OLD MEMORIES. When the spring days, fresh and balmy, look the earth in the face...

THE HEROINE OF THE CURFEW. It lacked but half an hour of curfew toll. The old bell-ringer came from under the walled roof of his cottage...

As though it were him with more than human pity! He was a God-fearing and God-serving man. He had long ago made his peace with Heaven...

Light is a force, and science holds that it is made up of impulses. Nature has been shown to conform all kinds of dynamical effects to rhythmic pulsing, or wave-like motion...

THE HOME OF THE COMMUNISTS. New Caledonia, the penal colony of France, from which Henri Rochefort and Pascal Grousset have escaped...

What had he done that he should die? Little it mattered in those days, when the sword that the great Cromwell wielded was so prone to fall, what he or others had done...

Historical Items. LOCOMOTIVE steam carriages on railways were first introduced at Liverpool in October, 1825.

THE office of Master of the Ceremonies for the reception of persons at court was introduced in England in 1603.

THE small island of Monte Cristo is situated in the Mediterranean. It contains the ruins of a fortress and contains also an abbey.

THE first steambath was that invented by Fulton, called 'The North River,' which made her first passage from New York to Albany in 1807.

THE first Protestant Bishop in the United States was the Right Rev. Dr. Samuel Seabury, 1783. The first Catholic Bishop was Dr. Carroll, of Maryland, 1789.

THE first daily newspaper ever published in the English language was issued in London, March 11, 1702—one hundred and seventy-two years ago.

DESPERATE VALOR OF THE ASHANTES. A correspondent writes from the field: 'The Ashantes fought like demons. They were present in enormous numbers, pouring on our gallant troops by thousands, yelling and screaming hideously.'

OUR REASONING. We shall magnanimously forbear to assail our opponents and the P. C., while it is down and unable for the moment to resist. When, however, like the great original, he has got his wind again, we will project an hour by Shrewsbury clock.

A Big Farm. It is said that a firm named Miller & Lux, in the southern part of California, own forty miles of land on the west side of the San Joaquin, Miller having in addition half a million acres.

A Comparison. An exchange says: 'Compare the publisher of a new paper, who has to go all around the country to collect his pay to a farmer who sells his wheat on credit, and not more than a bushel to any person.'

What Manufacturing Does. There is many a city and town that will appreciate the following: One manufacturing employing a hundred men will support an additional five hundred people. These hundred families will disburse annually on the average, $750, or $75,000 in the aggregate.

An Independent Press. The late typographical unpleasantness found at Appleton, Wis., preparatory for any emergency, the gentlemen of the Union had put the office in the most scrupulously neat condition before they said 'farewell, and if forever' to the 'Republican.'

Horrors of English Prison Life. Mr. James Greenwood has published a frightful account of the penal system which is in operation at the Holloway Model Prison in London. It is an offense for a prisoner to speak one word, and he is never addressed except in whispers.

Useful Hints for the Home Circle. PAROXYSMS of coughing may be prevented or cured by swallowing a little dry salt.

WOMEN in flower-pots may be destroyed by using common lime water, and by sprinkling lime in water. The solution must be weak, an ordinary sized gallon of lime will be sufficient for six gallons of water.

A BALKY HORSE. There are two ways of managing a balky horse. My companion knew one of them, and I the other. His method is to sit quietly in the wagon, and at short intervals throw a small pebble at the horse.

BADLY SOLD. A clerk in a book store in Louisville, where lottery tickets were sold, laid aside one for himself numbered 3,367. A short time ago the proprietor of the store received a letter from one Perkins living in an interior town, stating that he had dreamed that 3,367 would draw the capital prize, and requesting said proprietor to purchase that ticket for him if it was to be had.

CREMATION. Sir Henry Thompson, the great English doctor, has another long argument in the 'Contemporary Review' in favor of the incineration of the dead. After demonstrating the sanitary necessity of such a measure in all great cities, Sir Henry gives the following as a programme for the funeral ceremonies: 'When death occurs and the necessary certificate has been given, the body is placed in a light wood coffin, then in a suitable outside receptacle, preparatory to removal for religious rites or otherwise. After a proper time has elapsed it is conveyed to the spot where cremation is to be performed. There nothing need be seen by the last attendant or attendant that the placing of the body in a small compartment and the closing of the door upon it. It slides down into the heated chamber, and is left there an hour, till the necessary changes have taken place. The ashes are then placed at the disposal of the attendants.'

IF you desire to know how to make your own toilet articles, write the body in ink on a sheet of paper, and send it to the Editor of the 'Red Cloud Chief,' Box 255, Chicago, Ill.

HEALING BY FAITH. Dr. Brown Seward, the eminent surgeon, in a lecture delivered in New York the other day said: 'The cure of any illness which does not consist in a disorganization of the tissues can often be accomplished when the person thinks that it can be done. If we physicians, who treat patients every day, had the power to make them believe that they are to be cured, we certainly would obtain less fees than we do, and I must say that the best of us would rejoice at it. There is no doubt at all that if we could give to patients the idea that they are to be cured they would often be cured, especially if we could name a time for it, which is a great element in success. I have succeeded sometimes, and I may say that I succeeded more now than formerly, because I have myself the faith that I can give faith to others. I wish, indeed, that physicians who are younger men than myself, and who will have more time to study this question than I have, would take it up, especially in those cases in which there is a functional nervous affection only to deal with, as it is particularly, though not only, in those cases that a cure can be obtained. Indeed a cure may thus be obtained in certain organic affections; even in dropsy it may lead to a cure. You know that it will stop pain; that going to a dentist is often quite enough to make a toothache disappear. I can see patients come to me with a terrible neuralgia, who dreaded the operation I was about to perform, and, just at the time I was to undertake it, ceased to suffer.'

THE temperance crusade is no longer the sensation of the day in the newspapers, but it continues to appear a matter of absorbing importance to the women engaged in it, and of practical interest to the men whose business it so materially affects. There is no evidence that the women are weary in their well doing. The number of saloons closed has increased from day to day until it now exceeds a thousand, and we look in vain for an instance in which the women after fairly beginning battle have fled the field. Their faith is of the kind that is said to remove mountains. It hesitates not to attack the enemy whether he be strongly entrenched in a 5,000 gross shops at Cincinnati, or supported by an angry rabble as in Cleveland. An array of superior numbers in opposition serves only to call for more thorough organization and greater perseverance on the part of the crusaders. Persecution arouses the spirit of martyrdom and elicits sympathy for the persecuted from unexpected quarters. A single victory encourages a praying band to weeks of more earnest and devoted prayer and labor. But a speedy victory does not seem necessary to keep the faith of the crusaders. Weeks may pass without a surrender, yet the women keep on with a patience which elicits the sympathy of the most careless spectator and assures the harassed liquor-dealer that, though the day of his capitulation may be distant, it must inevitably come.—New York Tribune.

UNWELCOME SENSATIONS—Mosquitoes. A MAINE girl has killed herself—by gum! [This is not an oath.] An exchange tells of an 'undertaking wisely abandoned before it was begun.'

ADAM had one consolation when he fell: Fifteen or twenty acquaintances didn't stand on the opposite corner and laugh at his mishap.

A STARVING WOMAN in Paterson, N. J., driven to an excess of desperation that savors of mad despair, was actually forced to spend her last six dollars for a wig. Pity the sorrows of the poor.

'WHERE did you learn wisdom?' inquired Diogenes of a man esteemed wise. 'From the blind,' was the reply, 'who always try their path with a stick before they venture to tread on it.'

ONE of our neighbors had just put on his pants, the other morning, when he immediately took them off again, under the impression that they were haunted. The kitten was pulled out by the tail and drowned.

'THE evidence shows that he got up with her night after night, and they snuggled hands and talked soft, and I think she ought to have about $25 damages,' was the charge of a Kansas juror to a jury in a breach-of-promise case.

AT a party, while a young lady was playing with peculiar brilliancy of touch, a bystander bachelored exclaimed, 'I'd give the whole world for those fingers!' 'Perhaps you might get the whole hand by asking,' said the young lady's observant mamma.

'WHAT,' exclaimed the fashionable Fitzwiggles to the exquisite Miss La Spattergrass—'what would you be, dearest, if I should present you with a pair of love and those sealing-wax lips?' 'I,' responded the fairy-like creature, 'should be stationery.'

THE following sweet dispatch passed over wires to a Maine girl: 'To—: Your life is a rich bouquet of happiness, yourself the sweetest flower. If northern winds whisper southern wishes, how happy you must be! I love you, Frank. Happy dreams, sweet love. Frank.'

'RESPECTABLE' people are a singular set in Portland. Within a week one respectable citizen was caught stealing jewelry, another with kid gloves stole a ham, a third was arrested for stealing spoons, and a fourth, a 'prominent citizen,' was picked up at midnight in a state of almost hopeless intoxication.

A STRAIGHT minister applied to a ticket agent, on one of the Cape Breton roads, for a 'clergyman's ticket,' and on the official expressing a doubt as to his clerical character, exclaimed: 'If you don't believe I'm a clergyman, I'll read you one of my sermons!' The agent passed over the ticket, but did not insist upon the proof.

NOVIE WAY OF REMOVING A BOARDING-HOUSE. 'What do you do with so much?' said a gentleman at the South End, the other evening, to a beggar-boy, who had a basketful of provisions, and was soliciting more. 'Mother got three new boarders last night, and two other fellows left without paying her anything.'
