The Imperial Instrumentalists Friday Night.

The second number in the Barton Lyceum course comes Friday evening in Durkee's hall, the number being the Imperial Instrumentalists, comprising six women artists.

This promises to be one of the most popular numbers in the whole course.

The program is a revelation. Standard and popular numbers follow each other in rapid succession. There are no waits—solos, duets, quartets and sextets with the instrumental and vocal intermingled.

Note the variety—three saxophones, two trombones, two violins, cornet, piano traps, xylophone, and they all sing well. An added feature will be the appearance of Emily Taylor, soprano. Emily Taylor is a pupil of Morris Parkery of Boston.

Her singing is delightful and very claims her an artist of decided merit. Because of her youth and manner, as well as talent, she has had an ever-increasing number of admirers.

Tickets at Pierce's.

ter an illness covering a period of several years. Miss Rowell was born in Irasburg but came to Barton about 30 years ago. She formerly taught school and was employed in a store at South Albany. She has been a member of the M. E. church since a girl, was a member of the local chapter O. E. S., and the Woman's Literary club. Funeral services were held from the home of her mother, Mrs. L. P. Page, with whom she lived, Friday, Rev. W. C. Johnson of Derby officiating, assisted by Revs. Turner and Hutchinson. Interment was in the South Albany cemetery.

She leaves her mother, and two sisters, Mrs. A. G. Williams and Mrs. H. G. Perley, both residents of this place, besides more distant relatives.

The regular meeting of the Woman's Literary club was held with Mrs. Ruth Webster Wednesday evening, November 24. There were 23 members and two visitors present. The secretary's report was read and accepted. The names of Miss Marion Redfield, Mrs. Kitty May, and Mrs. Chaucey Smith were voted upon. Each was elected to membership. After the business meeting a very enjoyable Halloween program followed. Mrs. Turner read "A Mournful Tale," Miss Redfield, accompanied by Miss Blood, sang two solos entitled "The Fairy Pipers," and "The Night Wind." Following this everyone took part in a peanut game. Misses Morris and Winslow sang a duet entitled "Autumn Day," also a piano solo was given by the latter. A bean contest was next in order followed by an apple game. The evening was much enjoyed by all present.

In the last report of the Woman's Literary club meeting the name of Miss Marion Carter was omitted by error in this office from the list of persons elected to membership. Club children's night is to be held at Improvement Club rooms. Business meeting at 7 o'clock sharp followed by entertainment by the children.

Clifford Escapes from House of Correction

Henry C. Clifford made a clean get away from the house of correction at Windsor Saturday afternoon and up to last evening had not been apprehended.

Clifford had only been at the institution about a month.

He appeared before Judge Wright Monday Oct. 10th charged with operating an automobile on the public highway unlicensed. Secretary of State Harry A. Black was present at the hearing and urged a smart punishment, owing to his repeated breaking of the traffic laws.

Clifford received a sentence of not less than six months or more than one year at the house of correction. Owing to his advanced age and family, and crowded conditions at the institution he has been continuing on his terms. Clifford was under bail in New Hampshire courts on serious charges when he received his sentence from Judge Wright.

Escaping from a state institution places Clifford in a position to have his prison term extended from one to five years and the same is being done in New Hampshire hanging over him does not present a rosy appearance for his future.

for H. J. Phillips and O. Phillips while they are on their hunting trip.

Mrs. Baird from East Albany and Mrs. Melvin Richardson from Magog visited their cousin, Clarence Wilson, last Friday.

ELECTRIC PLANT IMPROVEMENTS

Fully $7,500 Being Spent on Barton Municipal Electric System.

A new $6,000 transformer station, with other new equipment and an installing cost of $1,500, is nearing completion on village property near the upper end of High street. When complete it will add safety and convenience as well as giving provision for expansion.

The present transformer station is a wooden structure on Harrison avenue. Should this building burn and destroy the transformer it would probably require several weeks to install a new transformer station. That there is always danger of fire in a wooden structure is well known and with high voltages such as enter this substation, there is double danger both as to fire and in fighting a fire.

Steps were taken toward a new plant when the property at the upper end of High street was purchased a few years ago, where village storage outbuildings have been erected.

In addition to the fire hazard there has been danger resulting from the 12,000-volt wires entering the village at the upper end of High street and running to the present sub-station. Since the new station is strictly fire proof and takes 12,000-volts at the very entrance of the village two hazards have been eliminated.

Two transformers weighing two tons each have been placed on a large cement pier and the pier is large enough to accommodate another transformer when increased demand for current calls for another. The capacity of the two new transformers is about twice that of the present equipment. These transformers will have a covering but will have proper protection about them for the public. The wires from the Charleston plant enter the transformers from a steel tower 18 feet high and through a huge switch weighing a ton. The latest thing in a lightning arrester is also being installed. A switch-house 14 feet built of cement, roof, walls and floor, will house the switches for the different sections of the village. This feature will be a great improvement over the present arrangement.

A new switch-out for the Nichols system will be connected with the Barton wires has also been installed. Many new poles have also been set.

A complete new copper telephone line has been run on the electric polls from the plant in Charleston to the village office. Chief Electrician Clarence Towle had to the Orleans village office for the exclusive use of the village and the plant's employees. A portable receiver and transformer allows one working on the line anywhere over its 15 miles of distance to tap in and talk to any station on the line.

About 225 bags of cement have been used in the construction, a new mixer having been purchased for this and other villages uses.

The improvements are in the line of permanent betterments which provide for the enlargement of the system. The work is being done by the village employees, Hazen Clark, chief electrician, superintendent; Street Superintendent Sargent doing the manual work and F. W. Cutting, executive for the trustees, in general charge.

The village is also constructing several rods of new cement sidewalk at the south end of High street which was badly needed and adds greatly to the appearance of the street as well as to the convenience of the pedestrian traffic on that street.

These improvements in connection with the side walk work done early in the summer over a considerable portion of the village constitutes improvements in the village of a public nature in excess of anything done in recent years.

Next week we hope to give a summary of improvements made by primary property owners in the village. These have been many and marked improvements of more than usual size and substantial character.

"What Is Vermont?"

Following a suggestion from C. H. Dempsey, state commissioner of education in an address, at the teachers' convention at Rutland, the eighth grade pupils of Newport schools have been composing poems upon the question "What is Vermont?" The following poem was written by Alfine Buck and is one of the best received:

Vermont has hills and lakes and streams
And many places that are like dreams.

Some streams are swift
Where boats can drift,
Others have rocks
Where herds and flocks
Come down to drink
Upon the brink.

There are beautiful mountains with nature's paintings,
There are wooded hills that furnish pulp mills;

There is many a lake
And quarries of slate,
There is many a city
That is very pretty,
And many horses
And marble resources.

Pupils of the seventh and eighth grades who received an average of 90 per cent on all subjects for the first half of the fall term, and therefore, are members of the Honor Roll, are: Helen Shepard, Alfine Buck, Medora Kendall, Gordon Keith, Alice Grow, John Bryan, Lucile Robinson and Royal Young.

Somewhere in the world there is being held between five and seven hundred millions in German marks. It is believed to be held by speculators who are hoping for a rise in exchange.

More than a thousand children, some as young as eight years, have been found working in the Colorado beet fields. An examination revealed 70 per cent with postural deformities.

Total wheat production this year of the 29 leading wheat growing countries of the world, excluding Russia, reached 2,852,825,000 bushels, or approximately 190,000,000 bushels more than in 1920.

MILK PRODUCERS TO HOLD COUNTY MEETING

Every farmer in the Orleans district of the New England Milk Producers' association is invited to attend the annual meeting of the district association in Newport Monday, November 14, at 1.30 o'clock in the afternoon, at School hall, Wesley H. Bronson, in charge of the research and statistical department of the central association, will be present to discuss some of the important problems which confront the dairy industry of New England at the present time.

While the meeting is primarily for members
