The Bible school will be in regular session at 12 o'clock.

Please understand, also, that the Methodist church proposes to undertake a great work that is worthy of the new opportunities that have been opened by the great war and all our churches are joining the movement splendidly to do their full part. The work consists of reconstruction in Europe, such as feeding, clothing and housing the refugees; providing for orphans; and building and maintaining schools and aiding the people to rebuild their churches. In this country, it will attempt to Americanize and Christianize the foreign and rural populations that are not now being reached; and in foreign lands to equip our mission schools to the point of efficiency and send them into all the territory that has been assigned to the Methodist church.

There will be a union service Sunday evening at the opera house.

Major Praises Orleans Boy.

Camp Devens, Mass. May 28, 1919.

Mr. Editor:

As the 301st T. S. B. is now being mustered out I wish to say a word of praise for the boys who have done their bit and some of them have done more.

I call your attention to Fred S. Estey of your town who served his country in a clean and gentlemanly manner. Estey was rated as a horse-shoer but as we were motorized he was used as a truck driver and his equal was not found in the A. E. F. Driving a three-ton Liberty motor which was known by all his fellow companions as "Big Helen." Many nights "Helen" was heard barking over the muddy roads of France, delivering telephone wire and supplies to Co. C, 301st. Estey knows the sting of mustard gas and well he knows the shelled roads. His helper, was Harry Dane of Richford. These boys have been great pals while they labored together.

Every officer and man in the 301st knows Estey and Dane as the "dare-devil pair." These two boys have lived under my command and with pleasure I handed them honorable discharges with a hearty handshake. Long may they live to tell their experiences while in France.

Yours with haste,

Major J. J. Fanning,
