COOKING STOVE. THE attention of the public is respectfully invited to examine the merits of the "Woolson Improved Cook Stove." The following remarks and certificates may furnish some information respecting the stove, where the same has not been in use.

There are more than six thousand of Woolson's Patent Cook Stoves in use in New England, which give universal satisfaction, and complete successfully with the various kinds of Cook Stove in use, not excepting the latest invented and most puffed. A FURNACE for hard or soft coal or small fuel has been recently attached to the stove, for summer use, in such a manner as to be used in boiling, and also for the baking of small bread, and that, too, with the smallest possible consumption of fuel, being so arranged as not in the slightest degree to interfere with the other operations of the stove. This stove is found to afford the advantages of an ordinary Cooking Stove, and when in use, does not cause inconvenience by giving out heat, smoke or gas.

A valuable improvement in ROASTING has been added to this Stove which will roast meat, fowls, &c. in a more perfect and satisfactory manner than can be done in any other way, the old fashioned ten foot fire place not excepted. The oven is warranted superior to that of any other stove in use, the heat around the same being more even and quickly controlled than in any other stove yet introduced; for such as choose, an elevated oven is added and so arranged as not to interfere with the top of the Stove, being quite accessible and out of the way, and equal to any thing of the kind in use.

The Proprietor wishes it to be distinctly understood that the top of this Stove does not revolve, its construction being such that it is the decided opinion of those who have had them in use, that the Boilers are at all times in precisely the right place. There is to this Stove an aperture for an unusually large Boiler, so arranged that the heat is applied to the best possible advantage, affording a convenience for heating a large quantity of water or for dairy use, superior to any stove yet introduced; whether in boiling, baking, or broiling; frying, roasting, or toasting, they have invariably proved deserving of the commendations bestowed upon them, and it is confidently asserted that no other Cooking Stove in the market can do so much business with so little fuel in any given space of time as Woolson's Improved Patent.

The top of this Stove being large and of an even surface, with considerable space unoccupied by the boiler, adds greatly to its convenience and value. The construction and operation of this Stove being such as to render the top at all times of a different temperature on different parts of its surface, so much so that while liquids are boiling in flat bottom vessels upon one part, other parts will be found to vary from boiling down to blood heat, therefore forming the best possible place to boil coffee, make tea, gravies, &c., and to place cooked dishes upon, which it is desirable to keep warm until served up. Persons who have used this Stove, regard the convenience of the top as nearly indispensable.

Extract of a letter from the Hon. Charles Marsh, of Woodstock, Vt., who had one of the Stoves on trial.

We are perfectly satisfied with the operation of your Stove, and think of nothing but retaining it. The construction of it is convenient, the principles are philosophical, and in experiment it is found to answer every reasonable expectation.

Yours, CHAS. MARSH.

Extract of a letter from Stephen P. Breed, Manufacturer, of Concord, N. H. Mr. Woolson: Sir.—I have used in my family three or four kinds of Cooking Stoves, besides Moon's Patent, and I have taken considerable pains to inform myself on the subject, and the result is, that I consider your "Improved Patent" for economy and convenience, superior to any thing I have seen, and I would not part with the one I have for double its cost, if I could not obtain another of the same kind. Yours, STEPHEN P. BREED. Bath, Aug. 16, 1839.

This may certify that I have one of Woolson's Patent Cooking Stoves in use in my family, and I am of opinion, that for economy in fuel, for convenience in use, and for all the purposes for which a Cooking Stove is required, especially for Baking, it surpasses any other Cooking Stove that I am acquainted with.

GEO. WITHERELL, Manufacturer, Bath, N. H. We, the undersigned, have each of us in use, in our respective families, one of Woolson's Improved Cooking Stoves of the largest size, and we do hereby certify that it is amply sufficient to do the cooking and other work for a family of sixty persons, and we think it an article of primary importance in a large tavern or boarding house. JONA. BUXTON, Milford, N. H. DAVID STEWART, Amherst, do. THOS. CHASE, Nashua, do.

This is to certify that for two years, I used one of "Woolson's Patent Cooking Stoves" in my family, at which time I lived in a house without fireplaces, or ovens, and the Stove (a No. 3.) performed all the Cooking, Baking, heating of water for washing, &c. for a family of ten persons, and was found amply sufficient for the purpose. In my removal from Windsor to this place, I broke up house keeping, and disposed of my Stove. On re-commencing house keeping, the last winter, I was induced, by the strong terms in which they were recommended by the Manufacturers and Tenders, to try a Rotary Top Stove—but after several weeks of fair trial, I was convinced that it was in no respect equal to "WOOLSON'S PATENT" it was not capable of doing near so much business as Woolson's Stove at the same cost, nor of performing what it did do, so well—I had the Rotary taken from my house, and again purchased one of Woolson's Patent, the operation of which on a second trial, only confirmed me in the opinion expressed above. A. W. HATCH. Woodstock, Vt. 1835.

This may certify that within the last three years I have sold more than one hundred of Woolson's Patent Cooking Stoves, and they have given universal satisfaction to purchasers. JOHN BRYANT. Meriden, N. H. Sept. 26, 1833.

This may Certify, that we the undersigned, have in use in our respective families, Woolson's Patent Cooking Stove, and it is our opinion, that for economy in fuel, convenience in use, and for all purposes for which a Cooking Stove is required, especially for Baking, it is superior to any other kind of Cooking Stove with which we are acquainted.
