GROWERS AND DEALERS FAVOR COMPULSORY GRADING

Seattle Meeting Names Delegates to Attend Spokane Convention on December 17.

M. L. Dean, chief of the horticultural commission, returned the first of the week from Seattle, where he attended a meeting of the potato growers and dealers of the state. At this conference the advisability of having compulsory potato grading law was discussed. Resolutions calling for such a law were passed favorably by the conference. A large number of delegates were named at the meeting to attend the State Potato Growers' Association convention at Spokane, December 17, to be held in connection with the Washington Horticultural Society convention.

Potato growers and dealers from Sumner, Seattle, Tacoma, Mt. Vernon, Grandview, Outlook, Toppenish, Wapato, Sunnyside, Yakima, and Ellensburg attended the meeting in Seattle. Prominent among those in attendance were:

Mr. Dean, Henry Huff, of Sumner, horticultural inspector in Pierce county; E. D. Hunter, inspector in Skagit county; F. W. Rhodes, inspector in King county, and George Bryant of Yakima, chairman of the meeting.

Harem Victim Tells Story

Stolen from her home on the night before her wedding and imprisoned for five years in a Turkish harem, Aghavni Millian, a beautiful nineteen-year-old Armenian girl from Bitlis, has at last been discovered by her lover and through the assistance of the Near East Relief forcibly taken from her master and brought to one of the American Rescue Homes in Constantinople. Here she will stay until arrangements can be made for her marriage and her return to her old home. "My story—it is like hundreds of others," Aghavni said simply. "I was stolen from my home on the night that the massacres first began in Bitlis. It was the night before I was to have been married. I was just folding my wedding veil away when the Turkish soldiers broke into the house. They carried me off. I— They took me up to Constantinople to the house of the man"— She stopped and put one hand over her eyes, a hand that bore the tell-tale tattoo of her Turkish master.

"But what does my story matter?" she exclaimed. "I am only one of so many. It is my people and their future that matters. Somehow we must rebuild our nation and show to the Turks who tried to beat out our life and to the whole world that, despite what we have suffered, Armenia is still unconquerable."

Aghavni Millian is, as she says, only one of many. It is estimated that one hundred thousand girls are still held captive in Turkish harems. The Near East Relief, America's official agent in Armenia, is making this work of rescue one of the most important features of its program, and it is to them and the support they receive from the American people that Aghavni's unfortunate sisters, still captive, must look for their release.

MUCH TRIMMING LIKED

A single glance at the group of dress hats shown here is enough to convince one that millinery has gone the way of dresses and that fashion demands trimmings and elaborations of all sorts on headwear. There are many fabric hats, from sheer laces to heavy velvet. Rich embroideries, plume ornaments and ostrich feathers contribute their part to hats that look everywhere for ingenious decoration in this season of wonderful millinery.

Armenian Refugees Line Up for Food.

As cold weather sets in refugees are pouring into Near East Relief centers. This group is fed daily in the former Russian barracks at Alexandropol, one of the safest cities in the Caucasus.

Long-sleeved, high-necked blouses are about to gain distinction by their scarcity, and here is one that has other claims to that honor. It is long sleeved and high necked in a new and original way. The vogue for knife plaiting inspired its turn-over collar and the inserts in the cuffs.

Able to withstand all sorts of weather is this neat dress of dark bige serge with white braid on collar and sleeves, and moreover it is trim and smart looking. It boasts a plaited skirt, patent leather belt and a handsome silk tie.

CENTRALIA PROVIDES HOME ECONOMICS COTTAGE

Miss Dorothy Shank, supervisor of vocational home economics in the state of Washington, left Tuesday for Centralia where she will inspect the home economics work being done there and from Centralia she will go to Vancouver, Washington, in connection with home economics work there.

The city of Centralia has reported to Miss Shank that it has rented a cottage and furnished it and the home economics classes do their work in this cottage. Miss Shank states that this is one of the innovations in home economics work being tried in various towns in the state.

EXPERTS AND ENGINEERS IN RECLAMATION CONFERENCE

State Treasurer W. W. Sherman accompanied by E. M. Chandler, chief engineer for the state reclamation work, were in Seattle the first of the week attending a conference of reclamation experts and engineers from various parts of the state. A program for reclamation work during ensuing year was mapped out at the conference and a tentative bill relative to the certification of irrigation bonds was discussed. Following this conference recommendations will be made to the governor and to the legislature concerning the reclamation program for 1921.

Anita Stewart Star at Ray.

One of the striking scenes in "The Yellow Typhoon," Harold MarGrath's greatest adventure story in which Anita Stewart stars, is that of a great Oriental gambling hall in Shanghai China. This remarkable picture will be shown at the Ray theatre on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

It is a typical Chinese gambling hall of the port cities, that caters to wealthy foreigners. It is rich with Oriental tapestries, inlaid tables of marble and teak wood and Chinese paintings with all these gorgeous colorings.

And in this great gambling place, run by the woman known as The Yellow Typhoon, are all the devices of chance by which men win and lose fortunes in a night, and because of which women's souls are wrecked and men's lives snuffed out.

There East meets West, for wealthy Chinese are seen at the tables, the Mandarins and great silk and tea merchants, who have the instinct of gambling.

Extra attractions are Harold Lloyd in a two-reel comedy and an International News reel. There will be special Thanksgiving matinee at 2:30.

Up-to-Date Tire Service.

Phoning for auto tires or tire service with the same ease and safety that you call up your grocer for sugar is a boon to the motorist in trouble. But it is part of the job of the up-to-date tire dealer to make it convenient for you to avail yourself of this service.

Then there is the drive up or call for inspection. The good old adage that "a stitch in time saves nine" is as true about tires as it is about shoes or stockings, and tires mean a lot more money. That's why it's one of the hobbies of the tire merchant to regularly inspect tires.

This tire inspection saves car and truck owners money and trouble.
