The following letters remain uncalled for at the post-office Jan. 9. Please say advised when calling for these letters:

John E. Dwinell, Mrs. Elvira Pearl Gay,

Mary Sovair, Exice Valley.

The regular meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held with Mrs. Cordelia Cutler and Mrs. H. R. Cutler Tuesday p. m. at three o'clock. All are requested to come prepared with questions for the question box.

Mrs. H. J. Stannard has been teaching in one of the departments in the school during Miss Jennie Locke's absence, attending upon the death and burial of her sister, Mrs. O. W. Locke of Barton Landing.

H. F. Pillsbury has sold his Dewey lot to A. P. Underwood, overseer of the Peerless Factory, for $1000. This is one of the best lots in the village and will make a pleasant and convenient home for Mr. Underwood.

We are glad he has faith in Barton and has decided to stay with us.

The lecture to be given by the Hon.

Chas. Emory Smith has been postponed from the 17th of January to the 27th on account of a meeting of the "Philadelphia Press" corporation on that date and as Mr.

Smith is editor of the Press it is necessary for him to attend the meeting.

About twelve Odd Fellows from this encampment went to Newport Wednesday evening to the district meeting, called by

L. F. Jones, district deputy, of Island

Pond. This encampment worked the Patrical degree and Frontier encampment of Newport worked the Golden Rule degree.

The meeting was a great success.

Wednesday evening, Jan. 11, the Academy and town basket ball teams will meet for their first game. This contest promises to be a close game and clean. The interest of the public in the exhibition should be no less than has been shown in the previous games. Come and give your support to both sides. Tickets go on sale at Pierce's, Monday night.

If you have noticed the boys and girls "catching a ride" on sleds and sleighs you know how dangerous it is. Last week a boy just missed having his legs crushed by a heavily loaded sled that slewed. Parents better take warning and see that their children are not "catching" these rides and therefore endangering their lives.

On the second page of this issue will be found the beginning of a series of articles on the prosperity of the town of Barton.

This installment deals with Barton Landing, as will the next one or two articles, then the village of Barton will be taken up, and after this we shall give a summing up of the town as a whole.

Monday, Jan. 2, Mr. Ora Caron of this town and Miss Alice Sullivan of Lowell were married at Lowell by Rev. Father Turoot. Miss Cora Sullivan, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid and Frank Caron was best man. They will reside in Barton, where Mr. Caron is in business. They have the best wishes of their many friends.

D. J. Grapes of this place received a dispatch that his father, Moses Grapes of Versailles, Conn., had been killed by the electric cars. He and his brother, Ira Grapes, started on the midnight train Friday night to go to Versailles, where the body will be buried.

We are in receipt of a letter postmarked "Barton" containing a notice of a certain entertainment, but as no name is attached and we do not know who sent the item it is not published. It is not stated or shown either in what town it should be placed.

Please bear in mind that we must know who sent the item and some hint must be given as to what town the item should be placed in.

Until the last of last week the cold weather continued. Friday however, was milder and Friday night and Saturday were visited by fierce winds. Saturday rain began falling but during the night

Saturday the thaw took cold, and Sunday morning the streets were one sheet of ice.

About noon Sunday snow began falling and at present we have about two inches of snow covering the ice.

Mr. George W. Foss formerly of this place, died in Woburn, Mass., on December 31st, aged sixty-eight years and three months. He was born and lived here until he enlisted in the Vermont Volunteers, Company I. After the war he went to Boston, where he was connected with the whalebone business for over forty years.

He leaves a widow, a son, three daughters, and two sisters, Mrs. Corse and Mrs.

Goodrich of Hardwick, to mourn his loss.

At the special village meeting held last Tuesday evening, to consider the matter of selling two-hundred horse power of electricity to parties in Newport and Derby for railway and other purposes to be called for only in the day, was voted down unanimously. The feeling seemed quite general that we ought to have the power ourselves on day service and that the call for power was sufficient to warrant the change from the one circuit we now have to two circuits, and therefore giving us the chance to have day power and day lights if wanted.

The Afternoon Study Club met with

Mrs. S. C. Currier, on Thursday, Jan. 5.

Roll-call was responded to with current events. There were twenty-eight ladies present. Instead of current events Mrs.

W. R. Aldrich gave a piano solo and Mrs.

C. A. Barrows sang "I'm a Pilgrim," following this was a most interesting paper by Mrs. J. A. Pearson, giving an account of her visit to the St. Louis Fair. Two minute talks on Generals of the Revolutionary War called out interesting articles from several ladies. The next meeting will be Feb. 2, with Mrs. W. R. Aldrich.

At the annual meeting of the Orleans

County Fair Association held at the Crystal

Lake Hotel January 3 the following officers were elected for the year 1905:

President, H. H. Somers of Irasburg; vice presidents, F. E. Altred, Newport, John McLellan, Glover; secretary, C. E. Hamblet, Barton; assistant secretary, C. A. Barrows, Barton; treasurer, O. D. Owen, Barton; assistant treasurer, H. C. Pierce, Barton; directors, H. H. Somers, F. E.

Alfred, H. C. Pierce, John McLellan and

C. A. Barrows; auditors, W. W. Miles and

C. A. Dodge; manager of the grounds, H.

T. Seaver. It was voted to pay six per cent dividends for 1904. Next annual fair

September 12, 13, 14, 15.

The community was shocked last Tuesday to learn of the sudden death of Mrs.

Margaret L. Bryant. She was taken suddenly sick Sunday and passed away Tuesday. Mrs. Bryant was born in Pomfret, sixty-seven years ago, and lived there until 1859 when she married Gilman E.

Bryant of Brownington and removed to that place. After her husband died about fifteen years ago she came to this place to educate her children and has lived here since that time until her decease. She was a member of the Congregational church, a faithful Christian, and a devoted mother, industrious, intelligent and beloved by many. She leaves to mourn her loss, two daughters, namely, Mrs. C. W. Comstock, and Mrs. W. F. Gilman of this place, and a son, Dr. J. E. Bryant of Haverhill, Mass., besides many more distant relatives and friends. The funeral was held at the residence of Dr. W. F. Gilman on Thursday,

Rev. W. A. Warner officiating. Interment at Brownington.

The Afternoon Study Club met with the Woman's Literary Club at the home of Mrs. Batchelder last Wednesday evening.

Members of both clubs and visitors to the number of forty-five were present, and spent a thoroughly enjoyable evening.

Mrs. Buswell gave an excellent paper upon "St. Isaac and the Crown Jewels" and Miss
