Time rolled on, but brought no relief to the stricken heart of Mrs. Norton, who, utes, Smoot! wrapt in her selfish grief, saw not that home was becoming more and more distasteful to her husband. Mr. Norton at first felt deeply the forest—the splinters flew—and Putnam fell upon the ground. He was severely one impression to last long, had returned bruised, but laughed the matter off, and nothwith renewed zest to the gaieties which made ing more was thought of it. Drawing the the charm of his existence. The want of nest from his pocket, he said: congenialty between himself and his unbappy wife, was daily more evident. Her it, and I was determined no one should see thoughts, her hopes, were fixed upon another world, forgetful of the duties she owed her fellow-creatures, while a sojourner among them; and more than all, neglecting the happiness and well-being of her husband. Had she—had any wife so situ. Had she—had any wife so situ. ated, descended sometimes from her moral pinnacle, and entered, with apparent interest, into some of his views-she might have eventually obtained so great an influence, as to lead him, a willing captive, into the path!

It was a lovely day, and Norton had strolled into the Bazaar, where the fashion GHEAP CASH time being-in hopes of whiling away an hour pleasantly. The first persons he met was lieutenant Harcourt, and his young sister, who had just made her debut into

'Good morning, Miss Havcourt,' said Norton, joining them—though her brother had scarcely returned his salutation. • 1 heard a young lady say, last evening, she was unxious to make your acquaintance, and that is a great compliment you know. 'Who might that lady be ?' enquired AT BURLINGTON, VERMONT, Hercourt coldly. 'Miss Safford.'

' Your pardon, sir-my sister shall never make the acquaintance of a woman who has so disgraced herself."

· I understand you, sir,-I understand you, execlaimed Norton, pale with rage and mortification, for their loud tones had attracted general attention; 'you shall answer to me for this."

"As you please, sir, I am sorry you have so bad a cause, though," replied Harcourt

Norton turned on his heel, and left the room precipitately; but by the time he had reached his own chamber, his passion had cooled, and he began to tremble for the consequence. It would be impossible now to avoid challenging Harcourt, and the lieutenant was known to be an unerring shot, while he was entirely out of practise. But it could not now be beloed, and after choosing a friend, and putting the affair into his hands, a friend, and putting the affair into his hands, he set about arranging his business with more composure than it might be expected of him. We will not enter into detail—it is sufficient that they met, and Norton received a mortal Nov. 26 '45.

The first intimetion Mrs. Norton had of the fatal affiny, was the bleeding body of her husband borne into the house, and heard, with horror, a recital of the circumstances from his friend. Roused into exertion, she devoted herself for the few remaining days of his life, to alleviating and soothing his sufferings, as far as lay in her power-regardless that the fact of the duel was an insult to herself.

It is scarcely two years, since Annie Taylor left her father's house, with bright visions of the gay world upon which she was entering, and she has now returned to it a childless widow-the silver chord loosed, and the golden bowl broken. Sorrow has quenched the brightness of her eye, and stolen from her rounded form; but upon her placid brow is set the everlasting seal of 'Peace.'

ANECDOTE OF GEN. PUTNAM.

Notwithstanding all that has been said, or may be said to the contrary, the name of Old Put' is destined to go down to posterity as the very embodiment of fearless bravery. The following anecdote of Putnam's boyhood is given by one of the editors of Noah's Messenger.

Putnam's early days were spent as those of most boys placed in his situation in life .-One of his favorite amusements was 'birdresting ' - a cruel and useless custom. The bunts for nests were followed in company, and Putnam was always the leader.

On one occasion he and his companions came across a fine nest, which lodged on a frail branch of a very high tree. There was no way of reaching the nest, except by climbing (which was very difficult,) and venturing out on the branch, which, nine chances to one, would break under the weight of the robber. No one would venture.

Putnam regarded the nest and limb in silence for some moments, and at length said : 'I'll wager there is not a boy for ten miles round that can get that nest."

All agreed with him.
'Pilt try it,' said be, deliberately taking off his jacket and rolling his pantatuens up to his knees. His companions attempted to dissuade him but to know purpose. Go he would.

· I'll fancy that one of the King's strongholds,' said Putnam, 'and may I be -if I don't take it.'

The tree was ascended-the limb gained. Putnam placed his foot upon it, and it creaked. He ventured a foot further; the limb bent low, and a warning murmur rose from the boys below. He put his knee to the branch and reached toward the nest. The limb broke partially — a shout below — and Putnam persevered. His fingers touched hand persevered. His fingers touched hand to be provided by S. S. Skinner as a Saidler's Shop, three doors East of the Putnam persevered.

ASTOUNDING DISCOVERY!

A BLESSING! A MIRACLE!!
A WONDER!!!
To cure Eruptions and Disfigurements of the Skin . Pimples, Freckles, Sunburn, Salt Rheum, Scurey, Sore Heads, Se. Se. Se.

FOUR years ugo last August, the capital of France FOUR years ago last Angust, the capital of France was aston-hed in consequence of a discovery made by an Italian Chemist. Many doubted—at seemed almost an impossibility that any thing made by the hands of man, could have such singular powers as that claimed by Anron's Vesenaxt for his incention. Many classed him and his invention as a humbing, (and, alas I many sholl-h persons without trying, do the same now 1) at length, after testing it in the hospitals, the Medical Society of Paris, (the best chemists in the world,) delivered the following report to Signor Vesprinit.

"We have now minutely and carefully examined the singular invention of Vesprini. We have analyzed its component paris—we have used it in several cases, and we hesitate not to pronounce it (The Italian Chemistal Soap) as a great blessing, and a truly won'derful remetly for any cutaneous graption or designererful remedy for any cutaneous eroption or disfigure-tent of the slite. Its inventor we consider the true philanthropist of suffering mankind, (Signed) LEOPOLD DUPREY, Pres."

Then comes the report of the "Societe de l'Insti-Then comes the report of the "Societe de l'Institute," of scientific experiments:

"We are astrandei," exclaims the aged president, "at this singular oreparation—Vesirini's Italian Chemical Sonp! Where, indeed, wil science stop! Here we have a preparation made in the form of a leantiful piece of suap, which we know by actual practice, to cure every cusaneous eroption, every disagrament of, and even discolored skin! Where will its magic and singular power cease? The Negro, the Creole, the Yellow Race of the East, and the Rei Man of the Far West, are alike under the influence of its extraordinary powers of clearing yellow or discolored skin, and making it white and beautiful, and of changing the color of dark, or black, or brown skin! (Here several persons were brought forward by the president, who had used it, in proof of his assertions.)

F. BROWNS Sarsaparilla and Tomato Bitters.

FREDERICK BROWN, a celebrated chemist of Boston, has succeeded for the first time in combining the medicinal virtues of the Sar-Aparilla and Tonato. Apd the result has met the most sanguine expectations of the medical profession.—The whole vesceable kingdom does not nursish two substances so admirably adapted to purify, neurish and inrigorate the human system. These Bitters have all the effect of the most powerful purgatives when used in subscient quantity, and yet are so mild in their operation that they may be given to persons in the most delicate health with perfect safety. They are very agreeable to the taste.

The component ingredient of these Bitters is no secret.—They are composed of a very strong preparation of the celebrated extract of Spanish Sarsaparilla and the extract of Tomatoes, with the addition of some of the most popular vegetable medicines the country adords.

The troe means of preserving Health and Strength is to porify the blood and correct the unionality state of the Bowels. For this purpose no Medicine has been found equal to the Sarsaparilla and Tomato Bitters.

These excellent bitters will be found a certain cure in all cases of indigestion or dyspepsia, jaundice, loss of avogette, general debility, faintness and sinking of EREDERICK BROWN, a celebrated chemist of

Ma. F. Brows, —Bear Sir: —I am again ont of your Sarsaparilla and Tomato Bitters; It is an article that is much thought of; an old lady from Frankfort, Herkimer County, say she has been conlined to her house for seven years, and this has enabled her to get out. Several in this city say that it is the test meshene they have ever taken.

Please send me a fresh supply soon, as I have not a lottle in the store.

Yours with respect.
