Read this Barton testimony: Leonel Blanchette, farmer, R. F. D. 2, says: "A few years ago I used Doan's Kidney Pills when my kidneys were out of order and my back was very sore. It was brought on by a strain. My back pained awfully when I strained it. It felt as though my back would break and I was afraid to stoop. When I would do the least little work I was all in and would have to lay down. My kidneys were very weak and I had to pass the secretions many times. I read of Doan's Kidney Pills and got several boxes. They relieved me wonderfully and I am glad to recommend them for they are very good."

Price 60c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Blanchette had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

Man the Image of God

Sunday School Lesson for Feb. 13 '21.

Scripture Matthew 22:15-22, 34-40.

By Rev. F. E. Davison, Derby, Vt.

One of the most crafty schemes that was ever devised against Christ was the plot concerning the tribute money. His enemies concocted a project by which they expected to catch him, going or coming, and ruin his influence and get him put out of the way. They brought up the question of the taxes, and cunningly inquired whether he favored paying tribute to Caesar or not. You see, which ever way he answered, they would have him in a trap. If he said, "Pay," he would antagonize every member of his race, who writhed under the Roman yoke. If he said, "Do not pay," he would be guilty of treason, and so they thought. You see, which ever way he answered, they would have him in a trap. If he said, "Pay," he would antagonize every member of his race, who writhed under the Roman yoke. If he said, "Do not pay," he would be guilty of treason, and so they thought. You see, which ever way he answered, they would have him in a trap.

GOVERNMENT STAMPS SHOWS ITS VALUE

This is an object lesson of tremendous import. The government melts the gold in the crucible, cools it in the mold, and then turns it into money by putting it under a die, and stamping upon it an image and superscription. You have no difficulty in identifying the piece and stating its value when you can see the image and superscription. So it is with man. The first chapter of the book of Genesis states where man came from, who made him, and his value. "And God said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness." And the first human coin that fell from the hand of its maker bore His image and superscription.

VAST AMOUNT OF DEBASED COIN

Looking at man in the large however is like beholding a display of coin that has been badly used. The most of it is tainted money. One has but to work to realize that God has made some men. The world is full of lying, drunken, selfish, plotting, scheming, cruel, foolish, vain, licentious, murderous men and women. They sneer, they leer, they scowl, they mock, they blaspheme. They are the victims of all sorts of diseases, and at the best it is the schoolmaster, the tailor and the butcher who are to be given credit for their fair appearance. Just as coins get clipped, and punched, and mutilated, and degraded until they are scarcely distinguishable, and are then redeemed from handling them in circulation, so there are people so badly mutilated by the rough usage of the world that the image and superscription is nearly worn off.

DARWINIAN THEORY PLAUSIBLE

When we look at some men it is easy to believe in the Darwinian theory. One could readily be convinced that their ancestral tree was a cocoon tree all a chatter with Simian grandfathers and grandmothers. Their pedigree might run as follows: The protoplasm begat a zoophyte, and the zoophyte begat a germ, and the germ begat a jelly-cell, and the jelly-cell begat a tadpole, and the tadpole begat a monkey and the monkey begat man. But that is not the general impression of man. The evolution of a monkey into a man the world has never seen, albeit the descent of man into a monkey can be seen every day in every quarter of the globe.

GENESIS THEORY PREFERABLE

Of course, if a man wishes to trace his ancestry to the monkey squirming on the top of the organ grinder's music box he is welcome to do so, and no one will try to argue him out of the notion. But the majority of people prefer the sublime genealogy of Holy Writ. A Patriarch, which was the son of Abraham, which was the son of Noah, which was the son of Adam, which was the son of God. "He became a living soul." Even if it should be proven that man's body was once a monkey, and before that a tadpole, and before that a little wriggle, the average man is something better than that at the present time; he has grander possibilities wiser than the serpent, gentler than the dove, stronger than the lion, more servicable than the ox, truer than the dog, and more aspiring than the eagle; but whether you recognize and fill your mission as a living soul by obedience, and teachableness and faith. The best man and the worst man needs God's help inside of him, or the devil will get him easily as he got the first man in the garden of Eden.

It is easy enough to believe that some people were made in the image of God. They are fresh minted coin. The attrition of the world has not seemed to effect them. They do not seem to wear away, and lose the sharp outline, the distinct superscription. You can always read upon their faces, "In God we Trust." And that, not because they are kept in cabinets only for inspection. No! They are kept bright by circulation. What cheer and hope and release from bondage they bring to men. They make us believe in a divine creator in spite of the counterfeit stuff in circulation.

POOR SPECIMENS, BUT GENUINE

But it is not absolutely necessary to have a first class appearance to be genuine coin. Some coins are poor specimens, but they pass current just the same. The image and superscription is almost worn off. The coin is battered and defaced. It has been maltreated by men, worn by children, yet it will buy just as many groceries as a piece of money fresh from the mint. And it is that way with men. The "man" is "within" the man. Not the color of his skin, but the color of his heart. Appearances are deceitful. Pickpockets often look like clergymen, and Diogenes the Greek philosopher lived in a tub. There are men who act like the devil in public and weep like David, the sinner, in private. And he who saw the saint in the Magdalen, and the apostle in the fisherman, and the world-missionary in the Pharisee, still sees the image of God where it is undistinguishable by the eyes of men.

LOVE THE SUPERSCRPTION

Love is the superscription of the coin. Only one word, LOVE. Love in its two fold-aspect, first, toward God, second, toward man. All the law and all the commandments are summed up in one great word,—LOVE.

HELD IN ARMENIA

days we began to hear the guns, and see the deserting Armenian soldiers come straggling back, not always so deliberately "straggling" either, and gradually we realized that the Turks were winning, and coming fast toward Alexandropol. Our chief, Capt. Yarrow, ordered that each American, whether man or woman, should be placed in charge of one or more buildings connected with our orphanage. I took my bed and few possessions to my warehouse office, where I have been sleeping ever since, and Clark was assigned to one of the girls' orphan buildings. This was very essential, as no one knew what the Turk would do—be it massacre all the children or what. At all costs, we were to stick by the orphans, no matter what happened, and lucky for them, our assistants fled and left them, and had we left, or even hesitated, there would have been such panic that no one could have controlled them, and they would have run to the mountains and starved or frozen, for the bare intimation of "Turk" sent the children and what.
