Special Town Meeting Called.

Warnings have been posted for a special town meeting to be held at Seaver's hall on Thursday, March 25. Two articles appear in the warning:

1. To see what action, if any, the town will take about purchasing or leasing a town farm.

2. To see how much money the said town will vote to raise for that purpose.

A year ago by a large vote it was decided best to sell the town farm, which the town has maintained for a number of years. Apparently the question of which is the most economical method of caring for the town poor is again a question which the majority ought to settle.

County Agricultural Association Notes

The county agent attended the annual meeting of the Hardwick-Greensboro Cow Testing association, which was held at East Hardwick on Thursday, March 11th. A large majority of the members were present and an enthusiastic meeting was held. The association has all the herds it can accommodate and some who made application for membership had to be refused. The efficiency of the work of the association is evident from the statement of the tester that 56 cows made over 40 pounds of butter fat in the last 30 days. Largest number in testing association. This is over ten per cent of the number of cows in the association. When one considers that only one or two per cent of the cows in the county are capable of making 40 pounds of butter fat in 30 days this record shows that something has been accomplished to get rid of the unprofitable cows.

M. C. Wilson of the department of agriculture, Washington, D. C., assisted by the county agent, returned about fifty farm records last week to the farmers who gave the records. The remainder will be returned by mail in the very near future. Some very interesting as well as instructive figures were obtained from these records as will be noted from the following figures. Three things stand out prominently. First, that the larger the business, the greater the opportunity for a larger income. Second, the diversity of business as measured by the number of important sources of income. Third, the better quality of cows kept and crops grown, the greater the labor income. By "labor income" is meant the amount of money left after all expenses are paid and five per cent allowed for interest on the capital. "Cattle unit" means a cow, a steer or two head of young stock.

Seventy-two farm records were tabulated and averaged which were compared with the ten best farms. Each farmer, whose record was taken, can see how his farm compares with the average and how he can improve his farm to equal or better the ten best farms.

Methodist Episcopal Church Notes

The subject of the pastor's sermon Sunday morning was, "The Fruitless Fig Tree." Text found in Luke 13: 6, 9. "Are you fruit-bearing Christians, or nothing but leaves, like the fig tree? God has a right to expect, a right to demand, that we serve him. Let us examine our fruits. What about our faith? Do we have love in our hearts? If real love for Christ filled our hearts how different things would be. The church would not be large enough to hold the members who would come. If we loved God, we would love each other less harshly. If we have love it will manifest itself in service. Surrender to Jesus Christ, and good fruits will adorn your life."

There were 103 at Sunday school. Let's try and keep above the hundred mark every Sunday.

In the evening the pastor preached an excellent sermon from Ps. 33:12.

Remember the prayer meeting Thursday evening at 7.30.

You are welcome to all our church services.

We are paying the market prices for skunk, muskrat, mink, red fox, coon, etc. hides, skins and pelts. We sell green cut bone for poultry. Smith and Jenkins, Public market, Orleans. 48f

LEGISLATIVE MATTERS

Prohibiting Referendum Passed and Signed by the Governor. Hugh Henry's Speech Changes the Weights and Measures Vote

The people of the state will have a chance to vote at the next March meeting upon the referendum regarding temperance in Vermont for on Friday Gov. Gates signed House 102, which provides for such action.

The house could not agree as to a bill regarding the expenses for extinguishing sparks from a locomotive and therefore killed the bill Friday afternoon as it did the bill relating to ventilation of factories. Having sent the bill relating to the weights and measures department to a third reading by a large vote the house turned upon itself Thursday afternoon and killed the measure after allowing Commissioner Hugh Henry to discuss the measure before the committee of the whole.

The house did not take kindly to the senate measure which provided for the removal of dead bodies and Thursday afternoon killed it in short order. The House's amendment regarding the grading of apples seemed to be a stickler in the measure, the senate killed the amendment and the house upon the return of the bill refused to concur in the proposal, resulting in the bill going to a committee of conference.

Senator Powell banged hard at the workingman's compensation act that passed the senate Friday afternoon, and then proceeded to vote for the bill. He claimed that the bill was a lemon upon the working men and that it did not agree with party pledges. The bill was sent to the third reading unanimously, however, and has now passed the senate. The general corporation bill has appeared in the form of six bills which cover all kinds of corporation acts, private and foreign. Each of them were made a special order for Friday of this week March 19, being set ten minutes apart upon the forenoon calendar.

The effort of the veterans in the house to have Vermont contribute $2000 to the Peace monument on Lake Erie, did not meet with much approval although Gen. Nelson A. Miles spoke some 45 minutes upon the measure and Thursday it was ordered to lie. There seems to be a feeling that if any standing room or $10,000 each to Middlebury college and Norwich university.

The house committee on ways and means are now working upon appropriations, the budget of which was presented by Mr. Proctor Friday afternoon, which includes $35,000 to University of Vermont and $10,000 each to Middlebury college and Norwich university.

F. O. Gray of Sutton will get his money for cattle condemned in due process of time Gov. Gates having signed a bill to that effect.

Second Band Concert.

The Barton Cornet band are to give another concert at Seaver's hall Thursday evening, March 18th, tomorrow night. The admission again is only ten cents, and there are ten especially good numbers on the program. This rate is one cent for each selection and the program is better worth a donation of 25 and 35 cents. The band like to feel that we appreciate their endeavors to give us good concerts, both in the hall as well as in the park and these concerts should appeal to the rural population the village. It is expected that there will be another full house on Thursday night.

Grange to Present Rural Drama.

"Cricket Lake grange is to present 'Sackett's Corner Folk,' a rural drama at Seaver's hall on Tuesday evening, March 23d. The talent in this play is every bit local, and much hard work has been put into this drama to make the entertainment in every way a success. It will deserve a very large audience and as it is being put on by the local grange, there should be a standing room only. Music is to be furnished by the Schubert orchestra of seven pieces and there will be a dance after the play. Refreshments are to be served in the hall. With all these accessories for an enjoyable occasion, you can hardly fail to be among those who attend.

Tickets will be on sale at Pierce's after Thursday morning.

Ott's Lecture.

Edward Amherst Ott, delivered his lecture, "Sour Grapes," at the opera hall Monday night to a very large audience. We believe that Mr. Ott has given this lecture about 2,000 times, and at Orleans last season this lecture was his topic, while Barton listened to "Will Your Dreams Come True?" Opinions may differ as to just which of these subjects is the most interesting, but there are few if any, who will not agree that the lecture Monday night was a veritable masterpiece, of clear, concise logic. Treating fundamental truths in a manner which is wholly unobjectionable and yet bringing the vital things of life to a definite conclusion, is Mr. Ott's particular forte. The title, "Sour Grapes," seems to be a bit misplaced and the more prosaic title of "Start at the Beginning," would seem to express the real essence of his subject somewhat better. It was a lecture in which every member of the audience was vitally interested and there were gems of wit and humor interspersed throughout it all, which kept it far away from the technical or scientific. Everyone would deem it a privilege to listen to Mr. Ott's other lectures, and we trust that we may be afforded the opportunity of hearing him again. This number concludes the season's course. While it has not been a money-making course, yet, there is no deficit in the treasury and a small balance will be carried forward. One must remember that Barton has heard practically all of the best lecturers on the lyceum circuit and our audiences always demand the very best, which for many years has been given them.

Lincoln Beachy Killed.

Lincoln Beachy, who will be remembered here as the man who gave such an exceptionally good exhibition of flying at the Barton fair in 1912, was killed during a flight at the Panama-Pacific exposition Sunday. He had changed from his regular machine, a biplane, to the monoplane type and in the early part of the flight, his machine collapsed and he fell about 3000 feet to the water. His body was found later, strapped to a part of the machine.

Orleans County Ideal for Tourists.

The state papers are trying to impress the fact upon our people that Vermont is an ideal place for summer guests, a fact well known to all who have spent their summers in Vermont, but not as well advertised as we could wish. It is a fact, too, that Orleans county is one of the ideal counties of the state for the summer tourist. Few counties can boast of as many lakes and ponds or as many beautiful drives as our county and our hotels compare favorably with most of those in the state. There is no more beautiful lake in New England than Willoughby and the fact that there never have been proper hotel accommodations for summer people at this most famous lake is to be regretted. The new road nearly completed beside the lake the past season, makes it an added attraction, for the automobilist and a hotel there built entirely for summer trade, could not fail to be a success. The hotel at Orleans is known to all traveling men and many summer guests as affording the best cuisine in New England and Barton with its two up-to-date hotels, has always entertained a large number of guests. Last season the Misses May entertained a large number of guests from Montreal and their very attractive home has been well patronized the past two seasons by people from the Canadian city. Greensboro has an exceptionally large summer colony which is increasing each season. Newport has always had many campers on the shores of its beautiful lake but has lacked the proper hotel accommodations to take care of the tourists. There is hardly a town in the county which is not well located to take care of summer tourists and afford them the recreation they are looking for. What the county needs is some systematic advertising and a sort of get-together meeting and we could have all the summer people in Orleans county. It doesn't help us to have a whole lot of scenery actually going to waste up here, unless we can find some method of getting the people here to look at it. If they come once, there will be no question about their coming every season after that, but how can we get them to make their first look? Few people are going to venture abroad this summer and all of our New England hotels are planning for the best of seasons. There should be some method whereby Orleans county could get these summer tourists to look at our lakes and ponds and later to become permanent summer guests.

COUNTY COURT.

The first case before the jury was that of W. A. Merriam & Son vs. N. H. Drew. This is a case of an account between the parties involving about $50, as claimed by the plaintiff Drew, defendant, claimed an offset for 28 tubs of sugar sold to the Merriams and which they claim was never received by them. Rearden was the counsel for Merriam and Cook for Drew. The jury brought in a verdict for the plaintiff Monday afternoon the case of Fred Estey vs. the town of Brighton was brought to trial. This is a case for damages claimed to have resulted from an automobile leaving the road at the end of a culvert. Out of 18 cases set for trial there are only two remaining.

A MIX-UP

One day last week there was quite a mix-up among the girls of the academy. One had to be well versed in ladies' wearing apparel and even better acquainted with the customs and habits of the girls in order to tell who was who and who was the other. Emma Lanou Thorp was obliged to go to her friend, Hazel Thorp Lanou, who is in style. Moreover the freshmen in the "shark" class were troubled to tell whether Julia King Wilkinson or Mary Wilkinson King was the "shark" teacher. Mary Urie Phillips and Vera Phillips Urie both sit in the front seat in English IV, so we knew that they were both there. Esther Brunning Chase needed some of Elsie Chase Brunning's waist measure to fill up her girdle. As long as Nellie Cook Wilton and Sadie Wilson Cook look after the roll call it may be all right but looks are sometimes deceiving. Mabel Lanou Carpenter and Vera Carpenter are both from Irasburg so perhaps, when they return Monday on a two-days' stay at home we can tell which one takes "Caesar." Mary-Ethel Brooks Carter and Helen Carter Brooks have so much in common that it doesn't make much difference who is who. Florence Miles Wakeman and Alice Wakeman Miles deceived us for a moment but on second sight one would easily see that they were not from the same town. It doesn't make any difference if Ruth Paddleford Dow and Grace Dow Paddleford do look a little odd, they can be readily recognized. There was an Ida Wright Whitcher, but we heard many exclaim "Which is she," and Doris Whitcher Wright didn't look right. We all sincerely hope that nothing of this kind will happen again for it is hard on the nerves, and even in our sleep we see fits, more misfits and even crazy fits dancing before our aching eyes.

CAMP ABNAKI FOR VERMONT BOYS.

Wednesday B. A. pupils, especially the boys, very much enjoyed a talk by Mr. Clark of Burlington, who is state secretary of the Y. M. C. A. as well as state scout commissioner. He spoke of the life at Camp Abnaki, on North Hero Island, where several hundred boys from all over the state spend the summer months. Mr. Clark is very much in favor of this camp for boys, for the spirit as well as the physical for the boy's life is developed. Then, too, the different boys, from the age of twelve to twenty-three, often form lifelong friendships as a result. In the course of the talk Mr. Clark gave us the usual daily program of camp Abnaki. Certainly the days are full ones, as well as pleasant and profitable. Scouting, hikes, swimming, fishing, boating and the like furnish plenty of fun and exercise. But outdoor chapel, nightly prayer services in each tent, led by one of the boys or the tent leader, and educational talks by important men, also form a part of the boys' life. During the months the camp is open, long hikes to various places of interest, even into Canada, are looked forward to by many of the fellows.

So the boys who spend their vacations at Camp Abnaki come into contact with the best influences and help possible, under excellent and careful leaders.

Mr. Clark also met the dozen boys who went to Chester and told them about many of the good results that the Chester Conference has accomplished. In several towns the boys have organized Y. M. C. A.'s. In some high schools the boys have decided to stand for clean speech, clean athletics, clean living. Such results as these impressed the boys more than ever as to the value of the conference.

Last week we were again favored by a talk from Mr. Rankin of Newport. He especially urged us to make other people happier and thereby bring happiness for ourselves. Then "better lives will result and this old world will be a much more desirable place.

In a spelling match among the pupils of the sixth and seventh grades Friday afternoon Henry Stone, "Spelt Down" the school of 44 pupils on the word "tuber." Four were still standing when that word was given but two of those four spelt it "tubar," the third spelt it "tubor," and Henry spelt it "tuber." The dust of battle cleared away with Henry standing.

Large quantities of logs are being drawn on wagons to the Drown saw-mill by local parties and several bills are being gotten out for people who intend building this spring.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Simpson of Stanstead, P. Q., were here last week, called here through the illness of Mr. Simpson's mother at the home of Clyde Brooks.

Crystal Lake grange will serve sugar on snow Thursday evening, March 18, at the Grange hall. A good program is being
