalism which he intends to make his profession. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Tyler, 400 Maple Park.

Morris Puts Up New Sign.

M. M. Morris, successor to Fiest and Bachrach, has put up a handsome new sign on the front of his place of business. He has added greatly to his stock, and his show windows also attract the attention of the passer-by. His enterprise and energy show him to be a comer.

Responds With Reverse English.

Late Friday evening, William Carter, knight of the road with a two century avoirdupois, accosted a kindly looking gentleman at the corner of Fourth and Main and whispered to him that he would be much obliged for the price of a bed. "Yes, I'll get you a place to sleep," said the kindly looking gentleman as he escorted his guest to the Hotel Endicott.

Bridge Luncheon at Olympian.
A charming bridge luncheon was given Wednesday at the Hotel Olympian by Mrs. Walter Everett and her sister, Mrs. Clara Leete of Tacoma. A dainty luncheon was served in one of the private dining rooms. Tables were centered with white wicker baskets of yellow chrysanthemums tied with large yellow bows. Covers were laid for twenty-five guests. Following the luncheon, six tables of bridge were enjoyed on the mezzanine floor.

Training School Boys at Large.
Three boys, Lloyd Kriegbaum, Earl Debraux, and Claude White, escaped from the State Training school at Chehalis last Friday night, according to word sent local police. Each is 17 years of age, and White is well known to the Olympia department, being committed from Thurston county court.

Spencer Speaks at Ellensburg.
M. L. Spencer, dean of the school of journalism at the University of Washington, and a captain in the intelligence department of the American army during the war in charge of censorship, was the principal speaker at the Armistice Day celebration at Ellensburg yesterday under the auspices of the Austin-Rees-Wheeler post of the American Legion.

Bridge Nears Completion.
Rivets has been completed on the steel bridge over the Skookumchuck river on the Bucoda road, according to an announcement made today. On Monday the bridge was closed all day from 8 o'clock until 5 o'clock p. m. to give an opportunity to build the approaches to the bridge in order to turn the traffic over it on Tuesday morning. During the remainder of the week traffic will be held up from one to three hours at periods during the day. The bridge will be open to traffic from 5 o'clock p. m. to 8 o'clock a. m. each night. The bridge is a 100-foot steel span, and is being built by the Union Bridge Company of Portland.

Mrs. Egbert Gives Bridge Tea.
Mrs. Curtis Egbert was hostess Tuesday of last week at a charming bridge tea at her home, 113 West Fourteenth street, complimenting Mrs. Augusta Kirchoff of Chicago, who is visiting her niece, Mrs. Peter Schmidt. Two tables of bridge were enjoyed during the afternoon with the high score going to Mrs. Kirchoff.

"A fine piece of work," said W. C. Salter, county treasurer, in complimenting the Washington Standard as being the only newspaper in the county to publish the complete election returns for Thurston county.
