

TURKEY HAS HAD ENOUGH

Formally Asks the Powers to Act on Mediation

HER ARMY IN FULL RETREAT

Nazim Pasha May Find Himself Surrounded While Trying to Reach Stronghold For Last Stand—Capture of Entire Ottoman Army Is Not Considered Improbable—Foreigners Are In Peril of Massacre

London, Nov. 4.—The Turkish army is in full retreat on Constantinople and the Turkish government has asked the powers to intervene.

An official bulletin was issued by the government at Constantinople last night admitting defeat at the hands of the Bulgarians in the great battle on the Thracian plains.

Application was made to the embassies in Constantinople for mediation by the powers to end the hostilities and arrange a peace agreement.

The ambassadors, prior to this, had asked the powers to grant permission to each of the great powers to send one warship through the Dardanelles and this request had been complied with.

The only guarantee of safety for the native Christians and perhaps the foreigners in Constantinople is to be found in the presence of the warships of the great powers in the harbor of the Turkish capital.

It is the general belief that Bulgaria will refuse to listen to anything in the way of intervention until the Bulgarian army is at the gates of Constantinople, and will insist that Turkey make an appeal direct to the allies without interference from the powers.

Nazim Pasha in Danger

Dispatches from the front indicate that there is grave danger that Nazim Pasha, the Turkish war minister, will find himself surrounded by the swift moving allies before the broken masses of his army, crushed at Lule Burgas, can reach the fortified line of Chataldja, west of the Ottoman capital.

The Turks, impeded by thousands of wounded, with a depleted commissariat and a disheartened spirit, are not retreating in good order, it is said, and the Bulgarian general, Savoff, is attempting to throw a body of fresh Servian troops, hurried to the eastern front from the western campaign, between Nazim Pasha and the almost impregnable position he is attempting to reach.

Instead of fighting with their backs to the wall, the Turks may find themselves encircled at any moment. The battle would then be fought under disadvantageous conditions for the Ottomans and the allies should have easy work in disposing of them. The way to Constantinople would then lie open.

Servian Cavalry Active

The Servian cavalry meanwhile is sweeping the remnants of the Turk from Macedonia, and the Greek Bulgarians and Servians, taking it for granted that the war is won, are establishing civil administrations in the conquered provinces. The Turkish hold little save the fortified cities of Scutari, Monastir, Janina, Salonica and Constantinople.

The conditions in the capital are desperate. Twelve thousand were killed, mostly neglected, now lie dead and the disorderly elements, seemingly about to break their heads against the walls, are becoming more rampant hourly.

While the triumphant Bulgarians worry the flanks of Nazim Pasha and threatening to outman and surround him, have taken Chorti, Isranja and Rodosto, the latter a port on the Sea of Marmora, an attempt on the part of the Turks to make flank movement and use a bit of strategy failed pitifully. A force of 26,000 was landed at Medina, on the Black sea, and was completely defeated.

May Be Another Sedan

Veteran war correspondents predict that Sedan will be repeated, and the surrender of the entire Turkish army is not considered improbable. At the same time the plight of Adrianople is more desperate, and it is not expected to hold out more than a week longer. Tsar Ferdinand, in pity for the inhabitants, has ordered the bombardment of the city proper to cease.

The besieged saw their last hope of succor fall when the 30,000 men who fled from Kirk Killise to Demotica were defeated and cut to pieces.

The main Bulgarian attack by the field guns is being delivered against the Chataldja forts, a line of the same name as that which defends Constantinople. This is at the northwest corner of the fortifications of the city. These are the strongest of the protecting forts, and the capture of Chataldja will mean the fall of Adrianople. At the same time other attacks are being made against Karagach fort, to the southwest.

The Turkish garrison of 40,000 men is displaying desperate courage in its sorties. The Bulgarians attacked them at Maras, along the Maritza river, near the main bridge and a fearful battle was raging according to the latest bulletin. On both sides a contempt of death is displayed.

A report comes from Prague that Adrianople has fallen, but this is not confirmed.

Massacres Have Begun

The threatened massacres of Christians and Jews by the Turks have begun. The first news of such outbreaks comes from Salonica, where the Jewish inhabitants perished in large numbers on the news arriving that the Greeks and the Servians were about to unite the beleaguered city. There are 70,000 Christians in Salonica and 600,000 in Constantinople.

No more massacres will occur at Salonica, it is probable, as British, Russian, French and German cruisers are now there and three British warships on their way to Malta have been ordered to leave for the scene.

RELEASED ON $65,000 BAIL

A. O. U. W. Alleges Quigg Has Missing Funds of the Order

Providence, Nov. 4.—Alfred W. Quigg gave $30,000 bail on the ten indictments brought against him by the grand jury, charging him with being accessory before the fact to J. L. Davis' alleged embezzlement from the Ancient Order of United Workmen.

Quigg was about to walk out of jail after a long incarceration as a result of a failure to procure satisfactory bail of $30,000 when he was arrested again in an action for $35,000 brought by the Ancient Order of United Workmen. The order is suing to recover from Quigg funds which it alleges fell into his possession as a result of the alleged Davis defalcation.

After some time had been spent in making arrangements to obtain sureties for the $35,000 in this civil action, Quigg was finally released.

William H. Draper went bail for Quigg on the indictments and in the other action.

TURRET OF MAINE HURLED FORTY FEET

Divers Make Discovery In the Harbor of Havana

Havana, Nov. 1.—Divers engaged in the work of removing the shattered remnants of the forward section of the battleship Maine for the purpose of restoring the harbor to its normal depth, discovered the forward turret, intact, containing a pair of 10-inch guns and mounts weighing upward of 200 tons.

The turret had been hurled forty feet from its original position. It had been believed that the turret was lying under the barbette which was discovered months ago in an inverted position near the side of the ship.

The turret lies in thirty-two feet of water, and no attempt will be made to remove it. It will be necessary, however, to explode many charges of dynamite for the purpose of sinking it deeper in the harbor bottom.

ESTATE OF MRS. EDDY

Property in Bay State at Time of Death Valued at $237,843

Boston, Nov. 1.—The appraisers of the estate belonging to Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy have filed their inventory showing that she had real estate valued at $155,000 and personal property valued at $82,843.75 in this state at the time of her death.

All of the personal property will, under the decision of the supreme court of New Hampshire sustaining the will of Mrs. Eddy, go to the Christian Science church. The entire amount which the New Hampshire administrator will turn over to the church is about $2,000,000.

The Massachusetts supreme judicial court, which has jurisdiction only of the $155,000 of real estate within this commonwealth, has decided that the church statute bars the Christian Science church from receiving this property left to it by the will of Mrs. Eddy.

LONG PENANCE ENDS

Indian Who Lived Without Clothing For Years Found Dead

Mytom, Utah, Nov. 4.—Inepugut, a Ute Indian, who for almost thirty-five years has done penance for the murder of his mother by going naked and refusing to mingle with other members of his tribe, was found dead in his lonely tepee near here.

Inepugut refused to wear any sort of clothing, even in the coldest weather, and had left his tepee only once since he began his self-imposed sentence.

He was supplied with food by his tribesmen, who considered him sacred.

IN PRESENCE OF HIS FAMILY

Vice President Sherman Dies at His Home in Utica

END WAS NOT UNEXPECTED

All Differences Growing Out of Politics Die With Genial Man Who Was Regarded as First Citizen of City—Universal Sorrow Expressed—Tribute From Mayor

Utica, N. Y., Oct. 31.—After a long illness, Vice President James Schermerhorn Sherman died at his home in this city at 9:42 o'clock last night of uremic poison, caused by Bright's disease.

All the members of the immediate family were witnesses of the final scene.

Soon after Sherman's death, Dr. Peck, the attending physician, who was present when death came, issued the following statement:

"The vice president died at 9:42 p. m. without regaining consciousness for a moment. He was perfectly quiet. He died in the presence of his wife, her brother and sister, his two brothers, and his three sons and their wives. He had been entirely unconscious since 7 o'clock, when he had a period of partial consciousness lasting for about 15 minutes. He died in a uremic coma as a result of Bright's disease, heart disease and arterial sclerosis."

Mrs. Sherman bore up bravely under the shock of her husband's death, as did the other members of the family. Although it was said at the house that the hopelessness of Sherman's fight against death had been realized since Friday, the blow was nevertheless a crushing one.

The Sherman residence is located on Genesee street, one of the city's fashionable thoroughfares, and the arrival and departure of an occasional automobile was the only indication that anything unusual had transpired within the house.

The announcement of the vice president's death spread through the city with great rapidity. Universal sorrow was expressed, and immediate steps were taken for the proper recognition of the sorrowful event. Sherman was regarded as the first citizen of the city, and all differences growing out of politics died with him.

The mayor gave out a statement voicing the general grief, and the big bell at city hall, as well as many church bells, tolled out the doleful news. Not only did the Republican organization take proper cognizance of the event, but the Progressives announced their intention to cancel all meetings until after the vice president's funeral. Governor Johnson, who, so long as Sherman lived, was his rival for vice presidential honors, was to have spoken here tonight in behalf of the Progressive ticket, but his address, like all other events of the kind, has been deferred.

The Democrats also signified their intention of removing a Wilson and Marshall banner which had been flung across one of the city streets and of suspending all political activity until after the funeral.

In the course of his tribute Mayor Baker said:

"Mr. Sherman has long been identified with the business interests of Utica. He was ever alert in taking advantages for the city. His home life was beautiful. It was a model for all American families. He found the greatest pleasure when summoned by those who loved him as a husband and father, and it is there that his genial presence will be missed. Stricken, as he was, with an illness which required constant watchfulness, Mr. Sherman bore it with a fortitude which exemplified the strong characteristics of the man."

The mayor ordered that the flags on all city buildings should be placed at half-staff and suggested that a similar course be followed with all other flags in Utica.

Los Angeles Man Awarded $100,000 For Alienation of Wife's Affections

Los Angeles, Oct. 31.—A judgment of $100,000 for the alienation of a wife's affections, one of the largest judgments of that character ever awarded in Los Angeles, is on record here.

It was given by Judge Bordwell of the superior court to B. C. Reusch, an electric railway employe, who testified that Mrs. Reusch had eloped last summer with L. Sommerville, a Pomona orchardist.

used. Enough of the great seriousness of the occasion was presented to impress all with the idea that marriage is indeed a divine institution. As is the custom, the parents, relatives and friends at once gave kindly greetings to the newly married ones. The bride wore a white messaline silk gown and carried a bouquet of large bridal roses and white carnations. The bridesmaid wore a blue silk dress and carried a large bouquet of white carnations. There was a hasty departure of the couple sooner than was expected and they sped away in an automobile, bearing many good wishes as well as many diminutive pieces of colored paper and rice, which fell upon them from some keepers of custom and lovers of fun among the house party. And this shower was followed by another from the hands of friends stationed near by the opportunity to dispose of confetti and rice. Potted plants and cut flowers added much to the home decorations, with smilax festooned to set off the groupings of fruits and flowers. The participation of wedding refreshments was interrupted because of the hasty departure of the couple, but the guests as speedily resumed their places and a social event was in progress. The presents were many and valuable, including several sums of money, silverware, china and cut glass pieces and beautiful table linen. We have learned that the auto bore the wedding party to Newport, from there they went to Richmond, then to Sheldon. Mr. and Mrs. Reed will be at home at 42 Portland St., St. Johnsbury, after Nov. 6th. Mrs. Reed has filled a place in the hearts of many young people of Orleans and will be missed in their social circles. She had won for herself quite a reputation as an easy and interesting actress in the school plays, which called from older people as well as younger ones expressions of the appreciation of her talent on the stage. And since her graduation from the high school she has most commendably entered into an occupation which well testifies to her native ability in the line of work she undertook. Mr. Reed is a member of the Peck Company at St. Johnsbury and upon their arrival at home in St. Johnsbury a beautiful mantel clock was found in their room, a present from the Peck Company to Mr. and Mrs. Reed. On the Monday evening previous to their marriage, the club to which Mr. Reed belongs held a special meeting in honor of his approaching marriage. Every member of the club was present and after greeting him with kindly words presented him with a large leather upholstered rocker. All good wishes from friends far and near for their true success in life attend them.

Crawford Ranges

The Single Damper is a simple and unassuming name for a wonderful invention; probably the most important improvement ever made in cooking stoves. It is operated by one movement of a knob upon the top at the back of the range. This knob has three plainly marked locations, "Kindle," "Bake" and "Check." Slide the knob to the proper point and the range does the rest. Simplicity itself and absolutely sure.

This Single Damper requires but one movement, yet that one movement regulates the fire and also the oven heat and does it better than can be done with two dampers; damper mistakes are impossible. All other stoves than the Crawford have two dampers and some have more, but the two-damper ranges are confusing. You never know when the dampers are exactly right.

The Ash Hod instead of the clumsy ash pan is another Crawford trouble saver.
