It hardly seems possible but it's time to begin to think about the Orleans county fair. It's only a little over one month away—August 17, 18, 19, 20.

It is strange indeed that about 25 in a school district of several hundred voters should be all that are interested enough in the district's affairs to present themselves at an annual meeting.

The St. Johnsbury Caledonian is receiving many deserved compliments on its recent special issue on the "Pure Bred Cattle of Caledonia County." The amount of pure-bred stock now on our farms is surprising and is increasing rapidly.

Don't fret, fellows. We'll have a summer meeting of the Vermont Press association and announcement will soon be made. It is obvious that a meeting to please the boys who want to meet out of the state and those who want to meet in the state cannot well be arranged—unless it might be called in Barton, which the Rutland Herald thinks is really out of the state.

The Morrisville Messenger in the course of a discussion of the local option vs. prohibition question says: "Which can best control a traffic we all admit is bad in every way." A traffic "we all admit is bad in every way," is right. Then why license that which we all know to be bad? Is there no issue back of the "control" of this thing which we all know is bad "in every way?"

The Monitor is especially pleased to see two young people with pluck and courage enough to start a little summer stopping-place at Willoughby lake. People in town were skeptical a few years ago when some young ladies announced their intention of taking summer people in Barton. But a scenic location, comfortable and wholesome accommodations and genial companionship has made the enterprise highly successful. So will comfort and cleanliness and geniality with the natural beauties of Willoughby lake make this enterprise successful.

There is little likelihood of the great European conflict ending with this season's campaign as many have predicted. In all probability another winter will pass and still another summer campaign be necessary to decide the conflict. At present the Germanic forces appear to be gaining more ground than the other armies and while they may be in the end driven back, it is no easy matter to pry the German armies from ground upon which they have once set foot. From any information obtainable it would seem that millions of men must yet be sacrificed and billions of dollars wasted before anything like a decisive turn in affairs from armed fighting will result.

The Vermont newspapers' news columns are the principal means of publicity for the various summer schools of Vermont and the copy from the various headquarters of these schools is quite "numerous and weighty." None of the papers appear to derive any benefit from advertising these schools whatever and much of the material asked to be printed is far from being news. Here is another institution added to the backs of the newspapers. There is no body of men in Vermont so long-suffering and easy in this regard as the publisher. None of us object to a liberal amount of news announcements about these schools but the aggregate amount from all the schools is enormous and becomes a burden which must be shoved off along with a dozen other excellent things the newspaper is called upon to support to such an extent that the very thing we often design to help, aid and assist, becomes a burden.

OPPORTUNITY.

The lesson which life repeats and constantly enforces is "Look under foot." You are always nearer the divine and the true sources of your power than you think. The lure of the distant and the difficult is deceptive. The great opportunity is where you are. Do not despise your own place and hour. Every place is under the stars, every place is the center of the world.—John Burroughs.

WHAT THE PAPERS SAY.

Just Scratched the Surface. The announcement from Washington that Vermont is the second state in the Union in the production of talc and soapstone is another reminder that we have only scratched the surface of our mineral wealth. There are immense deposits of talc in the state that have never been developed or utilized.—Bartlettboro Reformer.

Massachusetts Politics.

People in this section will have a close interest in Massachusetts politics this fall as Samuel W. McCall, a native of Lyndon, is a candidate for the governorship and Calvin Coolidge of Northampton, a native Vermonter and a graduate of St. Johnsbury academy, is a candidate for the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor.—St. Johnsbury Caledonian.

Mrs. Chase's Good Work.

Ever hear about the home gardens movement at Lyndonville? Mrs. John Chase told the Vermont Federation of Women's clubs an interesting story of what has been accomplished in this line. Starting out in a very small way, the movement has grown to huge proportions and now includes 600 children who are competing for prizes and are being educated in a practical manner toward better citizenship and economic independence. The prizes are offered and won in a spirit of friendly rivalry in 18 divisions, one being for canning among the girls. She claims that these gardens reduce the cost of living by teaching the children to be producers, and there is an aesthetic value because the children are to observe nature and appreciate landscapes, and above all, it is singularly adapted to the needs of the state. She recommended that there be garden class teachers under state control.—Bartlettboro Reformer.

Mr. Vail Not to Leave Vermont.

We are very glad to be able to state on the best of authority that the Hon. Theodore N. Vail is not to leave Vermont. Like many another resident of the Green Mountain state Mr. Vail finds it necessary to spend the cold season in a warmer climate than Vermont affords. The announcement that he is to establish a winter home in New Jersey, where his daughter resides and where he will be near the headquarters of many of the great business interests of this country in New York, had been interpreted by some of the metropolitan papers as indicating his intention to abandon Vermont. The people of this state who have come to admire Mr. Vail for his many splendid qualities as a man, as a citizen, as an educator and as a generous public benefactor will rejoice to know that the large extent of land in northeastern Vermont in which Mr. Vail takes just pride as owner is in no danger whatever of becoming an "abandoned farm."—Burlington Free Press.

Local Optionists Forget Other Towns.

The sincerity of some of the men whose names appear on the official roll of the Local Option league is not questioned by the Enosburg Falls Standard, but the contemporary decides that it is natural enough to infer that some members of that official board are frankly friendly to the liquor interests and may consistently be voting for the saloon in their respective communities at each recurring March election. The contemporary may be right in the opinion that "some" of the officers of the Local Option league are active advocates of, and voters for, the saloon in their communities. But an interesting feature in connection with the issue before the people of Vermont is that while many an advocate of local option does not, for a minute, desire the legalizing of a saloon in his town, he is perfectly willing that the liquor interests shall make all the havoc they can in some other town; and so it is quite fair to presume that, when he advocates local option, he is either forgetting the debauching influence which the license town can exert upon neighboring communities, or he does not stop to think anything about it, or he does not care anything about it. If he simply forgets, there may be some excuse for him. If he refuses to think in this direction, or does not care as to results, then he is hardly to be regarded as deeply concerned in the protection of other communities besides his own. The Tribune has heard many a local option advocate declare with emphasis that he would not tolerate a saloon in his town—and it has admired him for such declaration. The friends of statewide prohibition are taking the broader view, and conducting their campaign on the ground that what is good for a community whose local option supporters do not want saloons within its limits is good for the entire state, and that the debauching of the smaller town by the larger may wisely be prevented by statute whose beneficent intent shall cover every town.—Ludlow Tribune.

NOW PAINT

Strike when the iron is hot and paint when property needs it. They paint ships a dozen times a year; yes, some of them every voyage. What for, do you think? To look nice and get business. A lively keeps its carriages painted and varnished and washed, to look nice and get business. A man, with a house for sale or to let, "does it up," and Devoe is the paint. There's more in paint than to keep out water. Paint for looks and you needn't think about water. A fresh coat of paint once a year is about as good for his credit as paying his debts. But the man whose buildings and fences look new, very likely has no debts. DEVOE The E. W. Barron Company sells it. Simply This. "Come in and have it charged," was the inviting sign in front of a place of business in a certain town. A stranger, being somewhat low in funds, walked in briskly. "I understand that I can get things charged here," he said, addressing one of the employees. "Only storage batteries," replied the other man.

STATE NEWS

Vermont Cattle at the State Fair.

Vermont cattle raisers are expected to make big showings of their stock at the Vermont state fair at White River Junction September 14, 15, 16 and 17. The only competition they will have this year will come from New Hampshire and Maine. Therefore, only New England stock will be on exhibition. The idea seems to have prevailed in some quarters of the state that cattle from other states should not be allowed to compete with native stock at the state fair and this policy of open competition that has governed in past years has prevented many Vermont farmers from making entries. With the field limited to but three states, Vermonters are expected to exert themselves to win the prizes which aggregate $20,000 the same liberal awards as in past years. The executive committee of the Vermont state fair commission is holding frequent meetings these days. The plans as arranged will make the state fair even greater and better than any previous exhibitions. Departments have been enlarged and a program arranged for the four days that is extensive in its scope and includes features that will be most educational and thrilling to the visitors. The premium book for the 1915 exhibition will come from the press in a few days. Anyone can have a copy by sending address to Fred L. Davis, secretary, White River Junction.

Farmers and Grangers Beware.

To the Editor of the Monitor: A slick little fraud being perpetrated upon those in farming communities by a cleverly written article entitled, "Why is Woman Restless?" which has appeared in various papers throughout the state. The same article has appeared under the heading "Know Thy Country." The plate matter is sent to newspapers free of charge supposedly by Agricultural and Commercial Press Service, but in reality it is sent out in the interest of and paid for by the liquor and big business interests, its object being to prejudice voters and readers and thus arrest the onward march of woman suffrage. The National Grange goes on record each year for woman suffrage. The Vermont state Grange has taken similar action. The American Press association and the National Equal Suffrage association desire to place these facts before the reading public and then let the publishers and the people determine whether or not they will become the easy victims of the underhanded liquor and big business interests, are concentrating their efforts upon Vermont this year, and their cleverly written articles will be put out with the deliberate purpose of deceiving the very elect. The liquor men and the anti-suffragists are always against suffrage for women. There's a reason. Don't let them fool you. Annette W. Parmelee, Enosburg Falls.

Vermont Notes.

A gift of $20,000 from prominent Fair Haven citizens toward a $50,000 school house was accepted at the school meeting last week.

In wild flower contest in a Guilford school, 170 different specimens were gathered. Faith Head won the prize bringing 45 different varieties.

The degree of LL. D., was conferred upon Gov. Gates by the U. V. M., at its commencement last week and T. N. Vail was given the degree of Sc. D., by the same institution.

The first claim under the new workman's compensation act, which became effective Thursday, was filed Friday morning, the person injured being Eugene Foster of Bellows Falls, 67 years old, stableman who lost one finger between 10 and 11 o'clock Thursday.

Dr. B. H. Stone of Burlington, state pathologist, was in St. Johnsbury Friday and conducted an autopsy upon the body of Michael Higgins, who was found dead in a highway building Thursday night under suspicious circumstances. No marks of violence were found.

Frank Bickford of Waterbury was thrown from a runaway team about 11 o'clock Thursday night and struck on a barbed wire fence, one of the brads cutting his throat so that he bled to death before he could be helped. Bert Allen, who was with him, had one ear almost torn off, his cheek was cut and he received an injury on the abdomen and other cuts and bruises.

A dramatic second reader is to be issued soon by Little, Brown & Company, whose author is Miss Margaret Doherty, a teacher in the Barre City schools, a native of Northampton, more than a year and a half Miss Doherty has been working on the reader, and educators to whom she has submitted the proofs for criticism are unanimous in their opinion that the book will fill a long-felt want. The book is to be composed of dramatic versions of favorite folk-lore tales and is to be profusely illustrated in colors.

Through G. Fara Forni, Italian consul-general in New York, a large number of Barre Italians have been called to join the colors, although the number of responses is few. Thus far, only young men between the ages of 21 and 26 years have been asked to return to Italy. Among those who have received notices there is a disposition to postpone action until it becomes more apparent that the home land is greatly in need of defenders. It is estimated that nearly 500 Italians in the Barre granite belt are liable to service.

Fines imposed upon Vermont fishermen in one week will approximate $1,000, and several cases are not yet disposed of. If "short trout" fishermen continue their activities for the remainder of the open season with the same diligence they have thus far shown, the state will be able to go into the money-lending business. Fish and Game Commissioner John W. Titcomb says that his deputies are determined to reduce the mortality among short trout. He states that one of the strongest features of the new fishing law is the penalty for whipping a stream without a license. Another deterrent is the revocation of a fisherman's license. Both of these sections of the law make ordinary fishermen chary about taking chances.

EXTRA DIVIDENDS

are the surest evidence of the "Mutual" feature of financial institutions. This bank has made two such dividends in the past two years in addition to paying the regular guaranteed rate of four per cent. Future extra dividends will depend entirely upon the growth of business and consequent earnings. Why not join the list of our depositors and thereby make it possible that further "extras" be declared? FOUR PER CENT IN ANY EVENT!—Possibly More

A SHORT HAY CROP

Farmers in Distress over the Outlook. What is Being Done to Relieve the Situation.

Farmers in many sections of Vermont are much concerned regarding the poor condition of the hay crop. It is claimed that in some parts of the state not over half the usual crop will be harvested. A good second crop will be the only relief this season from extremely high prices before next spring.

The Agricultural Experts are proving their worth in this as in many another similar difficulty for they are telling the farmers to top dress with Chemical Fertilizers as soon as the grass is cut and they are likely to get a second crop of hay or "Rowen" nearly as large, and if properly handled, of much greater value as a milk producer than the first crop.

The Vermont Experiment Station in one of their recent bulletins recommend Formulas especially adapted for summer top dressing.

If you will send your name and address to C. S. Page, Hyde Park, Vt., he will send you a copy of these Formulas free, postpaid, together with directions for mixing, cost of materials, etc., Hadn't you better write him today?—News and Citizen.

GOOD TREATMENT FOR OILY SCALPS

Men and women whose hair and scalp are excessively oily suffer more in the warmer months than at any other time. The summer's dust and dirt mingle with dandruff, cling to the oily hair and scalp, clog the scalp pores, stifle the hair roots and make proper cleansing almost impossible.

Parisian Sage is an ideal treatment for this trouble. Wash the hair not oftener than once a week, but use Parisian Sage twice daily, pouring a little into the parted hair and rubbing briskly right into the scalp with the finger tips. It drives out dandruff, dissolves the excess oil and stimulates the scalp into healthy normal action. Sold by F. D. Pierce and leading druggists everywhere.

Sold and guaranteed in Orleans by F. J. Kinney.
