WOMAN REFUSES OPERATION

Tells How She Was Saved by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Louisville, Ky.—"I think if more suffering women would take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound they would enjoy better health. I suffered from a female trouble, and the doctors decided I had a tumorous growth and would have to be operated upon, but I refused as I do not believe in operations. I had fainting spells, bloated, and could hardly stand the pain in my left side. My husband insisted that I try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am so thankful I did, for I am now a well woman. I sleep better, do all my housework and take long walks. I never fail to praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for my good health."—Mrs. J. M. RESCH, 1900 West Broadway, Louisville, Ky.

Since we guarantee that all testimonials which we publish are genuine, is it not fair to suppose that if Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has the virtue to help these women it will help any other woman who is suffering in a like manner?

If you are ill do not drag along until an operation is necessary, but at once take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., (Confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

Noted Character Dies.

The man who built the first steamer used on Lake Champlain, died last week at his home in Brooklyn, N. Y. He was John Englis, aged 82 years, for half a century a prominent figure in the shipbuilding trade. He was 17 years old when he went to work for his father and three years later built the first Lake Champlain steamer at Whitehall, N. Y.

Black Sugar Not Used.

Vermonters from all over Western Massachusetts attended the annual maple sugar festival held in the Auditorium April 6 under auspices of the Springfield Vermont association. The principal speakers were Gov. Charles W. Gates of Vermont and Dr. John S. Lyon of the Holyoke chamber of commerce, who is a former resident of South Londonderry.

The Business Must Pay.

Fifty-two applications for license to sell intoxicating liquors have been received by the license commissioner of Rutland. Twenty-one of these are first-class licenses, 18 for second-class, five for third-class and eight for seventh-class licenses. Fifteen licenses will be granted by the board. At West Rutland nine applications for second class licenses were received, one board having announced that only second class licenses would be issued. West Rutland is entitled to three licenses.

Churches Show Gain.

J. M. Comstock, the statistician for the Congregational churches of Vermont has sent his figures to the publisher of the denominational year book. The present membership is 22,659, a gain of 134 over 1913. During the year there were 1216 additions to the churches, the largest number received for five years. The membership in the Sunday schools January 1 was 18,545, an increase of 137 over 1913. There is a gain of 456 in the membership of young people's societies, which now amount to 5014.

Revenue Shrinks at St. Albans.

The shrinkage of $53,459 in revenues collected is found in the monthly report of the customs district No. 2, which includes Vermont and the county of Coos in New Hampshire, as compared with the corresponding month last year, which included western Vermont only. The shrinkage is credited generally to the situation resulting from the war. The duties collected this year were $7,536, as against $60,995 last. The total exports this year were $2,974,878; last year $85,954. The total imports this year were $1,619,873; last year, $1,183,389.

Deserves Carnegie Medal.

Four-year-old James L. Packard of White River, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Packard, proved himself a hero when he rescued a six-year-old brother, Alfred, from drowning in the White River at a point where the water was six feet deep, on April 7. The accident occurred 100 feet above the new White River bridge. The little brothers were playing on the right bank, when, unseen by the younger boy, the older one slid down the bank into the river. The first the younger boy knew of his brother's predicament was when he saw a hand raised from the water near the bank. James, instead of running away for help, rushed to the edge of the bank and when Alfred rose again to the surface grasped one of his hands, digging his heels into the ground to gain a firm hold. Finally he managed to pull his brother from the water.

Big Salvation Army Meeting.

Ensign Thomas Fowler announces that the largest Salvation Army meeting that has been held in Burlington for years will take place in that city Wednesday evening, April 14, when Brigadier Wm. Andrews of Hartford, Conn., the divisional officer, and Adjutant Tyler of Boston, the Provincial Young People's secretary, will speak at the Methodist Episcopal church and some local officers will be commissioned. Brigadier Andrews is one of the pioneers in Salvation Army work on this continent and is a fluent speaker. Adjutant Tyler has devoted his whole time to the young people's work and knows the conditions prevailing in New England thoroughly as he visits every city. Ensign Fowler says that everybody ought to hear these gifted officers, and that great things are expected by the officers and soldiers of the official corps.

Publicity for Vermont.

The state of Vermont will, the coming season, receive a generous amount of publicity through the efforts of the Green Mountain club, of which Dr. Louis J. Paris of Burlington, is chairman of the membership committee. While the publicity, in the form of a 16-page booklet, is designed to exploit the attractions of the Long Trail along the Green Mountain range it is bound to attract to the state summer visitors who will find recreation in many other ways than tramping along the sky-line of Vermont. It is through Dr. Paris's efforts that the booklet in an edition of 62,500 will be distributed outside the state. He has interested the railroads to some extent in the advisability of assisting in this line of publicity and is now endeavoring to create a livelier interest in Vermont scenic attractions among hotel proprietors who would be particularly benefited through increased summer tourist business. The cost of printing and circulating the booklet is borne by members of the Green Mountain club.

Cost of Legislature 1915.

The Vermont legislature of 1915 cost the state $118,355.50, according to figures compiled in the state treasurer's office. This sum may be increased by $2,000 as the indexing of the house and state journals is not included and there are a few other items of minor import to be considered. The session of 1912, which lasted 119 days, cost

CALEDONIA COUNTY.

About 70 graduates of St. Johnsbury academy assembled March 26 at the Hotel Bellevue, Boston, for the 12th annual reunion dinner of the alumni association.

Judge G. C. Frye of the Caledonia municipal court held his first official session Apr. 3, and the judicial machinery rolled along smoothly and without interruption.

A. H. Dinsmore, director of the U. S. fish hatchery, will give a lantern slide talk at the Fairbanks museum Saturday evening, April 17, at 8 o'clock. His subject will be "The Story of the Salmon."

W. M. Weeks of Lyndonville is taking the manufacturing statistics in the Vermont district for the national census bureau. He has two or three counties, including Caledonia, and the work will take several months' time.

Frank Brooks of Lyndonville came to town one night recently and went to the Sheldon House and stopped until he had stolen a watch valued at $45 when he left and went to Wells River. The theft was discovered in time for the officers to get the young man there and he was brought back to jail.

At the next regular meeting of Green Mountain Grange of St. Johnsbury, which will be held April 17, it will be "Educational Night." Hon. Mason S. Stone, state superintendent of education, will be with us and speak on the "Educational Situation in the State." The program will be open to the public.

Since one of the committees of the Woman's club in St. Johnsbury has undertaken the responsibility of preparing hot soups for the noonday lunch of school children at a small expense to each one, an average of 40 children have been served each day. Soup is served for two cents a bowl and a sandwich for one cent.

At a recent meeting of the directors for the Red School House association, it was voted to erect within the remodeled building a memorial fireplace and to request each member of the association, who felt so inclined, to furnish and deliver on the site of the new building at South Wheelock, a stone taken from their farms or their father's farms, and to request that the stones be used in the construction of the memorial fireplace. Members may obtain further information or make known their wishes and intentions regarding this matter to John Buckley, South Wheelock, or Gordon Goss of St. Johnsbury.

At the special St. Johnsbury town meeting recently it was voted to join with the railroad and the state in abolishing the Bowker and Bacon railroad crossings just this side of St. Johnsbury Center. A bridge will be built across the river a little north of the Bowker crossing and a road made on the east side of the river to connect with the main road at St. Johnsbury Center. It is estimated that it will cost from $23,000 to $26,000 to do this. From the Ayer place, near the Bacon crossing, a road will be built over the hill, coming into the Center village at the station crossing. This work is estimated to cost about $6,500.

WEST BURKE

John Buzzell is quite seriously ill. Miss Celia Spencer is ill at the hospital in Waltham, Mass.

Mrs. Chas. Spencer spent several days with friends in Lyndonville last week.

Several children about the village have been ill with grip during the past week.

Mrs. Ward Wheeler, who has been caring for John Cole, is at home again.

Frank Price and family moved last week to Waitsfield. His sister, Mrs. Parker, and her three children will remain here for the present.

The junior boys and girls will give an entertainment in the M. E. vestry Friday evening, April 16. There will be tableaux, music and a farce entitled, "No Girls Admitted." The boys and girls have worked hard to make this a success so please come and repay them for their work.

Mrs. Jane Phillips, aged 79 years, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. A. D. Fogg, Friday evening, after a short illness of pneumonia. A brief prayer service was held here Sunday morning, after which the remains were taken to her old home in Glover, and buried beside her husband, Oscar Phillips, who died 33 years ago. The flowers sent by loving friends were beautiful. Mrs. Phillips has lived with Mr. and Mrs. Fogg for the past twenty years, and will be greatly missed.

John G. Cole, who has been a great sufferer from cancer of the throat for several years, died April 5th. He was born in Newark December 28, 1844 and in 1869 he married Miss Florilla Fairbanks of his native town. Two children were born to them, Elva and Frank, neither of whom are living. In 1874 they moved to the farm in Burke, now owned by Elmer Cox, where Mrs. Cole died. In 1881 Mr. Cole was united in marriage to Miss Mary Jane Thompson, who survives him. Twenty years ago the family came to West Burke, first living in the house now owned by F. H. Frasier, and then moving to the state $183,707.76, so that a saving of about $65,000 is enjoyed this year over 1912. Lawmaking by the house cost the people $102,381.70, this sum including mileage of the members, $4,846.20; their pay at $4 per diem, and the pay of the clerks, pages and bookkeepers. The senate took away $15,973.80 from the state's coffers for the same labor. The principal cause of reduction in legislative expense was the fact that the session just adjourned lasted 31 days less than the preceding general assembly, but there were two other items which contributed toward the saving. In 1912 three adjournments were taken, election time, Thanksgiving and Christmas, and owing to these vacations taken by the solons, the mileage debentures were more than ordinarily large. This year, the legislature stuck to its job from January 6, until final adjournment and caused the state to save nearly $9,000 in mileage alone.
